AMERICAN MARINES ARRIVE IN SHANGHAI

BY JOHN POWELL.

(Copyright, 1927, by The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Shanghai, February 24. — Twelve hundred and fifty American marines aboard the transport Chaumont arrived at Shanghai at 8 o'clock this morning after making what is claimed to be a record in the transporting of American forces across the Pacific.

According to the officers this marine regiment contains the championship rifle team of America. The men will remain aboardship unless their services are needed for the protection of American residents and property.

Shanghai, February 24.—(AP)—Foreign residents were called to arms in Shanghai today to prevent possible invasion of their settlements by defeated and demoralized soldiers of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang, deposed ruler of this province of Kiangsu.

Volunteer companies of Americans, Portuguese and Japanese mounted guard to halt any irresponsible body of Chinese soldiers from pouring into the foreign districts and looting homes and business houses, as was done a week ago at Hangchow by the same troops before they were forced from that city by the victorious invading Cantonese.

Trainloads of Sun's troops arrived from Sungkiang, 28 miles south of Shanghai where the army of 40,000 men was reported crumbling and falling back toward Shanghai, without waiting for the attack of the Cantonese, moving northward from Hangchow.

Race for Shanghai.

A race developed today for possession of Shanghai between troops from Shantung province under General Chang Tsung-Chang and the army of the nationalist (Cantonese) government. Apparently the Shantungese won.

Chang Tsung-Chang, once Sun's adversary in the field and recently his supposed ally in the alliance of northern war lords, assumed complete military control of Kiangsu province.

Sun Chuan Fang, only a few months ago war lord of 113,000,000 people of five eastern Chinese provinces, apparently has retired to private life, his whereabouts unknown—a great figure toppled by Cantonese military force and political propaganda, and the duplicity of his ally.

The Shantung troops are pouring into Shanghai to go south to meet the Cantonese enemy, almost at Shanghai's gates. Three thousand arrived today from Nanking, and 5,000 are expected daily for the next few days to build up the resisting force against an advancing army said to number 50,000.

Deserters Halted.

The Cantonese are nearing Sungkiang by rail and water from Hangchow. Deserters from Sun's beaten army were halted in their flight toward Shanghai by the arriving Shantung troops. A clash took place tonight at Lunghua, six miles from this city, the Shantungese disarming the fleeing men of Sun.

While Japanese and American volunteers remained on duty all night to guard their concessions against invasion, the lights of some 30 foreign

REED IS FLAYED AS AVID LOVER OF SPOT LIGHTS

Washington, February 22.—(AP)—Fiery tilts between the senate's election investigator, Reed, of Missouri, and one of its youthful members, Robinson, of Indiana, accompanied debate today on the proposal to extend the life of the campaign funds committee.

The Indiana republican accused the Missouri democrat of desiring to play politics with the committee with an eye single to the pathway to the white house in 1928, adding that with the committee functioning he would need no campaign fund and get plenty of publicity as he moved along.

The Missourian countered with a declaration that Robinson had indulged in "cowardly insinuations" and had given utterance to statements which were "absolutely and unqualifiedly false."

Rode on "Garbage Wagon."

Robinson asserted that in investigating the Indiana political situation last fall three weeks before the election, Reed had ridden into Indianapolis "sitting alone on the front seat of a vehicle which had degenerated into a garbage wagon."

Reed replied that if there was "any garbage in the wagon" it had been supplied by republicans prominent in conducting Robinson's campaign for election to the senate and that he would "dump the garbage into the front yard of the senator from Indiana who will recognize a familiar odor."

Frequent references to the Missourian by the Indianan as "venerable" brought the democratic leader, Robinson, of Arkansas, into the debate with an inquiry as to just what the "juvenile" Indiana senator meant to convey.

"Why call him juvenile?" broke it Bruce, a Maryland democrat. "Why not call him callow and puerile?"

A moment later in characterizing a statement by his antagonist as "unqualifiedly untrue," Reed added that in replying Robinson need not "have any regard for the fact that I am venerable."

Wilson Letter Mentioned.

Before the debate ended, Robinson brought in the now celebrated letter President Wilson wrote about Reed in 1922 in an effort to read him out of the democratic party and the Missourian replied that it contained only the charges of a "sick man."

Reed at one juncture told the Indianian that if he insisted on making "veiled insinuations," he would bring to the floor "the loathsome Ku Klux Klan," the political activities of which held most of the attention of the campaign funds committee during the Indiana investigations.

Crowds that filled the galleries leaned forward expectantly as the senators fired back and forth at each other. Reed frequently walked into the political dividing aisle to point a finger at Robinson and the Indiana senator emphasized his statements with fist pounding into palm, but remained at his place far over on the republican side.

Watson Plays Peacemaker.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, a republican leader, broke in at the tensest moment in an effort to pour oil on the troubled waters, explaining that Senator Reed had visited Indianapolis at his request to permit him to reply to charges that he was a klansman.

While admonishing his younger colleague to forget the heat of campaigns, he did extol Robinson's record as a soldier and legislator. At the same time he paid tribute to Reed, whom he called a friend of 30 years standing and who, he added, had always treated him with the utmost fairness.

After the debate ended, Reed asked for unanimous consent for immediate consideration of his resolution to extend the life of the committee, but Senator Blease, democrat, South Carolina, objected. The Missourian then moved to take up the resolution, but later withdrew that motion because it would have displaced Boulder canyon dam legislation.

Although for Years Enemy of This Method, Senator Finds It Only Weapon Left.

DAWES SAVES DAY FOR CALIFORNIAN

Senator Ashhurst Wages Fight Against Measure; Cloture Also Will Be Asked on Tyson Bill.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, February 24.—(United News)—As a desperate measure of last resort, Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, today moved to invoke cloture to restrict debate and end the six-day filibuster against his Boulder dam bill.

For years Johnson has been an enemy of cloture and always has voted against it. But today he found himself, after a heroic fight against the filibuster, with no other weapon left and he was compelled to resort to it. Ashurst, Arizona, democrat, the chief opponent of the Boulder dam bill, fought single-handed against Johnson but was twice out-maneuvered.

Vote on Saturday.

The cloture motion is to be voted on Saturday. If Johnson can muster two-thirds as required, he is certain to put his Boulder dam bill through. The cloture motion would restrict each senator to one hour's speaking and would soon force a final vote on which Johnson would be certain of mustering a majority easily. But it is uncertain whether he can raise the two-thirds required to apply cloture. On a test vote today, involving the right of Johnson to present the cloture petition, he won 46 to 30, but was short of the two-thirds which he will need on the next vote.

Johnson, leading the most dramatic fight congress has seen in many years, is slowly steering the Boulder dam project through the legislative shambles to the showdown, which will determine whether congress, after having voted $250,000,000 to help the farmer and easier banking laws to help the bankers, is willing to put up a $125,000,000 loan on gild-edge security

WORSHAM OKAYED AS ENTOMOLOGIST

Board Confirms Appointment of Department Head, Despite Recent Change in Personnel.

The state board of entomology Thursday approved the appointment of E. Lee Worsham as state entomologist to succeed Haliard de la Parelle, who continues with the department as assistant entomologist, it was announced following an executive session of the board at the capitol. Mr. Worsham was named at a meeting of the board held two weeks ago.

At the time of his appointment the board of entomology consisted of Dr. R. H. Berckman, of Macon; J. P. Hogg, of Buena Vista, and J. J. Brown, commissioner of agriculture and ex-officio chairman. In view of the fact that Dr. Berckman's term had expired and he was serving as a holdover until his successor was named, and since Commissioner Brown retires in June, Governor Clifford Walker opposed the action of the board in naming a state entomologist. The governor took the view that the new board should select the entomologist, and so informed the board, he stated Thursday.

After Mr. Worsham had been appointed the governor named Lyman Veeder, of Cornelia, as successor of Dr. Berckman, making a change in the personnel of the board, which with the coming assumption of duties of Eugene Talmadge as successor to Commissioner Brown will change the controlling vote of the board. The governor took the position that the new board, as it will be constituted in June, should have charge of the selection of the state entomologist, he stated Thursday.

Mr. Worsham, however, has assumed his duties and is actively at work as state entomologist. He served in that position for many years, retiring a few years ago.

The board of entomology held a short conference with the governor Thursday afternoon, but no statement concerning the matter discussed was made public. The board discussed plans for distributing calcium arsenate among farmers of the state in the fight against the boll weevil.

The board adopted a resolution pointing out the danger of neglected fruit tree areas as a breeding place for disease and insects, and asked that existing state laws for their elimination be enforced.

The resolution also approved a standardization law governing grading, packing and the quality of fruit shipped from the state, asking that this law be framed along lines that have proved effective in other fruit producing states.

SEVEN INDICTED BY LYONS JURY IN MOB CASES

Probe of Whipping of Attorney and Other Acts of Masked Band Results in True Bills.

JURY RECESSES SUBJECT TO CALL

Arrests Are Expected at Once on Bench Warrants and Trials Will Follow Immediately.

Lyons, Ga., February 24.—(AP)—Seven indictments were returned here late today by a special superior court grand jury which investigated the flogging of Wimberly E. Brown, an attorney, on Christmas eve, and numerous other outrages perpetrated by masked bands in Toombs county during the last year.

Six persons were said to have been named in the true bills, but their names were withheld until they can be arrested on bench warrants. Arrests are expected shortly, county authorities said, and the cases will be tried immediately.

Whether the flogging of Brown, which brought about the grand jury investigation after Governor Walker had offered a reward for the apprehension of his assailants, formed the basis of any of the indictments could not be learned. The grand jury's inquiry, it was reported, covered a number of cases in which persons in this county have been the victims of mob violence.

Jury Recesses.

After returning the indictments, the grand jury recessed subject to the call of Judge R. N. Hardeman. It was understood that further evidence in similar cases will be presented later.

Brown was seized on the streets of Lyons while doing his Christmas shopping and hurried out of town in an automobile by about ten hooded men, who flogged him severely and returned him here, where he was flung into the streets. A well-known attorney, he a short time before had assisted the state in the prosecution of four men charged with murder in connection with the death of a farmer who was slain by masked intruders in his home. They were acquitted.

Local Analyst Is Belittler Of Red Heads

BY HERB M'CUSKER.

Socko! Whamm!

Right alongside the well-known jawbone, the redheads received a jolt in Atlanta Thursday, and when the echo resounded through the downtown thoroughfares, sorrel thatched damsels, bricktops and flaming-tressed women were seen careening groggily from pillar to post.

Abner W. Lamar, well-known Atlanta character analyist, had issued a public bull, to wit: "Red-headed women aren't what they're cracked up to be"—or words to that effect.

This sweeping indictment of the carrot-complexioned sisterhood was unleashed by Analyist Lamar in answer to an announcement perpetrated Wednesday in Cleveland, Ohio, by Dr. C. L. Holland, alleged women specialist, of West Virginia, in which the learned doctor was reported as having declared that "redheads" are more dependable, emotional, vivacious, temperamental, humorous and original than brunettes or blondes.

No so!—says Analyist Lamar. To the contrary:

Is Exaggerated Blonde.

"The read-headed woman is not generally conceded to have greater dependability than her blonde and brunette sisters, despite Dr. Holland's statement," Mr. Lamar affirms. "She may give such an impression through her super-abundance of mental and physical stamina, but the truth is that she represents merely an exaggerated example of the blonde and expresses an abundance of the blonde's particular and familiar personal characteristics."

No, brunettes didn't get away unscathed. Listen to this:

"It would be a rather serious old world if all our women were brunettes. They are given to looking on the dark side of life and represent, if any, the retiring, meditative, domestic 'clinging vine' type. She is more enduring than the blonde and is held to possess larger patience, fidelity, affection, sentiment and tragic emotion."

HOUSE DEFIES PRESIDENT, APPROVING CONSTRUCTION OF THREE NAVAL CRUISERS

U. S. DISPLEASED BY NICARAGUAN MOVE OF BRITAIN

Whether Action Will Be Considered in Violation of Monroe Doctrine Still in Abeyance.

BY ALFRED P. RECK.

Washington, February 24.—(United News.)—Official Washington is making no attempt today to hide its displeasure over the attitude of the British government in sending a man-of-war to the west coast of Nicaragua.

The United States has given the British government every assurance of American protection for British interests in Nicaragua, Acting Secretary of State Grew declared in denying a statement in the British note advising this country that they were "reluctantly contemplating the dispatch of a man-of-war to the western coast of Nicaragua."

Whether the British move will be considered as a violation of the spirit of the Monroe doctrine, Grew declined to say.

Not since 1902 when President Roosevelt threatened to turn Admiral Dewey and 50 American war ships loose on the German navy unless it kept out of Venezeulan waters has a situation arising out of the 110-year-old policy been so delicate.

The British action is plainly a departure from the age-old custom of allowing America to look out for the protection of foreign lives and interests in the western hemisphere. Heretofore it has been the policy of foreign powers, if their nationals were threatened, to advise the United States and inquire what to do about it. But in this incident, Great Britain drew attention to the dangers confronting citizens and property in Nicaragua and without waiting for a reply later announced the state department that

TO ENFORCE LAWS ON AVIATION HERE

U. S. Official To Require Licensing of All Atlanta Pilots and Inspection of Planes.

Atlanta was established Thursday as one of the major commercial aviation terminals of the country, when P. D. Cramer, official of the regulations division of the United States department of commerce, arrived in the city and prepared to enforce regulations governing aerial transportation.

Rules of the department provide that every commercial and transport plane must be government inspected and that the pilot of such ships must be licensed by the federal government after having passed rigid tests. This, it is said, will instill universal confidence in the air transportation and will guarantee that every plane is manned by competent and expert operators.

Mr. Cramer will remain here and Sunday, when he will leave for points in Florida. He will outline to pilots and machine owners at a meeting at the Henry Grady hotel at 8 o'clock tonight just what the government expects of them, and proceed to administer the rules as soon as it is practicable.

To Protect Public.

"We do not wish to work a hardship on anyone, but we must enforce the regulations of the department to the letter of the law," Mr. Cramer said in explaining his mission. "A pilot can have his machine examined, undergo a physical examination here, and make application for the license before March 1, and then operate until July 1. If at the end of this time the department at Washington, which is headed by William McCracken, has not issued his license, he will not be permitted to operate his ship as a transport.

"The operator of every ship, whether he operates it as a passenger one or not, must be registered at Washington, and the government expects to keep in touch with the activities of every operator in an effort to obviate accidents. Flying is safe although it is still in its infancy. It will be the transportation medium of the future. The government recognizes this and is preparing to protect the public.

"Regulations of the department require that every transport be inspected within 24-hours of each flight, that

Perfect "No Trump" Hand

:: 4 ACES, 4 KINGS, 4 QUEENS AND A JACK COMPOSE IT ::

Held by Atlanta Woman

BY HORACE POWERS.

Reversing the usual order of things it was a woman who held a hand in Atlanta a few nights ago.

Of course there were many other hands held this same evening, but this was a most unusual hand, and, strangely enough, was presented to the fortunate lady by friend hubby himself. It was the kind of a hand that would set one gasping for breath and shivering with delightful tremors, not by the warmth of its presence or the thrill of its touch, but because it held four aces, four kings, four queens and a jack.

Those who know the intricacies of that uncertain game, auction bridge, will understand the emotion Mrs. Max C. Pittard, of 684 Cascade avenue, experienced when she picked up such a hand in a bridge party given by Mrs. E. F. Smith at her home on Piedmont avenue last Saturday night. To those who know not the game, such a stroke of fate may be likened to Bobby Jones' lone hole-in-one, to the winning of the automobile on a raffle ticket by Aunt Amantha's second cousin, or to the unexpected donation from the church tightwad. It's just one of those things that don't happen, except to someone else you hear about.

When in doubt, lead trumps, so Hoyle says.

But there were no trumps, and, consequently, no doubt; so Mrs. Pittard spread out her "show-down" hand and was awarded a grand slam, 100 for honors, 70 in points and a game. For once a husband and wife went away from a game of bridge without starting a family squabble over "the awful hands you dealt me," for it was Mr. Pittard who dealt the cards. He wasn't even playing as Mrs. Pittard's partner, either.

Mrs. Pittard was fourth bidder, with the bid having passed around to her unopened, for the three other hands combined could hardly have sustained a bid. Dazed and overcome, she recovered herself sufficiently to name one "no-trump." Having won the bid, she laid down her cards face up for startled eyes to gaze upon, the sight of a lifetime.

There were seven witnesses to the phenomenon, in addition to its principal and her hostess, for the party included Mr. and Mrs. Roy K. Smith, Dick Smith, Miss Nell Layton, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Parrish and Mr. Pittard, all of Atlanta.

STEAMERS CRASH; WOMAN MISSING

Baltimore, Md., February 24.—(AP)—Death darted a cold hand into a dripping fog blanket on the bosom of the Chesapeake early today, but of the more than 200 lives at which it snatched, only one was taken. Miss Virginia Starkey, of Baltimore, a passenger in a forward cabin of the Chesapeake Bay line steamer City of Annapolis, which sank after collision with its sister ship, City of Richmond, was missing when passenger lists were checked here.

99 Are Saved.

The ship's records showed 100 persons aboard, 47 passengers and 53 of the crew. Ninety-nine were found safely on the decks of the City of Richmond after the City of Annapolis sank.

The palatial liners, which nightly saluted each other 100 miles down the bay on the route between Baltimore and West Point, Va., loomed from the fog like spectres this morning. The whistle notes which ordinarily wafted courteous greetings swelled to bellowings of disaster. The ships met at an angle which sent the bow of the City of Annapolis glancing off and drove the knife-like prow of the City of Richmond 15 feet into her sister's port side just forward of the forward gangplank.

Miss Starkey occupied cabin 79, directly in the path of the City of Richmond's rending prow. Another passenger, Marshall Lee, of Baltimore, awoke to find the City of Richmond's prow in his stateroom and the cabin filling with water and steam. He escaped with a wrenched back.

Bed Is Crumpled.

Rives Fleming, president of the Cameron Stove company, of Richmond, Va., who occupied cabin 78 on the City of Annapolis, told of his bed being crumpled by the City of Richmond's invading bulk a few minutes after he had left. He said that cabin 79, which adjoined his, appeared totally crushed. Fleming's life was saved by a glance from the porthole when the sirens awoke him. He saw the bulk of the City of Richmond bearing down and rushed across the room before the vessels crashed. His cabin door was jammed shut but the panels were knocked out and a ship's officer pulled him free.

Passengers praised the cool-headedness of Captain H. E. Welling, of the City of Richmond, in ordering his ship held firmly in the breach which had been cut in the side of the City of Annapolis. This, it was believed, prevented the stricken liner sinking immediately, and enabled passengers from the City of Annapolis to scramble directly onto the deck of the City of Richmond. Statements of both Captain Welling and Captain G. C. Clayton, of the City of Annapolis, made when they reached Baltimore, were substantially alike. Both said the other had appeared suddenly from the dense fog. Both had sirens sounding and both attempted to reverse their engines but it was too late.

Miss Starkey had gone to Almond's Wharf, Va., Saturday to visit friends and was returning last night. Her body, it was believed, remained in her cabin, 70 feet below the surface of the bay.

Aside from Lee, three others reported themselves injured. They were Miss Mozelle Collier, 20 years old, of Richmond, Va., who fell into the water and suffered from exposure; J. D. Land, of Richmond, who was bruised, and Abraham Polan, of Charleston, W. Va., also bruised. Land and Polan were pasengers on the City of Richmond and Miss Collier was aboard the City of Annapolis. All except Lee declined medical attention. Lee was

DAUGHERTY CASE DEFENSE ENDED

Sapiro Avows Former Attorney General and Miller Were Innocent of Intent to Defraud.

New York, February 24.—(AP)—The defense has said its last word in the Daugherty-Miller trial.

Summations for Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general, and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States of their best services in the allowance of the $7,000,000 American Metal company claims, were concluded today.

When court adjourned today the case was only two stages away from the jury. United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner has to make the government's summation and Judge John C. Knox has to charge the jury. Buckner has been allotted tomorrow to make his summation. Judge Knox asked the jurors whether they would receive his charge on Saturday and then begin their deliberations. They voted to hear the charge on Monday.

Avows Miller's Innocence.

Aaron Sapiro, counsel for Miller, and Harold Corbin, of counsel for Daugerty, divided today between them in making their summations.

Sapiro began the day with an avowal of Miller's innocence. He asserted the government had not adduced "a scrap" of evidence to show that Miller had conspired to defraud the government either to pass the claims regardless of their merits or to hasten their allowance, meritoriously or otherwise. He said the $50,000 of bonds traced to Miller's brokerage and banking accounts proved nothing.

Prayers for Daugherty.

Sapiro argued the claims were valid but if they were not valid, Miller had not been aware of that, because Miller's assistants investigated the claims and passed upon them and that Miller could not be held responsible for the negligence of subordinates. In arguing this point, Sapiro alleged that Buckner had once sent one of his assistants, a man not admitted to the New York bar, to try cases in federal court and that there was an awful row raised about it. This proved, Sapiro said, that even Buckner was negligent, as was, he said, the case with most government officials.

Corbin's summation for Daugherty was tinged with a plea for pity. He told the jury Daugherty would never go to jail because "Harry Daugherty will die on the spot on which he hears of his conviction, if you find him guilty." He said thousands of prayers were raising up to heaven from Ohio, where Daugherty was known and loved, that he be cleared of the stigma of the trial. These prayers, he said, were joined with those of Daugherty's invalid wife and 90-year-old mother.

"There's not a scintilla of evidence of Daugherty's guilt in all this testimony," Corbin asserted. "His finger prints cannot be found on one of these papers. He never knew of those claims until June 30, 1922, when he made his annual report to the president."

Questions Smith's Integrity.

Jess W. Smith, Daugherty's handyman, was the tool of King, Corbin said. When Smith conferred with Merton and King it was not as Daugherty's representative, he said, but as one who could introduce Merton to Miller. The reason Smith was needed, he said, was that Miller and King were not friendly and King could not introduce Merton to Miller.

Corbin at one time suggested that Smith might have betrayed Daugherty's faith, and that King might have done the same thing. "Who knows," he asked the jury, "whether ill health was the only reason Smith had for taking his own life? Perhaps the still small voice of conscience played a part in that act; perhaps, even, the American metal claims may have played a part."

LONGWORTH TAKES FLOOR TO PLEAD FOR BETTER NAVY

$450,000 IS VOTED TO BEGIN BUILDING

Senate Sought $1,200,000 Insert in Supply Bill for Purpose; Joint Conference Necessary.

Washington, February 24.—(United News.)—The house reversed itself tonight and voted to approve construction of three navy cruisers against the advice of President Coolidge.

The senate had previously supported the cruiser provision and the question will now be put up to President Coolidge for approval or veto.

This action was taken by the house in instructing its conferees to accept the senate cruiser amendment to the navy appropriation bill. This provision is the only point in dispute between the house and senate, insuring prompt enactment of the whole measure and its transmission to Coolidge. It was adopted by a vote of 208 to 172.

The senate provision appropriated $1,200,000 but the house reduced this figure to $450,000. It is expected that this difference will be adjusted quickly.

President Coolidge opposed building of these cruisers on the ground that it would interfere with his supplementary arms conference project. The house supported him by a small margin although many members insisted that the president would have greater bargaining power if the cruisers were approved. The construction was authorized some years ago but money was never appropriated to proceed with the work. The present bill provided these necessary funds.

The house in reversing itself as awarded a victory to Speaker Longworth, who, departing from custom, took the floor and endorsed the cruisers when they were up originally a few weeks ago. He was defeated by a small margin. But with the rejection by France and Italy of the president's arms conference proposal sentiment began to grow rapidly and the big navy men were able to win out in the second test today.

Supports Cruiser Plan.

Speaker Longworth again took the floor tonight to support the cruiser provision.

"I believe deep in my heart that this matter is fundamental and basic and of vital importance to the security of the country," Speaker Longworth said. "The bureau of the budget is not responsible for the defense of the United States, but we are. No other country can complain if we carry out the 5-5-3 ratio. We have been more than just to the other nations of the world. Let us be just to ourselves.

"I have noted in the last two or

COLUMBUS EDITOR TAKEN BY DEATH

Columbus, Ga., February 24.—(AP) William H. Tucker, associate editor of the Enquirer-Sun, co-publisher of the Russell (Ala.) Register and one of the most widely-known newspapermen in Georgia and Alabama, will be laid to his final rest in his native city of Seale, Ala., tomorrow morning after impressive funeral ceremonies. Mr. Tucker died suddenly of pneumonia in a local hospital this morning after an illness of only three days.

The funeral services will be conducted at the home of Mr. Tucker's mother, Mrs. Priscilla Tucker, in Seale, at 11 o'clock. The funeral party will leave Columbus by train at 7:30 o'clock. Clifford Tucker, city editor of the Enquirer-Sun; two aunts, Mrs. L. M. Lacey, of Birmingham, Ala., and Mrs. Kate Porter, of Marianna, Fla., and two uncles, Nathan Tucker, of Birmingham, and John T. Porter, of Fort Worth, Texas.

NICARAGUA GESTURE OF BRITISH RESENTED

a man-of-war was already en route to the Central American republic.

The British man-of-war, H. M. S. Colombo, flagship of the west patrol forces and one of the fastest vessels in the fleet, is due to arrive at Corinto, Nicaragua, February 26.

A note delivered by the British ambassador to the state department today said:

"I have the honor to inform you on the instructions from his majesty's principal secretary of state for foreign affairs, this his majesty's government has reluctantly decided to send a man-of-war to the west coast of Nicaragua and the H. M. S. Colombo is being dispatched to Corinto. She should arrive at Colon on February 24 and at Corinto on February 26.

"His majesty's government feels that the presence of a war vessel may have a moral effect and would be a base of refuge for British subjects.

"It is, of course, not intended to land forces and the commanding officer will be instructed accordingly.

"In informing you of the above I am instructed to express once more to the United States government the thanks of his majesty's government for its assistance and to add that his majesty's government will continue to rely on it."

Notes Cross.

The British note was delivered before the following note had been sent by the state department to the ambassador:

"The secretary of state presents his compliments to his excellency, the British ambassador, and in reply to the latter's reply of February 19, 1927, concerning the protection of British lives and property in Nicaragua, has the honor to inform the British ambassador that the American armed forces which have landed in Nicaragua for the protection of American and foreign lives and property will be pleased to extend to British subjects such protection as may be possible and proper under the circumstances."

This note was written in reply to a British note of February 19, in which it reminded the United States government that it looked to this country for the protection of British subjects in Nicaragua. However, while this reply was being handed to the British ambassador he returned a note saying that a man-of-war was already on the way to Nicaragua.

If the present administration follows precedent established by the interpretation of the Monroe doctrine, the presence of a foreign warship in Nicaraguan waters would be regarded as a distinct violation of the spirit of the doctrine. By white house interpretations the famous doctrine has come to mean that foreign countries should leave protection of all foreign interests in the western hemisphere to this government.

Henderson on Way.

Meanwhile the U. S. S. Henderson was en route to Nicaragua with a force of more than 2,000 marines and bluejackets. The transport stopped at Norfolk today to pick up 100 sailors and then proceeded to Parris Island, S. C., for 200 additional marines. It had previously taken on board 200 marines from the Philadelphia navy yard and 1,000 at Quantico.

Senatorial opinion was almost unanimous in its displeasure over the British move.

Senator Bingham, Connecticut republican, does not believe that the British move can be considered a violation of the Monroe doctrine.

"I hope the United States will be able to satisfy the British government that Admiral Latimer will be given sufficient force to carry out his instructions and that the British will regard this as an adequate guarantee of their protection. But the sending of a ship to afford Britishers in Nicaragua a refuge in case their lives are endangered can not be considered a violation of the Monroe doctrine."

While the British and American notes on Nicaragua were being passed, two representatives of the state department, Stokley Morgan, of the Latin-American division, and William S. Howell, Jr., of the Mexican division, appeared before the senate foreign relations committee to explain the administration attitude towards Mexico and Nicaragua.

Secretary of State Kellogg was unable to attend the committee meeting because of illness but sent a letter criticizing but not definitely objecting to the committee's proposed investigation tour of Latin America as urged by Chairman Borah for the congressional recess.

KELLOGG OPPOSES JAUNT TO NICARAGUA.

Washington, February 24.—(AP)—After consulting with President Coolidge, Secretary Kellogg has written Chairman Borah indicating that the administration sees no necessity for the projected visit to Mexico and Nicaragua by the senate foreign relations committee.

The secretary, who is ill at his home here, said the committee could obtain full information regarding the situation in those two countries from two state department officials who were directed to appear before the committee at its session today.

They are Stokley Morgan, chief of the department's Latin-American division, formerly American charge in Nicaragua, and Williamson S. Howell, Jr., of the Mexican division.

Secretary Kellogg's communication apparently did not cause Chairman Borah to change his mind as to the desirability of his committee going to Central America during the recess of congress, and he was prepared to press for action on his resolution.

Morgan was before the committee for more than an hour and was cross questioned by members of the committee at length. It was indicated that the hearing, which was held behind closed doors, might proceed for some time and that there was little prospect of a vote today on the Borah resolution.

WARSHIP OF BRITAIN WILL ARRIVE FRIDAY.

BY CHARLES M. M'CANN.

London, February 24.—(United News.)—Surprised at suggestions from the United States that dispatch of a British cruiser to Nicaragua constituted a threat against the Monroe doctrine, officials today were quick to deny that reason existed for such statements.

Arrival of the cruiser Colombo in Nicaraguan waters Friday will be in perfect conformity with the Monroe doctrine, it was stated, and some officials reiterated that Great Britain has no intention of questioning that doctrine at any time.

The warship was ordered from its West Indies station Tuesday, it was pointed out, after the United States minister at Managua had failed to give specific guaranties for protection of British lives and property. The Monroe doctrine, it was stated, forbids only acquisition of territory or interference in politics, while the Colombo was sent to provide a haven for Britishers in Nicaragua if the situation there became serious.

Even if it becomes necessary for British marines to land in Nicaragua and evacuate Britishers, it was added, they would not violate the Monroe doctrine by such action.

three days that we have had two rejection to the proposed armament limitations conference.

Embarrassing President.

"You're not adding to the strength of the navy," retorted Chairman Madden of the appropriations committee. "But you are embarrassing the president in his effort to convene another conference."

French, Idaho republican, chairman of the house conferees, said that some would regard this action as a slap in the face of the president.

"You embarrass the president and throw a monkey wrench into the machine," he declared. "If the house adopts this proposal it would be inconsistent because last week the house voted money to send delegates to the Geneva arms conference. Now the house turns around and votes money to build cruisers."

Vinson, Georgia democrat, said that the appropriation was not intended to embarrass the president but to strengthen his hand in negotiation at an arms conference.

Longworth supported this view declaring that the only reason the original Washington arms conference was successful was because this government made so many sacrifices in its ships.

Convict Escapes.

Tallahassee, Fla., February 24.—(AP)—Leonard Smith, serving a three-year sentence from Hillsborough county for grand larceny, escaped today from a road camp near River Junction, according to a report to the state prison bureau.

British Note Caused U. S. Move in Nicaragua

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, February 24.—With Senator Borah, republican, of Idaho, and others asserting that the Monroe doctrine is not involved it became known tonight that the scope of American intervention in Nicaragua was suddenly extended last week in order to forestall the possible landing of British forces on the North American continent.

The action was taken by President Coolidge after the British government had called the attention of Washington to the menace to Britishers and their properties in Nicaragua and had asked for assurances of their protection by the American forces occupying the country.

JOHNSON INVOKES CLOTURE IN FIGHT

to rescue 60,000 farmers in the Imperial valley of California from the constant threat of destruction and death from the flood waters of the Colorado.

Harassed by the tactics of the filibustering group and by the importunities of senators seeking action on pet measures, Johnson played a weak hand with striking skill through a turbulent afternoon.

He was in a tight corner at one stage when Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, moved that the senate consider his resolution extending the authority of the senatorial investigating committee. Had this motion carried, it would have displaced the Boulder dam bill, killing its chances in this session. Johnson, realizing that he was at a critical point, appealed to the senate with a short, eloquent outburst in which he is a master.

"It is only justice to the women and children of the Imperial valley that I should receive a vote on my bill," he said. "All I am asking is a right to a vote.

Reed Yields.

So effective was Johnson's appeal that Reed withdrew his motion. Then one of Johnson's assistants, Senator Pittman, Nevada, democrat, hastily circulated a cloture petition and within a few minutes obtained 16 names. Johnson rose to present the petition to the senate. Ashurt, Arizona, democrat, leader of the opposition filibuster, was speaking. He shouted his protest at thus being interrupted. Cameron, of Arizona, added his protest. Other senators began to cry them down and there was bedlam. Fess, Ohio, republican, was presiding temporarily. He ruled Johnson out of order.

Small page boys were sent scurrying for Vice President Dawes. He was found in his chambers adjoining the senate and came rushing in to relieve Fess. Dawes reversed Fess and permitted Johnson to present the cloture petition. But Ashurst was not through. He appealed from the decision of Dawes and demanded a roll call. He lost, 30 to 46. Johnson then presented the cloture petition and it automotically comes up for a vote at 1 p. m. Saturday.

Johnson Explains Stand.

Johnson then issued a statement declaring that in forcing a cloture vote, he had gone against his long-standing principles for the sake of what he regards as a greater need.

"Since I have been in the senate consistently and constantly I have opposed clotures," he said. "I have used every conceivable means of pleading and persuasion and finally of a continuous session for more than 30 hours of the senate in hope that this great and beneficient measure might be brought to a vote.

"I have now attempted the only course remaining—cloture. I have no hesitation in doing this. My prejudice, my past votes, my present views fade into insignificance before the imminent danger and peril of the people of southern California and I yield my views to their pressing necessities."

Tyson Bill Cloture Asked.

Ashurst, still holding the floor, resumed his filibustering speech. But it was then 3 o'clock and the senate, by previous arrangement, had agreed to lay aside the Boulder dam temporarily and consider the Tyson bill for retirement of emergency volunteer officers. Ashurst refused to yield the floor. Tyson, indignant, produced a cloture petition for his bill, the first time in history that two ever were offered in one day.

"Arizona is the baby state of the union and you are to strangle her with this cloture motion," Ashurst declared in greatest indignation. "She may be strangled but you will not be able to efface that murder from your conscience. Arizona will resort to another tribunal if her rights are effaced here. She has rights in the court which the senate cannot assume."

Arizona opposes the Boulder dam bill claiming it would deprive her of irrigation water that might be needed in the future. She has also demanded a royalty on water-power produced that would bring her $6,000,000 a year, or $1,900,000 more than it costs to run the state.

Ashurst finally gave way to the Tyson bill and the filibuster was suspended temporarily. But it will be resumed again after a short respite.

SENATE ORDERS PROBE OF SOUTHERN TAX SUIT

Columbia, S. C., February 24.—(AP) The senate today adopted a resolution by Senator Miller calling for investigation of the status of a suit by the Southern Railway company against the state tax commisson to prevent collection of about $370,000 in taxes.

The resolution adopted was substituted for one introduced the other day by Senator Miller, certain clauses being eliminated which some senators believed carried an unnecessary reflection upon the railroad company. The resolution is not a concurrent one,

Ex-Atlantan Freed Of Murder Charge At Sandersville

Sandersville, Ga., February 24.—(Special.)—J. O. Finnell was acquitted at the commitment trial here this afternoon on a charge of the murder of W. B. Forbes in Finnell's store at Sunhill last Friday afternoon. Witnesses testified that Forbes fired the first shot, Finnell stating he killed Forbes in self-defense.

Finnell formerly lived in Atlanta.

FLEXIBLE TARIFF PROVISION UPHELD

Washington, February 24.—(AP)—The constitutionality of the flexible provisions of the tariff law, whereby the president may raise or lower import duties 50 per cent, was upheld today by the United States court of customs appeals. The question probably will be carried to the supreme court.

The court held that the delegation of such authority to the president was a valid exercise of the constitutional grant of power to congress to regulate commerce. Its purpose is to equalize the difference in cost of production in this and the principal competing countries.

In raising the question of constitutionality, J. W. Hampton, Jr. & Co., New York importers, contended that the flexible provision section attempted to delegate to the president power to legislate and to tax, which only can be exercised by congress. The section is not a provision for tax, duty, or excise, it was asserted by counsel for the Hampton company, but is solely for protection of American industries and as such was illegal.

The court held broadly that in foreign commerce the power to regulate included authority to levy discriminatory duties and the right to prohibit. This legislative right was held to be absolute.

The constitutionality of the flexible tariff provisions was raised after the president had increased the duty on barium dioxide, imported by the Hampton company, from 4 to 6 cents a pound.

BRITISH OFFICIALS CONCENTRATE PEOPLE.

Shanghai, February 24.—(United News.)—British authorities began concentrating their people in the foreign concessions in Shanghai tonight, as a precaution against violence from the approaching troops of the Cantonese army.

Warnings were sent to all outlying districts, advising foreign nationals to be ready to flee to the Shanghai settlements on a moment's notice.

General Chang Chung-Chang is believed to have accepted from Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang control of the defense of Shanghai, following a council of war between the two held at Nanking. General Chang will cooperate with the forces of Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, Mukden war-lord and controller of the north Chinese government at Pekin.

RUSSIAN ACTIVITIES REPORTED IN SIBERIA.

BY RODERICK MATHESON.

Tokio, February 24.—A reliable correspondent at Harbin states that there is no doubt of Russian military activities in Siberia, where local troops are gathering on the Manchurian border, augmented by troops arriving from Russia. Foreign travelers are allowed no stop-overs in any point in Siberia.

Harbin is seething with rumors of an impending revolution against General Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian war lord. Police are making numerous arrests and seizing communist and Kuomintang literature. One foreign consul at Harbin states he has definite information regarding troop movements in Siberia and also an official report of a battle near Pogranitchnia, between Chinese troops and Manchurian bandits. About 200 were killed among the bandit dead being several Russians carrying papers revealing a Russian plot to encourage and assist bandits against General Chang.

Foreign residents do not believe reports that the Russian troops are intended to aid the Manchurian revolution by crossing the border, but believe they are concentrating in order to encourage a revolution and prevent General Chang from diverting his whole strength against the Cantonese.

RADICAL AND MODERATE RIFT NOW IS WIDENING.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

Pekin, February 24.—The rift between the radical and moderate nationalists is rapidly widening, with indications that the soviet influence possibly will be overthrown, or at least greatly minimized. A strong current in this direction is setting in owing to the growing disaffection of the substantnial Chinese element, which is disgusted with the ceaseless waste and wholesale seizure of revenues by the northern militarists and opposes only the radicalism of the Kuomintang.

With the excessive labor demands incident to the activities of the soviet agitators, the moderate element finds the burden labor imposes equal to that of the feudal lords wherefore the moderate Kuomintang is exerting greater pressure for the elimination of the soviet influence as harmful. Already Dr. C. T. Wang and Tang Sha-Oye are laying the ground-work for a moderate party in the Shanghai district, which is gaining much support among the business element and awakening the moderates in all occupied territory. Observers believe the moderates could sweep the country with the bolshevik element cast out.

GREAT STRIKE ENDED BY MANY EXECUTIONS.

Shanghai, February 24.—(AP)—Shanghai's political strike of 110,000 workers was about ended tonight, brought to a close by the decapitation of more than 100 agitators. They were executed by soldiers of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang, whose heavy swords were used to stop the spread of propaganda by nationalist government agents to aid the advance of the nationalist troops from Hangchow.

Beheadings and shooting which the proclamation of Li Pao-Chang, Sun's defens commissioner, admits were by his orders, without question and without trial, probably totaled within five days at least 100. Half of these were done in public wherever the victims were found, but it is believed that at least 50 Chinese were executed in prisons and within military inclosures.

Agents of the commissioner were known to have penetrated the French concession and kidnaped some 30 nationalist agitators. A few kidnapings were reported to have taken place in the international settlement but these were not confirmed.

The Chinese kidnaped from foreign territory were carried off to military headquarters, and whether they were executed was not known.

Truce Announced.

Simultaneously proclamations declared at least a truce in the political strike and sent throngs of workers back to their jobs. It was halted partly by terrorism and partly by lack of funds of its instigators and the strikers.

Li's proclamation cancelling his orders for execution of persons found delivering public speeches and distributing leaflets, or possessing inflammatory literature, said:

"I am touched by the numerous executions by my subordinates. They were prompted thereto by my orders to execute on the spot, without question and without trial. This order I now rescind."

The proclamation of the general labor union said that in response to appeals from the merchant body it had taken steps to end the strike for the time being, saying, however, "that this does not necessarily mean that the movement is over, because we will continue our efforts to attain our ideals."

USE OF AUTOS DENIED STUDENTS AT PRINCETON

Princeton, N. J., February 24.—The "collegiate flivver" and the sleek roadster will be barred from the borough of Princeton next year, under a ruling of the trustees announced by Dean Christian Gauss.

Under present regulations all students are forbidden to drive cars about the campus, and the use of automobiles is denied entirely to freshmen and sophomores. The new rule will prevent upper classmen driving cars within the borough limits.

Seven students and two other persons were killed last year in automobile accidents in which Princeton undergraduates figured. This was given as the reason for the new rule.

FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD TO DECIDE ON RICHMOND BANK

Washington, February 24.—(AP)—The question of the establishment of a branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond will come before the federal reserve board tomorrow.

If it decides to establish a branch, the board also is expected to select its location. The Richmond Federal Reserve bank has recommended that the branch be established at Charlotte, N. C. Applications have been received from Charlotte and Wilmington, N. C., and Columbia and Spartanburg, S. C.

Hearings on establishment of a branch were held some time ago but action on it was held in abeyance until congress passed the McFadden branch banking bill.

OPELIKA BANKER TAKEN BY DEATH AFTER OPERATION

Opelika, Ala., February 24.—(AP)—N. P. Renfroe, president of the First National bank and a leading business man of this city, died at 9 o'clock this morning following a brief illness of an attack of appendicitis. He underwent an operation a few days ago. He was 70 years old.

He was survived by his widow, two sons and one daughter. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

EDISONS OBSERVE 41ST ANNIVERSARY

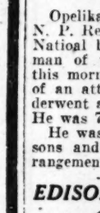

Fort Myers, Fla., February 24.—(AP) Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Edison celebrated their forty-first wedding anniversary tonight by going to the movies. They drove up to the theater in their famous brass radiatored flivver, a gift on their anniversary in 1914 from Henry Ford, their next door neighbor here. BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flue. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(adv.)

RIVAL ROAD FIGHTS RAILWAY MERGER

Seattle, February 24.—Merger of the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern railroads into one system will be opposed by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, President H. E. Byram announced today.

"1. The merger would establish a dominant transportation group in the northwest which would unbalance competition.

"2. It would preclude or prevent future necessary unifications.

"3. That the economies promised could be realized in greater measure by other possible unifications.

"4. That the merger is opposed in spirit and fact to the interstate commerce commission's tentative plans for grouping American railroads.

"5. That while called a unification it is in all essential aspects an unlawful consolidation."

Continuing, the statement says:

"We believe the merger of the St. Paul with one of the other lines serving the northwest would offer improved service and greater economies than those produced by advocates of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific consolidation."

The proposed merger, the statement declares, is in reality a consolidation of three railroads, the two northern companies and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, which would weld together 27,000 miles of railroad under one control.

"Once formed," Byram says, "this combination cannot be dissolved."

Debutante Quits Life of Society To Become Nurse

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Baltimore, Md., February 24.—Miss Mary Belin DuPont, 20-year-old daughter of Lammont DuPont, president of the E. I. DuPont-DeNemours company, of Wilmington, Del., made her debut only last season upon her graduation from the Mary Baldwin school at Bryn Mawr. But, despite the brevity of her social career, she explained today she already has tried of it and has resolved to abandon it entirely.

This morning she began active training at the nurses' school of the Johns Hopkins hospital and she will carry on, she asserts. The only reason for discontinuing her course, she promises, would be the decision on the part of the hospital authorities that she either was not fitted for the work or was not "making the grade."

"I decided to take up nursing last fall," she said, "and made application for the course of training here at Hopkins in November. A girl must do something worth while."

In selecting a non-social career, Miss DuPont is following the course of an elder, Miss Natalie W. DuPont, a graduate of Byrn Mawr college, who spent several years working in the statistical department of a brokerage house in Wilmington.

PROTECTION GIVEN N. Y. SMUGGLERS, ANDREWS CHARGES

Washington, February 24.—Police protection has been given liquor cargoes landed in New York, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews told the house ways and means committee today in defending activities of his undercover squad.

"The situation in New York," Andrews declared, "is the same elsewhere with criminal classes entwined with governing classes."

Andrews came to the defense of Chester P. Mills, prohibition administrator for New York by asserting that he had achieved unusual success in locating the sources of supply.

TRIUMPHAL ENTRY INTO TOWN AWAITS INDICTED EDITOR

Muncie, Ind., February 24.—George R. Dale, indicted Muncie editor, is "in hiding in a little Ohio town near the Indiana boundary," Thomas V. Miller, his local attorney announced.

Dale is planning a triumphal entry into Muncie early Saturday afternoon, when he will be greeted at the railroad station or at his home by a band and legion of supporters, Miller said.

If a petition for a writ of prohibition fails to stave off Dale's arrest on a charge of being in contempt of court, the editor will be borne to the courthouse on the shoulders of his friends to submit to arrest, it is said.

Dale was indicted for an attack on Judge Dearth and Mayor John Hamton, of Muncie, in his paper, the Post-Democrat. The issue was ordered confiscated by Dearth and 38 newsboys arrested for selling the paper. Petitions are being circulated for Dearth's recall, stating that he had interfered with freedom of the press and free speech.

GLADES DRAINAGE MAY BE FINANCED BY N. Y. COMPANY

Jacksonville, Fla., February 24.—(AP)—Complete financing of the drainage and reclamation program of the state in the Everglades area by one of the largest bond houses in New York was admitted as a possibility by Governor John W. Martin on his arrival here tonight from Eustis, where he conferred with S. Davies Warfield, president of the Seaboard Air Line railway.

The governor said that he was considering meeting Mr. Warfield in New York some time within the next three weeks for a conference with bond house executives there.

It is estimated by drainage authorities that $16,000,000 will be sufficient to complete the state canals now under construction and carry out the building of the proposed seven or eight major canals.

The governor and his wife return to Tallahassee tomorrow. They have spent the past four days down state, being guests of honor at the Ormond Beach Washington's birthday-governor's ball, and the governor formally opened the Southern Baptists' winter assembly at Umatilla yesterday and the Eustis winter Vandalia trapshooting tournament at Eustis.

Movie Leaders Try To Settle Chaplin Divorce

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

New York, February 24.—The greatest battle of the motion picture industry is raging under the surface of the Chaplin divorce case, with massed stars of the business on one side and Charlie Chaplin, alone, on the other.

Hollywood today sent word to Chaplin that, for the good of the industry, his case must be settled out of court. The comedian defiantly replied that he was innocent of the charges against him and would demand a fight to the finish in the courts with his wife, Lita Grey Chaplin.

Acting as emissaries of the stars and producers, although ostensibly here on other business, Joseph M. Schenck and Samuel Goldwyn met Chaplin and his attorney, Nathan Burkan, this afternoon. It was a battle of business giants against the stubborn will of an eccentric comedian—and the business men find Chaplin ready to sacrifice every dollar in preference to yielding to their demand that he make a private settlement.

Facing the certainty that the trial of the Chaplin case would involve the entire film industry and do grave injury to at least six feminine stars, the emissaries of Hollywood presented every argument, all in vain. They will remain, however, and all pressure that can be mustered will be used on Chaplin.

Standing aloof from the immediate situation, but interested in every development, is Will Hays, the man chosen to lead the screen back into the good graces of the public after the Arbuckle trial.

Hays silently awaits developments and Hollywood believes he will act ruthlessly to save the good name of the nation's amusement providers if it becomes necessary.

The published charges in the Chaplin case are not the only cause of the present anxiety. In addition, Lita has let it become known that she will name six of the leading women stars of the screen in her charges against Chaplin and offer evidence to back up her statements.

The claim is made by the stars who are anxious to avoid a Chaplin trial that they are not inspired by fear. If the women are named it will be unfairly, the stars of Hollywood say, but even mentioning them in court will do great damage not alone to the stars, but to the business.

MOBILE OFFICIALS TO RESIST PUBLIC PARADE OF KLAN

Mobile, Ala., February 24.—(AP)—The city commissioners of Mobile today announced that any effort on the part of the Ku Klux Klan to stage a parade in Mobile tomorrow night, as indicated in published advertisements, would meet with resistance by city authorities.

The commissioners pointed to an ordinance which prohibits street parades of maskers, other than members of carnival mystic societies, and stated that this ordinance would be enforced to the letter.

In the advertisement printed today the statement was made that "we will parade," with instructions to klansmen to be "at your klavern Friday night, February 25, for instructions."

Lauds Immigrant Quotas For Reduced Charity Calls

Dr. Lee K. Frankel, second vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, and noted Jewish philanthropist, delivered the principal address at the annual meeting of the Federation of Jewish Charities Thursday night, when Louis Moss was elected to succeed Leopold J. Haas as president of the local body.

The meeting, held at the Jewish Temple, on Pryor and Richardson streets, followed a dinner tendered Dr. Frankel at the Biltmore hotel.

The passing of the old type of Jewish charity, in which distress cases for immediate relief predominated, and the development of a scientific, preventive philanthropy, in which the improvement of the Jewish community as a whole will be of chief interest, was the keynote of Dr. Frankel's summary of the philanthropic problem facing Atlanta and the country at large.

Praises Immigrant Law.

"Decreasing immigration to the point of practical exclusion is the reason for the gradual disappearance of distress cases," Dr. Frankel stated. "In spite of the many hardships resulting from the immigration law, certain benefits have been forthcoming. We can see no change in the immigration restrictions. The report just read by your treasurer showed the small amount of $31,000 expended for charity work in a city of 10,000 Jews. Equally significant of the absence of a real Jewish charity problem in Atlanta was the report of the Morris Hirsch clinic, which shows that the proportion of Jewish patients to those of other denominations to be as one to three.

"Because in the past the problem of man.

Jewish charity has always been the problem of immigration—the Jew as a Jew never becoming a pauper—I see for the future a tremendous reduction of demand for immediate relief. Again, I can see disappearance of orphan asylums. An institution is not the place for care of children; the home is the only place. The present inadequate method can be replaced by care of the surviving parent, placing the children with relatives, or through the policy of adoption. These methods are now gaining in popularity.

The New York philanthropist, who

Julian V. Boehm expressed appreciation for Dr. Frankel's presence and address.

In addition to President Moss, officers chosen to head the local Federation of Jewish Charities are Leonard Haas, vice president; Jake Jacobs, vice president; E. Freibelman, vice president; Joseph B. Wolfe, treasurer, and Leo Hexter, executive secretary. The following were named on the board of directors: J. V. Boehm, A. L. Myers, Sam Massell, Sol Rubin, I. J. Paradeis, L. J. Levitas, Dr. Joseph Yampolsky, Rabbi David Marx, Dr. J. E. Sommerfield, Mrs. J. E. Sommerfield, A. L. Loeb, Joel Dorfan, L. J. Haas, Aaron Lichtenstein, Louis J. Elsas, Mrs. S. New $500,000 Sanitarium Will Open at Alto March 1

Without demonstration or ceremony Georgia's new $500,000 tuberculosis sanitarium at Alto will be officially opened March 1, with the transfer of 90 patients from the old to the new institution there, Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, state health commissioner, announced Thursday. Lack of funds was given by the commissioner as the reason for the informal opening.

While the new institution has accommodation facilities for approximately 200 patients, only 100 can be taken care of under the present maintenance fund, Dr. Abercrombie said. State health officers, he said, had hopes of obtaining from the last general assembly sufficient appropriation for the maintenance of both the old and the new institutions at Alto. "We asked for $250,000 for maintenance," he said, "and we received $100,000."

Plans are underway, however, he pointed out, to seek ample appropriation at the next session of the legislature for the continuance of both institutions, the old one to be maintained for negro tubercular patients. Although the old institution will be vacated temporarily, he said, applications are being received for the admission of negroes as soon as maintenance funds are available.

Alto's new institution already has 132 patients on the waiting list, Dr. Abercrombie said. One name recently stricken from the list was that of a prominent state legislator, he said, who died while waiting to be admitted for treatment.

The necessity of maintaining both institutions at Alto was stressed by Dr. Abercrombie in calling particular attention to the high death rate among negroes, especially negro women, in Georgia as the result of tuberculosis. In 1924, he said, 929 female negroes succumbed to tuberculosis as against a total of 917 white men and women. The same year 730 negro males died of the disease as against 437 white males. In 1925, the last year for which statistics are available, he said, a total of 872 whites were taken by the disease as against 1,576 negroes.

"The Georgia negro women must be afforded protection from the disease," Dr. Abercrombie said, "not only for their sake, but for ours as well, as a large number of them are employed in our homes as washerwomen, cooks, maids and nurses."

Roads, walkways and other developments on the seminary campus have been mapped out and work will start early next week on beautifying the campus.

A special place on the campus has been set aside for homes for foreign missionaries during their vacations and course of instruction. Construction on these will be started at once, it was announced. This special part of the campus will be known as "Missionary Terrace" and will be on the northwestern side.

Dr. Blakely Accepts.

Dr. Blakely will assume his new duties in September, 1928, it was stated, the local board having granted him a leave of absence until that time. He will leave the United States in June for Oxford university and the University of Berlin, to complete his New Testament literature work under some of the best known teachers of the world.

Dr. Blakely is now pastor of the United Presbyterian church at Harroldsburg, Ky., and until 18 months ago was a minister of the Associated Reformed Presbyterian church. GIANNINI PIANIST IS SAVANNAH GIRL

When Dusolina Giannini, the young American prima donna, sings in Atlanta for the first time in concert on March 8, as the closing engagement of the civic concert series of the Atlanta Music club, she will be assisted in her program by a distinguished pianist, none other than Mollie Bernstein, of Savannah, known to hundreds of music lovers in the south.

Giannini, who Miss Bernstein rather lovingly refers to as "just a large, wholesome girl of 23," has been in Europe last summer giving opera, and returned in the fall to keep her concert engagements, the entire winter being booked up away in advance, most of the cities where they appeared last year demanding a return engagement. Miss Bernstein will accompany the young artist again next season.

A very interesting sidelight on what an artist expects of an accompanist was revealed in a recent interview with the Savannah girl. When asked if Miss Bernstein would give much of her time practicing accompaniments for the season, she answered, "Oh, no. I won't see her repertoire until almost time to play it. I seldom hear a song in full voice until the night of the concert, and each time it is sung with different interpretation. I am given the tempo in advance and occasional practices, but never real rehearsals, as they are sung in performance." So it appears that accompaning not only requires technical skill, but a sort of perfection in understanding and anticipating artistic temperament. But as Miss Bernstein is constantly with the diva, and looked on in her home as one of the family, she knows her about as well as anyone.

Often, when traveling, Giannini will want to make use of the hours in practice. Miss Bernstein, who has a "positive pitch," will give the singer her cue and proceed to be the orchestra or piano in her own fresh voice. At this time the travelers, hearing Giannini's heavenly notes issuing from the drawing room, gather about the closed door, and, if the door is opened, are found gathered in an impromptu and enthralled audience.

The press notices of Miss Bernstein's accompanying during the past season have been most unusual, as the pianist is so seldom given whole paragraphs of such elaborate praise.

Jackson Canning Plant Seeks To Have 1,000 Acres Set in Pepper

Jackson, Ga., February 24.—(Special.)—Contracts for growing at least 1,000 acres of pimento peppers for the local canning factory are now being signed by farmers of Butts county. A part of the acreage, from 150 to 200 acres, will be grown in Henry county and about 800 acres in Butts county. Reservations have already been made by growers and the contracts are now being signed.

Pepper beds have been prepared in many instances and the seed planted. Efforts are being made to have the plants ready to set out by the middle or last of April.

Owing to the disappointing prices received for cotton the past season many farmers of the county will plant heavier than ever of pimento peppers this spring. Many of the farmers saved their own seed from choice well-matured peppers and in this way it is believed a superior grade of peppers will be grown.

A great deal of interest is being manifested and the indications at this time point to the best year the canning factory has yet enjoyed. Peppers have proved a safe cash crop and with favorable season the returns per acre often amount to more than $100.

GRILL WITNESSES IN FOWLER DEATH

Solicitor General John A. Boykin Thursday continued to grill witnesses in the slaying last Saturday night of Homer Fowler in a house at 889 Marietta street in an effort to find a motive for the murder.

Four additional witnesses were questioned Thursday by special investigators of the solicitor's staff. They were Mrs. Cecile Fowler, widow of the slain man; A. L. Lathem, her father; Homer A. Adams, a neighbor of R. H. Sheppard, who is alleged to have killed Fowler, and W. P. Spear, a brother-in-law of Fowler. All gave testimony concerning the amount of money Fowler had carried in his pockets Saturday.

Sheppard is being held in Fulton tower without bond on a charge of murder, following his indictment Tuesday by the Fulton county grand jury.

Mrs. Fowler told investigators that she had gone to the Sheppard home where her husband was attacked and killed with an ax shortly after he had been struck, and that she asked Adams to search her husband's pockets. He found no money at all, she said, but a negro orderly searched Fowler at the hospital and a nickel was found. This statement was corroborated by Adams.

Mrs. Fowler declared that her husband came home Thursday from Rome, Ga., and that he had $211 in bills and a small amount of change and that he did not leave the house until Saturday morning.

ELKS' COMMITTEE OF STATE CALLED TO CONVENE HERE

The executive committee of Georgia Elks will meet Saturday night at the Elks' home at 54 Ellis street, N. E., to map out plans for the tri-state convention which will be held at Daytona Beach, Fla., April 25 and 26, it was announced by the local lodge.

Saturday's meeting was called by L. Ludwig, of Brunswick, president of the Georgia Elks' association, through B. C. Boyles, secretary and treasurer. Other business to come before the meeting will concern the Home for Feeble Minded children, located near Augusta, which the organization is sponsoring, together with the Elks' cooperation program with the Georgia Medical society in aiding underprivileged children of the state. Visitors will be guests of the Atlanta lodge at a luncheon Saturday, followed by a motor trip to Stone Mountain.

Visiting Elks also will be asked to attend a "model initiation" put on by the Atlanta lodge Saturday night at which a large class will be conducted into the order. The class will be known as the "Turner Fitten Class" in honor of the exalted ruler of Atlanta.

A Philadelphia tailor has found a quick way of getting rid of stiffness in the hands and arms caused by constantly using a hot iron.

"I am by trade a presser," he writes. "I am always using a hot iron and my hands and arms get stiff. I have been using liniments for a long time and I find that Sloan's Liniment is the best. It always gives instant relief."

Sloan's gives real help because it stirs up your own bodily forces to throw off the trouble, and to restore normal, healthy action in the sick tissues.

Just pat it on lightly, without rubbing, and the first thing you know the aching and stiffness are gone. Get a bottle today. All druggists—35 cents.

FIRE PREVENTION IN RAILWAY CIRCLES TAKEN UP IN TALKS

E. Williamson, superintendent of fire prevention of the Southern railway, was principal speaker at the closing session Thursday of the annual convention of the Railway Fire Prevention association, which was held at the Henry Grady hotel.

Mr. Williamson discussed practically every phase of railroad fires and pointed out that many railroads in the southern states had been devoting more attention to fire prevention in the past few months than ever before. He said that railroads are cooperating with municipal fire prevention agencies and municipal fire officials.

J. V. Chew, of Savannah, superintendent of fire prevention of the Central of Georgia railway, is chairman of the association, and H. R. Birdwell, of Birmingham, of the Southern railway, is secretary.

DICKEY-MANGHAM FIRM NAMED LOAN AGENCY

Atlanta is the first city in the United States to be given a mortgage loan agency by the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company, it was learned Thursday afternoon. The Dickey-Mangham company recently was designated as a mortgage loan agency of the Connecticut company, of Hartford, Conn.

For several years this company has been making loans on farm lands throughout the country but this is the first city mortgage loan agency, it was stated.

Only improved property in Atlanta and vicinity will be taken as security for mortgage loans, it was stated Thursday afternoon and the Dickey-Mangham company already has started preparations to handle a big volume of business.

One of the first steps to be taken in the expansion of the business of the company was the promotion of J. H. Hartley to the position of assistant treasurer and O. J. Parker, Jr., to the position of assistant secretary, Dickey-Mangham officials announced.

COLLECTORS AID CITIZENS TO MAKE INCOME RETURNS

Sixteen deputy collectors will continue the canvass of the state until March 15 for the purpose of assisting federal income taxpayers in preparing their returns for 1926, according to J. T. Rose, collector of internal revenue for Georgia.

"The duty of these deputies," Collector Rose said, "not only is to see that taxpayers include in their returns all taxable income, but to likewise safeguard the taxpayers' interest by making sure that they are given the benefit of every exception, credit and deduction that the law allows."

The following points will be visited on dates indicated:

Adel, March 7; Albany, March 5-15; Alma, March 7; Athens, March 9-10-11; Bristol, March 8; Brunswick, February 28, March 1-2; Camilla, March 2; Cedartown, March 2; Dallas, March 1; Dalton, February 28-March 1; Elberton, March 8; Fairmount, March 2; Fayetteville, February 28; Fitzgerald, March 8 to 11; Folkston, March 5; Gainesville, March 12-14-15; Gordon, March 1; Homerville, March 3-4; Jeffersonville, February 28; LaGrange, March 7-8; Lakeland, February 28; Leesburg, March 3; Manchester, March 10; Nahunta, March 9; Nashville, March 5; Pearson, March 2; Rome, March 3-4-5; Thomasville, February 28-March 1; Tifton, March 12-14-15; Valdosta, March 1-2-3-4; Waycross, March 10 to 15; Waynesboro, March 1; West Point, March 9; Willacoochee, March 1.

The annual southeastern meeting of managers and agents of the Prudential Life Insurance company will close with a business session at 10 o'clock this morning at the Biltmore hotel. The convention, which opened Thursday morning, is attended by about 270 representatives of the company, including Edward D. Duffield, president, and several officials from headquarters at Newark, N. J., and a number of managers, field agents and superintendents.

TUMLIN RELEASED; TO RETURN TO WORK

J. J. Tumlin, brother of Miss Amanda Tumlin, who was slain last road near the Howell Mill road, was released from Fulton tower Thursday upon consent of Solicitor General John A. Boykin. Tumlin had been confined in the tower for several days on a charge of lunacy and his attorneys appeared before the solicitor Thursday, pointing out that their client had recovered his mental poise and was planning on going back to his former duties as a county convict guard.

Hearing on a writ of habeas corpus moving for release of Tumlin, filed recently in Fulton superior court and averring that he was being illegally detained, was slated for Thursday afternoon before Judge Virlyn B. Moore, but the solicitor's action in agreeing that Tumlin be released forestalled the hearing.

PRESERVE THE DOCTRINE!

There would be occasion for real alarm if Great Britain should persist in sending a warship to Nicaragua to "protect the nationals of that nation and their interests."

Such a move would imply the failure of this government to protect the interests of European nations as well as those of this nation, which is an obligation of the United States under both the letter and the spirit of the Monroe doctrine.

In the face of this government's activities in Nicaragua, with the waters of the Caribbean dotted with an American armada today sufficiently strong to even destroy the little republic, it would be a direct challenge of America's sincerity of purpose. Or to put it another way, it would be an implication of an ulterior motive—which would necessarily bring about more serious talk.

In this connection the Venezuelan incident in President Cleveland's administration stalks like a ghost of the past. Just' how critical that situation really was for a while was not known at the time.

The adamant position of this government won, for Mr. Cleveland's inviolate adherence to right admitted of no temporizing. He regarded the Monroe doctrine as the safety valve that could hold the western hemisphere secure from belligerent invasion. He also knew that—once violated—its usefulness would be crushed. His firm position won a fitting place in history.

The position of President Wilson in landing marines in Haiti, when threatened by a French conquest, was in firm support of the integrity of the Monroe doctrine.

This government's recent activities in Nicaragua have been severely criticized because of the charge that it was operating in active support of the Diaz government, rather than for the protection of its nationals and interests and those of other nations.

But in the latter it was impelled by a sacred duty. Beyond that it had no reasonable excuse to go—except that sometimes there are means to an end necessary other than mere diplomacy.

The point is, the United States is fully prepared, with armed forces of land and sea on the scene, to "protect" the interests of Great Britain as well as those of the United States, and it is obligated to do so.

If it has done so, and is doing so, then Great Britain's action could be viewed only as a peril to the doctrine that has for generations been an outstanding influence for the safety of the many nations of the Pan-Americas.

The preservation of the Monroe doctrine, in all of its strength and integrity, is a consideration that this government cannot side-step or parley with.

In the meantime it is reassuring that Great Britain has disclaimed any purpose in sending a war vessel to Nicaragua other than to provide safe housing for its nationals who might need such a refuge. Even in that matter, however, this government is able and should provide such facilities.

The pacifists claim that it is best to be patient in the Nicaragua muddle. But Nicaragua seems to be the patient.

Things are shaping up for the democrats to make the spending of money for campaign purposes an issue, and as usual the republicans will have it to spend.

The Chinese may not have an open door but they are showing some the gate.

JUDSON HARMON.

Judson Harmon, of Ohio, for forty-odd years a stalwart leader in democratic politics, was the "grand old man of his party." He was 81 years old when he died Tuesday, and had remained in the active practice of law until two weeks before the end.

Attracting wide attention first as chief justice of the Ohio supreme court when comparatively young he became a national figure in legal circles when President Grover Cleveland named him attorney general in his second cabinet.

Following his service in that capacity he served two terms as governor, the last time defeating the late President Harding in 1910.

His great party reputation was made as a convention leader. More than once he was a formidable pre-convention candidate—but not of his own design—for the democratic nomination for president. His nomination was defeated only because of his loyal allegiance to the Cleveland school of democratic thought as opposed to the Bryan school that came like a hot wind out of the west in 1896 and kept the party in a storm of conflicting currents for almost 20 years. It was during this period that the old Cleveland democracy of the country turned chiefly to Harmon, but the factionalism was too strong to admit of party victory for any candidate, the republicans holding the reins from 1896 to 1912, when the Taft-Roosevelt break opened the first opportunity.

Judge Harmon was considered one of the nation's greatest legal minds. He placed political honor on the same pedestal with personal honor. His code of principles admitted of no revision. He was a great leader because of his great fitness for leadership.

The multitude of Americans who loved him—of all parties and creeds—feel chief compensation in the fact that he was spared for so long a time for active usefulness and service.

OPERA FUND OVERSUBSCRIBED.

The appreciation among Atlanta's citizens of metropolitan grand opera and of what it means not only to the cultural life, but to the economic life of the city and of Georgia, was never more firmly or fittingly expressed than in the quick and earnest response to the 1927 guarantee. The early oversubscribing of that fund of more than $25,000 is the emphasis in that expression.

The 1927 season—preparations for which are now actively progressing—promises to be the most successful of all of the 16 seasons of the past. Out-of-town reservations are heavy, the week's program is marvelously well balanced, and of an especially pleasing character. The great old favorites, and new ones, will appear among the coterie of stars.

All in all, the people of Atlanta—with their characteristic pride in grand opera—have reasons for an especial pride in the 1927 prospects as they gradually unfold.

THE CRISIS IN CHINA.

The overwhelming action of the house Monday in passing a resolution advising the president to negotiate a separate treaty with China on the basis of complete reciprocity illustrates first a growing apprehension as to the anti-American feeling, and, more significantly, a recognition of the fact that western powers have exploited China rather than helped her toward the nationalization and standardization of her government. There should exist a treaty on a just and fair basis of reciprocal trade and diplomatic relations, and the nationalist movement in China should be consistently encouraged in its efforts for the establishment of tariff autonomy.

In this connection, with the statement that China has herself to blame for her present status of international inequality, we are publishing elsewhere today a communication from Dr. J. C. C. Newton, of Atlanta, who was for many years one of the prominent American educators in China, being president of one of the large universities. Dr. Newton goes analytically into the situation in an informative, interesting way, and gives a version of why the treaty negotiations, following the Washington conference of 1921, collapsed without the definite accomplishments sought. This version is different from that of the diplomatic representative of China in Washington.

When all is said and done one fact stands out. China is torn by cross currents of political ambitions, and in the midst of such a situation it has not been difficult for outside powers, even Japan, to capitalize some of these factions. The attitude of the United States should be to seek for China that order of governmental democracy for which the world war was fought and won.

The president entertained at dinner the head of a great mail order house. You never can tell. Possibly we may soon buy our official positions by mail.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

New York, February 5.—Every once in a while some old bird whose name used to be blazoned on Mazda lane in those far distant nights, "when a round of the town was a round of delights," gets hold of a cub reporter or some woman trying to earn a living in the capital of the commonplace by writing "feature" stories for the Sunday papers, and lets loose a wad of varied and pleasing lies that, while they make good reading, sure do gum the records.

There's Jim Churchill, for example. Jim used to run a comic opera restaurant on the street of queer percentages when Willie Collier, Lillian Russell, De Wolf Hopper, Fritz Williams, Pete Daly, Fay Templeton, Dave Warfield and John Kelly all appeared on the same bill in a Weber and Fields show.

Churchill started life as a cop, became a police captain and finally achieved public attention by cashing in on his knowledge of human nature through the medium of his alleged filet mignon bazar.

Churchill's was the place to which, 25 years ago, the out-of-town-man-about-town could repair with a female chance acquaintance, and over a 3 o'clock in the afternoon bottle of champagne, explain to her just where his wife's understanding of him fell short.

Churchill's was the finishing school for the sap at large on Broadway and the middle distance for certain ladies, without visible means of support, who had graduated from Gallagher's and hoped to achieve Sherry's.

Jim's stock in trade was a flashy facade. He always reminded me of the Last Chance saloon out Arizona way, with the two-story wooden fake front and the half-story rear.

When prohibition hit town Jim just naturally curled up and passed out of the picture. His experience lay in one direction only. He was totally incapable of twisting a new situation to meet his exactions.

A couple of Chinks moved into the place Churchill vacated and demonstrated to the old-time "wise guy" that much money could be made in the restaurant business by dispensing mineral water and steaks.

Jim had cleaned up enough, however, to sit back and dabble in real estate, take a jaunt to Europe or Florida when the spirit moved him and occasionally to "submit" to an interview "touchin' on an' appertainin' to" the dear old days of the dead and busted past.

In one of these interviews recently, he said:

"If it hadn't been for prohibition I'd still be open today—without a cover charge—and making money. It seems to me that with the enactment of the prohibition amendment, New Yorkers became a drinking and not an eating populace."

Jim knows better than that. He simply guessed wrong seven years ago and is trying to alibi his poor judgment.

Since the advent of prohibition the number of eating places and two-by-four coffee joints has tripled. There's one block on Eighth avenue, near the new Garden, with six hash houses on one side of the street and four on the other. Such a thing would have been possible in the old days.

The night clubs don't break into bloom until after theater hours. The speak-easies are dank, uncomfortable places and men, missing their old gin-mill hangouts, just naturally gravitate to the eating places where they kill their spare time continuing futile arguments that were under way round the mahogany bars of the town when Volstead interrupted.

With Jim Churchill's acquaintance among the powers that be and his diamond-shirt-stud temperament, he could have tripled his fortune if he'd had the courage and judgment to hang on and see just what prohibition amounted to.

But he got scared and ran out. He was afraid to take a chance.

New York needs today exactly the sort of place Sir James used to run. There were flowers for the ladies, bon-bons for the babies—and if a wayfarer chanced in, starving to death, Jim could always manage to rustle a lamb chop for him with a slice or two of French friend potato.

"The hilarity in night clubs of the present seems to me to be forced," concludes the worthy brother. "I doubt if many of them make money."

Poor old Jim Churchill—raised out on a bluff!

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Responsible Journalism.

The judge sitting in the Gladstone libel case asked the question, "what is a responsible journalist." The answer from the eminent legalists present is sadly lacking. Captain White qualified himself as a responsible journalist, yet he had recorded "the tittle-tattle of the Upper Tooting Table," as the judge put it. There are two essentials that make up responsible journalism: Exercise of the critical faculty and a regard for facts. It is the former which is oftenest lacking. A trouser-presser had only to announce once that he was the Emir of Kurdistan, and lo, he was indeed the Emir of Kurdistan, the Almanach de Gotha, notwithstanding, because the Almanach de Gotha was not consulted. A millionaire safety-pin manufacturer on his first visit to Europe is taken as an authority on the French economic situation, and a man who spent a clerkship in a European office in some international concession in China, knowing no Chinese above the position of office boy, is quoted as an authority on the Orient.

Attack On Fascism.

Don Sturzo, the Italian priest and leader of the popular party, has written a book on fascism. It must have been a difficult job, for Don Sturzo is not in sympathy with the movement and his work becomes an apology for his own actions. The failure of the popular party then and afterwards, to offer an acceptable alternative to fascism sufficiently attractive to draw the man in the street away from his allegiance to fascism, cannot be explained away however ingeniously. The fascist regime, as Mussolini recently explained, is essentially Italian, suited to Italian requirements, and resulting from a political and economic life different from that of other countries. It would be inconceivable, as Don Sturzo seems to suggest, that Mussolini should try to impose it upon other countries. The suggestion, made by the author that the prosperity reached by Italy today, reflected in her exchange, is either built on an economically unsound basis, or owes nothing to fascism, is mere quibbling, unworthy of a serious contribution to a very interesting subject.

Duse and D'Annunzio.

Arthur Symons tells of Eleonore Duse's last meeting with D'Annunzio in his new book on the great Italian actress who died in Pittsburgh in 1924. D'Annunzio had given her acute pain. There is, perhaps, no more shameful story in the whole history of human love than that of D'Annunzio's treatment of Duse. This man made a book out of his love affair with her. She met him again 25 years later in Milan when they had to discuss a revised version of his play. "The poet," writes Mr. Symons, "went up to her as she entered the room, and with outstretched hands and taking hers, murmured: 'My friend.' She said nothing of her long dead past which had been so wonderful, and she paid no attention to his visible emotion. There was his drama to discuss, his present and future work; and then he praised the modification she had made. As he said farewell a sudden flash of memory surged over him. 'And yet,' he said, still holding her hands, and with a certain hesitation in his voice, 'not even you can imagine how much I loved you.' To which Duse, always the same, replied in her ironical fashion. 'And, today, not even you can imagine how much I have forgotten—you!'"

Your Boy and Your Girl

The Parent Counsellor

RIGHT AND WRONG.

"Is it right to kiss?"

"Is it right to meet a boy on a street corner?"

"Is it wrong to give a boy a nice petting party when he takes one to a 25-cent movie?"

"Is it right to read sexy magazines?"

"Is it wrong to wear a drug-store face?"

Amid all the books of the world filled with great achievements and wonderful romance, all the beauty and charm of nature, all the problems of discovering a suitable vocation, and all the possibilities of a life full of real advanture—youth has facing it such momentous questions as indicated. And they are momentous.

Another, "Appeal to the church denominational code."

And others, "Start a state censorship board."

And again, "Make a new law."

Then the chorus, "The old standards of right and wrong have broken down—something must be done about it."

I'll agree—WE MUST DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT.

Let's start. How is this for a program:

1—Every parent to deny himself or herself the pleasure of indulging at the breakfast table in an orgy of imaginative participation in the vices and griefs of the latest scandal from New York, Hollywood or Simpkins Corners.

2—Every father and mother to fight against false prudery in order to establish the rights of their children to an undistorted, candid education on the facts of life. As Harry Emerson Fosdick puts it, "Our magazines are full of it and our young people have it thrust upon them in many ways. It would be a pity if the pulpit would be the only place where a discussion of sex is to be tabooed." In plain English, discussion of sex is everywhere EXCEPT WHERE IT BELONGS.

3—Clean up our own homes. Establish some fundamental philosophy in our own lives. Talk about bigger things than gossip. Quarrel, if we must, but over something of real importance. Treat mother as though she was human. Give father a chance to have some peace. Give the youngsters something to do and less of things not to do. Put some gumption into this home business.

4—Remember that it takes daring and courage to keep up a high standard of good taste in the face of wrong popular tendencies. After we have discarded, as so many seem to want, the words RIGHT and WRONG we still have, remember, the words BEAUTIFUL and UGLY.

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER.

Mental Arithmetic.
It Pays.

What do you think of this idea: How would it do if we schoolboys sometime wrote a letter to our teachers telling them how much they have done for us, how they have broadened our mind and outlook? I think it would do them as much good as a monthly pay check.

HIGH SCHOOL BOY.

Answer—It is always a good idea to say and do nice things when one does not want anything, and not to wait until he wants something from someone before he starts paying compliments or giving thanks.

Grow to It Naturally.

What should stepchildren call a stepmother? Mine do not call me anything to my face, but call me by my first name when speaking of me. They say I am too young to be called their "mother."

STEPMOTHER.

Answer—Should call you "mother," but do not insist. Rather let them grow naturally to it. If your husband takes the lead it will be easier for the children.

Successful politicians, business and professional men do nice things every day in the week, knowing conclusively or unconsciously that they are able to approach anyone at some time when they want something and be more liable to get it than if they ignored people until they want something.

I always feel a little bit hurt when a former student from whom I have not heard for many years writes me a lovely letter, three pages of loveliness (which I skip through very hurriedly), because on the fourth page I find he wants a recommendation. Why didn't he keep in touch with me all these years so I would know him well enough to so recommend him that he would get the job?

Dr. Newton Says China Is Wholly To Blame For Treaty Failures

Editor Constitution: Concerning China and the foreign powers there is a misunderstanding among not a few Americans, and there is misrepresentation of the facts in certain quarters. Whatever of blame may justly be fastened upon the foreign powers in times past, the situation today is very different. The United States, Great Britain and other foreign powers are no longer responsible for the continuance of those one-sided unequal treaties so long existing. This statement is not an opinion, but rests upon undeniable facts. That is to say, at the Washington disarmament conference five years ago, it was agreed between the United States, England and other powers that negotiations should be held to revise the old system of custom house administration in China, in order to recognize her sovereign rights as to tariff autonomy. The principle involved in tariff autonomy in China is precisely the same when applied to the question of extraterritoriality and to the concessions at the seaports hitherto exclusively under foreign control.

In accordance with the agreement reached at the disarmament conference with the Chinese delegates the powers commissioners were sent by the United States, Great Britain, Japan and other foreign powers to Pekin. These commissioners were met by certain Chinese gentlemen claiming authority to represent China and negotiations were opened. But after going on for a time, lo and behold! the negotiations suddenly stopped! And why? Because the Pekin government hitherto the central government had collapsed, the president having fled from the capital and the cabinet having naturally become disorganized. But our foreign commissioners had hope that ere long a central government could be reinstated in power so that negotiations might be resumed, looking to a new treaty. And they sat there, waited, and continued to wait for a half year, with folded hands, doing nothing! Finally our United States and British commissioners, with the others, decided to return to their respective countries. That this was the right and only course is proven by the fact that to this day China is still split up into warring factions, with no stable and nation-wide government.

In the light of these facts, who was responsible for the breakdown? And who is to blame today that China has not gotten the new treaties? Who is to blame that China does not stand, like Japan, upon a basis of absolute national equality with all the great powers? The evident answer is China herself. Seeing that the foreign powers, to prove their willingness to accord to China what she had been clamoring for sent their representatives all the way to China's capital to open negotiations, and seeing how those foreign representatives, after China's government had collapsed, continued to wait half a year hoping against hope that properly authorized Chinese would appear to resume negotiations—I say, in view of these facts, it ill becomes Dr. Alfred Sze in Washington and Eugene Cheng in China to issue public statements concealing the above undeniable facts.

If China, herself, had not broken down in the midst of negotiations, carried on within her own gates, she might be standing today just where Japan is. Japan was once deprived these international rights but today she has them in full. It was by the revision of international treaties through her own properly authorized representatives, and not by riotous mobs, or through army generals representing only a part of the whole nation. Let China do likewise and she will get all that is hers.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

FIFTY YEARS OF CONSTIPATION.

A Michigan man occupies the pulpit today. He does as I say, and so I am glad to let him say as I do:

Ludington, Mich.

Dr. William Brady,
Dear Sir—

You are wrong when you call constipation a habit. It is not even a habit. It simply does not exist, except in the imagination. I know whereof I speak. I am 55 years old and have suffered with constipation (in imagination) since childhood.

When I first read your remarks on constipation, I believed that you were right about most cases but I was sure my case was different. You see, I had reached the stage where I was convinced that nothing could pass through my bowels until it was reduced to a semi-liquid state by the use of some kind of a cathartic. I was quite sure that if I were placed in a position where I could not obtain a cathartic I would die a horrible death. Then I came across a statement of yours, to the effect that nothing but a complete obstruction of the intestines could hinder the action of the bowels, and that an interval of a week or ten days without a bowel passage was not harmful.

Eight months ago I decided to take your word for it and go the limit. I did. My pill box still sits on by bedroom dresser. The lid has not been off it for eight months. The first bowel movement came eight days after banishing the pills. It came naturally and painlessly. Since then the movements have come at irregular intervals of from one to eight days. During this time I have not suffered the least distress internally, and my usual spells of "billious headache" and "auto-intoxication" disappeared completely the day I glued the lid on my pill box. I lead an active life, so I did not think it necessary to take your rolling or somersaulting.

Dr. Brady, you can imagine what this means to me when I tell you that my work requires 16 hours service a day, 365 days in the year. That I perform as much bodily labor in that 16 hours as the average laboring man does in eight hours, and my mind is required to be decidedly on the alert every minute of the 16 hours. Of the balance of the 24 hours each day, I usually spend two of them in reading, and the other six sleeping soundly.

You are doing a good work, doctor, and I thank you.

Yours very truly,

I have received scores of similar reports, that is, a considerable number of people have informed me that they have succeeded in recovering from the constipation and physic habit just as this Michigan man did and invariably the reports agree that no particular harm or even discomfort comes from the first long wait, whether it be two days or ten.

This feature is of the utmost importance, for it is the universal fear of dire consequences from delay of a bowel movement that keeps so many poor goofs enslaved to this depraved habit.

Note that this Michigan man at first doubted the assurance I gave that constipation is merely a bad habit and there is no harm whatever in going a week without movement. He thought that might apply to other folk but of course not to him. If you are a victim of the constipation and physic habit you will probably think as the Michigan man did. But if you can take my word for it, my assurance as a physician of fair experience and a health authority of fair standing, that no serious harm can be done by waiting a week for nature to resume control of the bowel functions, why, here's your chance to go free. Take it or leave it. I don't care a hoot one way or the other.

Were it only constipation, I would not waste space talking about it. Constipation is a trifle of no particular importance so far as health may be concerned. It is the homely physics and various artifices which people with morbid obsessions about the effects of constipation resort to, that do incalculable harm, and I am trying to exhort such people to free themselves.

When anybody does win his freedom through my efforts I feel that it is a victory for health.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Let Plump Enough Alone.

Please send me directions for reducing. I am five feet tall, weigh 125 pounds, 37 years old, health excellent. I would like to lose 10 pounds. Played golf all summer and fall but never lost an ounce.

(Mrs. K. F. B.)

Answer—And may you never lose another, is the wish of an admirer of nice plump women. Your craving to reduce is abnormal. Your weight is normal. Congratulations, and try the Brady symphony for that fat feeling.

Sulphur in Shoes.

An 80-year-old man in Massachusetts attributes his health to the fact that he has always put a teaspoonful of sulphur in each shoe every morning in the spring and fall. He claims it wards off colds and grip. (Mrs. B. W. J.)

Answer—No particular harm in it, at any rate, but I'd like to hear what Mr. Chauncey M. Depew, 93 years old, would say about it.

Very Dead.

Your article about the impossibility of penetrating the skin with foods or medicines prompts me to ask whether ichthyol which physicians prescribe as an application to the leg in a case of plebitis, penetrates the skin? If not, why is it used? (F. M. C.)

Answer.—No. Ichthyol is a substance obtained from dead fish, fish which have been dead a long long time, fossil fish, in fact. It looks and smells impressive. But . . . it reminds me of the O'Rourke who had just received citizenship papers. He had something in celebration of the event. Then he watched a big switch engine shunting cars. "You may back up, go ahead, you may puff and blow, but you can't vote."

EVERYDAY QUESTIONS

ANSWERED BY

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman.

Easton, Pa.

Do you not thing that some erotic fiction peddled today is a libel on ordinary humanity?

It is often absolutely out of touch with it, purely autobiographical, nothing more than a series of characters having no actual counterpart in normal human existence, and invented for the purpose of mouthing the diseased fancies of their creators. The sentiments they express are unmistakably those of an individual pervert.

Not a few of these novelists rail against the average American as irremediably stupid and vulgar. They rave about the countless Babbitts and damn all their works and ways. Yet I venture to say that any citizen who is not a degenerate would scorn the trick of parading personal obscenities in the disguise of fictitious dialogues which reek with sex fanaticism. These precious products are really the self-exposures of obscene minds wallowing in lust's imagination.

Vicksburg, Va.

Do you call this a Christian country when a southern Methodist conference requires its ministers to abstain from tobacco?

I certainly should not call ours a non-Christian country because these Methodist brethren require ministerial abstention from the weed. Evidently they are not of the mind of Charles Kingsley, the vigorous and attractive cleric of Angelicianism who declared that tobacco was the poor man's friend and the lonely man's companion. For the rest of this eulogium of "Lady Nicotine" page Salvation Yeo in "Westward Ho!"

But why confuse faith and character with ecclesiastical ordinances? Every church has the moral right to impose these rules upon its members so long as they consent thereto. We may not deem the imposition wise, but that is not the decisive issue. Lodges and various fraternal orders likewise exact strict obedience to their internal regulations, and since it is voluntarily given, no serious harm is done.

Moreover, numerous medical authorities fight shy of tobacco, and athletes in training are forbidden to use it during the preparatory periods. I am not a strong believer in regulations of the sort you name. But at least they suggest a desire for protection from what can become in its excessive addicts a dirty habit and one frequently oblivious to the comfort and even the safety of other people.

St. Francis discarded the dress of his period; the monks assumed the tonsure; Salvation Army lassies wear poke bonnets and Roman Catholics as well as High Anglicans will not eat meat on Fridays. These practices may seem foolish to you, yet I never heard that they damaged religion, and it is infinitely more foolish to associate the Christianity of any community with its use or non-use of tobacco.

Belleville, N. J.

Is there any historical evidence in existence that either Jesus or St. Paul actually lived as outlined in the New Testament?

Please state briefly your opinion of the book called "Christ Myth," by Professor Drews, which caused quite some discussion through Europe about 10 or 12 years ago.

The reference to Jesus in the work of Roman and Jewish historians of the first century are very few indeed. Josephus, the Jewish historian, in the 18th and 20th book of his well-known work, "Jewish Antiquities," mentions the name of Jesus twice. A few modern scholars regard these references as later interpolations by Christian writers, but the majority, while asserting that some things have been added, claim that the reference to Jesus is genuine. Pliny, the Roman historian, in a letter to Trajan in 110 A. D. refers to Christ and His followers, and Tacitus, in his "Annals," xv, 44, says that the Christians received the name from Christ, who was condemned to death by the procurator Pontius Pilate.

St. Paul's bona fide letters in the New Testament are the best evidence for his existence. To them must be added, however, the witness of the Acts of the Apostles and of the Second Epistle of Peter.

Arthur Drews belongs to that weird coterie which holds that Christ was a mythical figure and his cult a pre-Christian one with which was blended some elements of astral worship.

Dr. Joseph Klausner, a learned Jewish author, in his recent study of "Jesus of Nazareth" asserts that every step that Jesus took, everything He did, every word He spoke, recall to us chiefly by confirmation, though sometimes by contradiction, the Palestine of His time and contemporary Jewish life and Pharisaic teaching.

The shadowy figure which Drews portrays is a totally inadequate cause for the great movements that sprang from Christ's life and ministry. This writer insists that religion must be purged of all references to Jesus if it is to be pure and efficient, an assertion which is its own refutation.

Time and Tide

KNOWLEDGE IS RICHES.

What good is a book that is never opened? In American public libraries at this very moment are upwards of 75,000,000 volumes, and the problem of librarians is to get useful and instructive books off the shelves out among the people.

To read even a few of these books would show us how to live more wisely, how to avoid old mistakes that for centuries have kept the race back. Millions and tens of millions of dollars could be saved each year. We would have better sanitation in our homes and in our cities, abler business methods, if we read more of those valuable books in our public libraries for which our cities tax themselves heavily.

Why not take advantage of this opportunity? It promises untold reward and has been overlooked by you, perhaps.

It's yours for the asking.

Aside from the old writers, a modern generation of practical thinkers and scientists has added immense stores of knowledge to the important subject of right living and right thinking; interpreting the nation's business, health and happiness for your especial benefit, if you will but call at your library.

Perhaps you are thinking of an old-fashioned library, shelves of writings in Greek and Latin, a few dull encyclopedias, thousands of silly love stories, poets that tear passion to tatters?

Modern leaders of thought are along another order, entirely. They show us in plain common sense style the complexity of forces that make or mar life, how to an ever larger extent those forces may be grasped, or if not actually controlled, at least helpfully directed.

Get acquainted with your librarian. Explain to him your problems, let him select for you a few useful books. And that is what we all need. Printer's ink is the universal medicine, for all ills. "Knowledge of itself is riches."

Human Nature on the Half Shell

A PENCIL AND A CHRISTIAN.

There are as many "trick" pencils on the market as there are "trick" religions—each one more complicated than the other.

Some years ago I owned a "trick" pencil—a hard rubber affair with silver filagree. When thoughts were vagrant it could coax them back to fit any passing mood. A magic pencil, sure enough, and I shall probably never know another like it.

About a year after each had learned the vagaries of the other's temperament, I carried the pencil out with me on a newspaper assignment to a seaside resort 50 miles from Park Row, as the flivver rattles.

I was to interview a clergyman with a grievance. The Rev. Gentleman's domicile, with its study fronting the street, was adjacent to a public school and at the noon hour many boys foregathered in the neighborhood to play ball.

The doctor's mind became especially active daily in the hour following the cacophonous din of the 12 o'clock whistles. It was then that with telling strokes he brushed in the verbal high lights of the ensuing Sunday's discourse. But how can a man focus his thoughts on angels with a band of young devils screeching and screaming in the street beyond his study window?

An appeal to the authorities brought the local chief of police sauntering to the scene one day just as a transgressor, batting out a long, lazy "fly" turned to tear down the base line. Whereupon the chief ripped off his cap and added his bazoo to the shrill encouragement of a score of juvenile rooters.

That was the last straw. The Rev. Doc. carried his appeal to the mayor and at that juncture I appeared, with my silver filagree pencil.

The man of God talked to me in his study, the forefinger of his left hand marking the place of his reading where he had been interrupted by my advent. The volume, I recall, was titled: "The Positive Note in Christianity."

Later he threw the book aside to hammer with both fists on the table till the lamp jumped. He was a peaceful prelate, he assured me, but he'd be John Browned to Gosh, or words to that effect, if he was going to have his life made miserable, day after day, by a band of young hoodlums.

He arose and paced the room, hurling infelicities on the shortcomings of the modern youngster. Once he paused to select an apple from a heaping dish nearby, bisected it with his pocket knife, offering me my choice of halves.

It was what used to be known on Park Row as a good "Monday morning story," and I did it full justice. Looking back in the light of a chastened experience I fear I did more justice to the yarn than to the subject of it. Not that I maligned the Doctor, but he didn't get any of the "breaks."

It was while I was writing the story that I first missed my magic pencil. A subsequent search proved futile and as a last resort, several days later, I called the Doctor on the long distance phone.

His greeting was far from genial. I don't think his heart thumped for me as the heart of a pulpiteer should thump for love of an erring brother.

"Yes," he said, in a tone like the dripping of an icicle, "I found your pencil on the table in my study after your departure. There is one way—and I may add, only one way, sir—that you can get your pencil back. You will have to stand before me face to face."

I told him I'd run down some day, but I never did. Each time I was prompted to make the trip the menace of his measured tone deterred me. You have no idea how earnest he seemed; and eventually I decided to permit him to retain the pencil.

You can push a fervent Christian just so far!

The Marriage Problem

By ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE

Author of "The Runaway Bag," "Black Gold," etc.

None of the Proposed New Amendments to Marriage Is Newer Than the Sphinx—Until Human Nature Changes, the True Essentials of Wedded Comradeship Cannot Change.

There might be a quaint pleasure in letting the imagination run riot, cheerily independent of sanity, in a forecast as to the future of marriage—to paint bizarre pictures of a marriageless world or an upside down wedded condition. There are a hundred amusing variations of the possibilities, and each could be backed by specious logic.

And each would be asinine.

You might forecast for fifty years hence a blue sun rising daily in a maroon sky, and back it by the supposedly increasing power of ultra-violet or infra-red rays. The sun will keep on in its old color and on its own course when our generation's great-great-grandchildren are dust.

So will marriage.

Because in a few of its outermost fringes marriage today differs ever so little from marriage of a century ago, that is no reason for thinking it will go on changing until those eccentric outermost fringes shall affect the core of it.

There is nothing new in the so-called new era. The fundamentals have not shifted, cannot shift, any more than the solar system has shifted or can shift. One is as basic and as eternal as is the other.

What are the new twists to marriage, as against the customs of a century ago? Prevalence of divorce; the right of a wife to her own money; the omission of the underworked word "obey" from the wedding ceremony; the equality or the superiority of woman; her refusal to stay in the kitchen and develop into a drudge while her husband goes ahead; her insistence on the keeping of her maiden name; her occasional refusal to be true to any one man. These are some of them, and the rest are of the same order. From these hypotheses we build up a vision of a new marriage state. Why? The same thing has been happening over and over again for eons.

Divorce? Why, it was so common among the Romans of the empire that women married and divorced five or six successive husbands. Among the Bedouins for 3,000 years a handful of spoken words have constituted a legal bill of divorcement. The right of a wife to her own money? In more than one of the civilized nations and sects of the old world, in the days of Egyptian supremacy, the same thing prevailed and was a sacred law. It is found among certain semibarbarous tribes today. The omission of "obey?" Go back to post-classical Rome for that, and to Babylonia, too, and for marriage customs in lands more than half-civilized during hundreds of years since then.

The equality of woman was declared in Egypt during a long dynasty, and in other enlightened and unenlightened lands. Her superiority was claimed by the Amazons and other people and is still regarded as a proved fact in parts of Mongolia. Her refusal to be a drudge? Read at least one Greek play satirizing that very refusal, and the tales of woman's ancient revolt in kingdoms that are dead.

The keeping of her maiden name? Before ever Lucy Stone was dreamed of that was a time-hallowed custom in a dozen places. African tribes, Martinique negroes, many other folk all tried that out centuries agone. Read Barrie's "Margaret Ogilvie" for proof of its presence in Scotland of fifty years back.

Her refusal to be bound to any one man? Did you never hear of polyandry—a custom still practiced in Afghanistan and elsewhere under sanction of law—several legal husbands to one dominating and domineering wife?

And so on through the whole sorry list. None of these "new" things is much newer than the Sphinx—from trial marriage to the shucking of the wedding ring. All of them have been tried, sometimes singly, sometimes in groups, since before the dawn of the Christian era. And by the way, an actual marriage ceremony was not in vogue in some parts of the civilized world until long after the birth of that era.

Through it all the same ancient marriage custom and relation and tie, and the cleaving of one wife to one man, have continued as unfalteringly as has the course of the sun itself—have continued, continue, shall continue so long as human nature and human exigencies and human civilizations shall endure.

The marriage of the future (fifty years or fifty centuries hence) will be the marriage of today and of a thousand years ago. From time to time variants and innovations will seem to threaten it, as ever they have done. And always it will go on undisturbed by them. Human nature changes not at all, except in its occasionally added or discarded externals. Everything that happens has happened before and will happen again.

Until human nature changes, the true essentials of marriage and of wedded life and wedded comradeship can never change.

Contracts for $160,000 worth of road work will be let at the office of the state highway department at East Point Friday, it was announced.

GUILTY PLEAS DRAW PRISON SENTENCES

Three pleas of guilt Thursday morning in United States district court brought prison sentences to defendants.

Joe Boyle, former inmate of the Atlanta federal penitentiary, who was released from the prison little more than a month ago, after serving three and one-half years on motor vehicle theft charges, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary on charges of possessing morphine.

Nathaniel Jeffrey, former special delivery messenger in the Atlanta postoffice, was sentenced to a year and a day in the penitentiary, and William A. Clark, also a former special delivery boy, was sent to the national training school for boys at Washington, D. C., for a year and a half, both pleading guilty to mail theft charges. Clark drew the training school sentence on the plea that he was under age.

MELLON INTEREST IN MEXICO QUIZZED

Washington, February 24.—(AP)—The senate today asked Secretary Kellogg by resolution whether companies in which Edward L. Doheny, Harry F. Sinclair or "The Mellon intercests" are interested among those holding oil concessions in Mexico or whether these companies have accepted the New Mexican oil concession.

REBEL LEADER'S CLAIMS DENIED.

Mexico City, February 24.—(AP)—Official announcements and press dispatches disagree with the claims of Adolfo de la Huerta, former provisional president of Mexico and now head of revolutionary movements, that 6,000 Mexican federal troops have suffered defeat and heavy casualties at the hands of Yaqui Indians in the state of Sonora. Federal forces have been reported by the war department to be ejecting Yaqui Indians from their mountain strongholds and to be constantly pursuing them.

De la Huerta's claims were made Wednesday at Los Angeles. He said the federals fell into an ambush and one column was annihilated, while the other two suffered enormous losses. The communique told also of federal defeats in the states of Gianajuato and Guerrero, "where de la Huerta forces are operating, as they are in all the states of the republica." The reports were flatly denied by Mexicon officials in Nogales, Sonora.

For two weeks the papers have carried almost daily reports of one or more rebels killed in clashes between small insurgent bands and federal troops in various states. The largest engagement recently was one last night when eight rebels were killed in an encounter with federal forces at Villegas, state of Jalisco.

Griffin, Ga., February 24.—(Special.)—A car load of poultry will be shipped from Griffin, Macon, Fort Valley and Barnesville this week, according to W. T. Bennett, Spalding county agent. The chickens will go to the Tennessee Egg company.

This is the first time in the history of this section that chickens on a large scale have been shipped to another state, but the poultry business here is steadily increasing.

HILLIARD, NOTED ACTOR OF HE-MAN ROLES, ILL

New York, February 24.—(AP)—Robert Hilliard, noted actor of he-man roles, was seriously ill today. Mrs. Corabell Hilliard, his first wife, died yesterday at her home in Brooklyn. Their son, Commander Robert Bell Hilliard, U. S. N., was called to his father's bedside before Mrs. Hilliard died.

The actor was first married in 1881. Mrs. Hilliard obtained a divorce in 1894 with the custody of their son. Later the actor married Mrs. Nellie E. Murphy and upon her death married Mrs. Olga Everard Williams, from whom he separated by mutual agreement in 1923.

MINERS ARE FIRM ON PAY CUT VETO

Miami, Fla., February 24.—(AP)—The spotlight which played here for 10 days on the unsuccessful negotiations between miners and operators of the unionized central bituminous field shifted northward today with the scheduled departure of the last of the miner delegates.

Some 30 men, including President John L. Lewis, were to leave for their homes in different sections of the east and middle west. President Lewis will go to Indianapolis, where the union headquarters are located.

What steps will be taken to resume the negotiations have not been divulged, although there was a general feeling in conference circles, prior to the departure of the conferees that the miners and operators will get together again to devise agreements that will prevent a walkout of union miners in the central field after the Jacksonville contract expires on March 31.

President Lewis made no statement.

It was authoritatively said, however, that the committee decided that the miners will stand by their conference demands of no wage reductions and that outlying districts, whose contracts are made on the basis of that negotiated for the central field, will be permitted to continue union operations under their present contract pending the settlement of the wage question in the central field, in event that no new wage contract has been drafted before April 1.

Bodies Are Seen On Redhot Deck Of Burned Ship

New York, February 24.—Bodies have been found in the hulk of the burned British oil tanker, Black Sea, which is beached on Red Hook flats in the harbor off Brooklyn.

A wireless message from the tug Resolute, which is standing by the tanker, to police headquarters today requested that a police launch be sent to the scene.

When the police launch reached the tanker two bodies, presumably those of seamen, were found on the port side of the steamer. The starboard side of the craft still was red hot, as a result of yesterday's explosion off Bayonne, N. J., and firemen and policemen were unable to determine whether there were other bodies in the wreckage.

CARELESS DRIVERS OF CARS BREAKING ENGINEERS' NERVES

Champaign, Ill., February 24.—(AP) Careless automobile drivers are destroying the nerve of locomotive engineers, H. W. Howard, Champaign, an engineer for 40 years, today told those attending the highway short course of the University of Illinois.

The sensation of sitting in a cab and watching a locomotive plow into an automobile load of people is a terrifying experience, he declared.

"Sunday is the engineer's day of dread. Many of our engineers lay off Sundays, fearful of these horrible grade crossing accidents. There is always the possibility of a bad wreck of the train itself with more than a chance that the engineer, as well as the passengers, will meet with sudden death. If the automobile goes under the locomotive a derailment is almost certain. In 1926 27 derailments occurred, killing 59 trainmen and injuring 138 passengers."

CHARLOTTE ASKS TO BE MADE STOP ON AIR MAIL LINE

Washington, February 24.—(AP)—A plea for inclusion of Charlotte, N. C., as a stop on the New York-Atlanta air mail route was made today to Second Assistant Postmaster General Glover by a delegation from that city. Mr. Glover, the head of the air mail service, promised consideration would be given the proposal. The delegation headed by the mayor of Charlotte and C. O. Kuester, of the chamber of commerce, was accompanied by Congressman Bulwinkle.

It is believed by air mail officials that a stop will be necessary between Greensboro and Atlanta, although none had been included in the tentative schedule. Spartanburg, S. C., and Charlotte, N. C., are seeking to have the postal authorities authorize stops.

The service of the new route for which a bid was received yesterday, probably will not begin before July 1 as the lighting of the airway has not been begun by the department of commerce. Officials of that department have their plans ready and it is likely the work of placing beacons and lighting landing fieldings will begin soon

EASTERN STAR OFFICIAL'S BODY ARRIVES IN U. S.

Newport, Ky., February 24.—(AP)—Louis Henrich, Newport, received word that the body of his wife, Mrs. Clara Henrich, who died January 26 at Shanghai, China, has arrived on the steamship President Pierce at San Francisco and will reach Cincinnati Sunday night.

Mrs. Henrich was right worthy grand matron of the general grand chapter, Order of the Eastern Star of the World, and was making an official visit to chapters of the order in the orient at the time of her death. She was accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Cora Cohen, of Houston, Texas, who returned on the steamship with the body. The funeral services will be held Wednesday at the First Presbyterian church, Newport, and will be attended by Eastern Star representatives from various parts of the country.

7 KANSAS BANKS FORCED TO CLOSE BY STATE ACTION

Topeka, Kas., February 24.—(AP)—Seven banks of the Montee-Miller group in southeastern Kansas were closed today by the state banking department.

The banks, controlled by John G. Miller, Pittsburgh, Kas., coal operator, and J. W. Montee, of Ft. Scott, former state senator, were located at Pittsburgh, Ft. Scott, Englevale, Cherokee, Arma, Opolis and Mulberry.

Bad loans and frozen assets were given as causes for the closing. The total capitalization of the banks was $160,000, total loans and discounts $750,000 and total deposits $959,000.

Due to the extensive interests of Miller, who has pledged his property to meet the losses, it is expected that the depositors will suffer no loss.

Milton C. Work's Pointer On How To Play Bridge

Milton C. Work, the international bridge authority, will answer your auction bridge questions. A stamped self-addressed envelope must accompany each request for replies.

(In response to numerous requests, Mr. Work will write on Contract today and tomorrow. His daily Auction Bridge Pointers will be resmed on Monday.)

There are two principal American codes for Contract Auction Bridge, and one of them no doubt will ultimately become the standard; at this writing no one can tell which one it will be. These are the codes of the Racquet club and the Knickerbocker Whist club (New York) which have been given in these articles during the past two days. A comparison of the two follows:

The Racquet club counts 20 for Minor tricks (Diamonds and Clubs), 30 for Major tricks (Spades and Hearts), and 35 for No Trumps, 100 points being the game. The Knickerbocker Whist club uses the present Bridge values of 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 for the various suits and retains the Bridge 30 for the game. There is no difference between the two counts as to the number of tricks required to make game in any suit, but the Racquet club count runs to higher figures.

There is no difference between the two codes in the honor values, the allowance for winning games and rubbers, the allowance for slams bid and made, the bonuses allowed for making contract when doubled, or for making extra tricks, doubled or undoubled. There is a slight difference in the penalty for a defeated contract when doubled. The Racquet club count allows when invulnerable, 100 per trick for the first four tricks, 200 for the fifth trick, and 400 for each subsequent trick; if vulnerable these penalties are doubled. The Knickerbocker count allows when invulnerable, 100 per trick for the first three tricks, 200 for the fourth and 400 for each subsequent trick; if vulnerable these penalties are doubled. The difference is that the Knickerbocker reaches its severe penalty one trick sooner.

For Revoke Penalties, both counts allow two tricks for the first revoke and 100 points in the honor column for each subsequent revoke in the same suit; but the Racquet club count provides that if a subsequent revoke be in another suit, it shall count two tricks, while for any revoke after the first, the Knickerbocker count allows 100 points.

Tomorrow a final article upon Contract will be devoted to Contract bidding.

Auto, Liquor Cargo Left in Man's Flight To Escape Officers

Halting an automobile early Thursday morning that was being driven along the Roswell road without a tail light, four Fulton county policemen found themselves in undisputed possession of the machine and 15 gallons of whisky, abandoned by the driver after one glance at the official party, police reports show. Officers were Lieutenant Butler and Policemen Cal Cates, Hughes and Stovall, of the Fulton county force, who took the car and its cargo to the courthouse.

Here's Another Illustration Of Your Insurance Needs

"Three Injured as Street Cars Crash."

That was a headline appearing in Thursday's papers, and it serves as just another illustration of the constant danger in which you stand as the result of the ever-mounting tide of traffic and other accidents.

A moment's indecision while you drive your car; another person's error; a mistake in orders or a weakness of equipment while you are riding on public carriers; a second's carelessness on the part of the driver of the car in which you are riding; the work of a speeding automobile operator—and you are slain or injured.

Any one of these perils may leave you dead or maimed. Thousands are claimed victims by accidents; when will your time come?

If you desire to protect your income against an abrupt halt and to throw a financial safeguard about your loved ones, take advantage of The Constitution's great reader-service offer of a $7,500 travel accident insurance policy issued by the North American Accident Insurance company, an old and reliable concern. The cost is within the means of every man and woman—only $1.25 per year.

This great policy provides for payments ranging downward from $7,500 in case of death resulting from certain specified accidents; heavy cash sums for permanent injuries, and $10 weekly indemnity for disability resulting from the accidents named.

This $7,500 travel, $2,000 auto and $1,000 pedestrian accident policy is issued only to subscribers of The Daily and Sunday Constitution and immediate dependent members of a subscriber's family between the ages of 15 and 70 at $1.25 per policy per year. Open to both old and new subscribers.

Atlanta Swings into the Lead

Her 170 New Street Cars Top the National Record!

SINCE 1922, 170 new street cars have been placed in service in Atlanta, giving Atlanta supremacy in another field. No city of comparable size in the whole nation can equal Atlanta's record in new street cars purchased during the past five years.

To this five-year record was added an even more impressive record in 1926.

During 1926, seventy new cars were placed in service in Atlanta. This figure not only outstripped the record of any other Southern city, but was not equalled by any American city twice the size of Atlanta. In fact, Atlanta stood sixth in the whole nation, its number of new street cars being surpassed only by Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, Brooklyn and the company serving Long Island.

Atlanta's remarkably high standing in 1926 is illustrated by the fact that Memphis and Dallas, which ranked next to Atlanta in the South, obtained last year 32 new street cars each, less than half the number placed in service in Atlanta.

Your new street cars have not only won national recognition for Atlanta's street car service, but they have brought new comfort to the car riders, more seats, faster schedules, more dependable service. The new cars are the last word in modern construction, as flexible in traffic as the finest motor car.

They are part of our program to make Atlanta's street car service the—

KLAN IS BEATEN IN SUPREME COURT

Washington, February 24.—(AP)—The Ku Klux Klan today lost in the supreme court its claim of the right to carry on activities in any state without obtaining permission from the state.

The question reached the court from Kansas in an appeal by the Georgia Klan corporation, which sought to conduct its activities there without obtaining permission as required by the Kansas law relating to corporations organized in other states.

Questioning of John S. Dean, counsel for the klan, by the members of the court during his argument was followed by Chief Justice Taft's announcement that counsel for the state would not have to be heard as the court was without jurisdiction in the case. An order giving effect to the court's decision to dismiss the appeal will shortly be announced, probably Monday.

In opening his argument, Mr. Dean emphasized the importance of the controversy from the viewpoint of the Ku Klux Klan and declared that it wanted to contest the right of any state to exclude it as a foreign corporation. He asserted that every citizen and corporation of the United States had that right under the federal constitution.

Members of the court declined to agree with him and expressed their views to the contrary. These were summarized by Justice McReynolds, who demanded that Dean state the grounds for claiming such a right. He replied that every corporation, including the klan, was guaranteed by the federal constitution rights of free speech, a free press and to conduct propaganda. Chief Justice Taft then interjected that no corporation had the right to go into a state without its permission unless engaged in interstate commerce. Dean, however, contended that the klan was engaged in such commerce.

WEALTHY YOUTH MET AT JAIL DOOR BY SWEETHEART

Clarksdale, Miss., February 24.—(AP)—William Perry Apple, Chicago art student, finished a 30-day term in jail here today and was met by his fiancee, Miss Edith Lorin, who had come fro mher home in St. Paul, Minn., to be married to him. They changed their plans, however, and postponed the wedding six months.

Apple and a companion, Abraham Fogan, both of whom are said to be sons of wealthy Chicago families were convicted in federal court here of interstate transportation of a stolen automobile and served sentences together.

Woman Worth Millions Ill Of Starvation

BY MAURICE MERMEY.

Chicago, February 24.—(United News.)—Her fortune is estimated at $5,000,000—or more—yet Mrs. Ada Sawyer Garrett, 70, is critically ill from self-imposed starvation. Found by her friends Thursday suffering from pernicious anemia in a dingy room of a cheap loop hotel, she was removed to a hospital.

Chicago's "Hetty Green" has had a passion for self-denial, her friends said. It is an unexplained trait for, in another decade, she was a belle. The toast of Chicago's north side, with a remarkable acumen for business.

For many years Mrs. Garrett, granddaughter of Justin Butterfield, who at one time was a political rival of Abraham Lincoln, has lived as a recluse. She derived no enjoyment whatever from her millions. She moved, years ago, from the family mansion to one loop hotel after another until she arrived at the dingy one in which she was found. She paid for her room daily, handing the clerk two carefully hoarded greenbacks, and she never gave a tip.

Woman Guilty Of Stealing From Husband

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Kansas City, Kan., February 24.—Mrs. Florence Koontz, 46, was convicted today by a jury of petty larceny, the charge being that she had stolen her husband's property.

Archie A. Koontz, the husband, charged his wife with stealing all of his personal belongings, including his motor car, after administering a sleeping potion to him in coffee. He later recovered the property.

With the decision today a precedent has been established in Kansas law. Nowhere in court archives could lawyers for either the state or defense find a case wherein a wife was accused of stealing from her husband.

Mrs. Koontz is subject to a sentence of a year in jail or less, or a fine of $100, or both sentence and fine.

Mrs. Koontz's defense was that she believed she was entitled to at least part of her husband's property.

HOLLS NAMED HEAD OF LUTHERAN SYNOD

Mobile, Ala., February 24.—(AP)—Lutherans today at the second business session of the Southern district synod named Rev. W. H. M. Holls, of New Orleans, president of that body succeding Rev. G. J. Wagner, of the same city, resigned after 36 years of continuous service. The following other officers were elected: Rev. H. Reuter, Birmingham, Ala., vice president; Rev. W. H. Hafner, Mobile, second vice president. The recording and financial secretary, treasurer and board of directors will be named tomorrow.

A brief address on the relationship between the synod and individual congregations was delivered by Rev. F. Brandt, of St. Louis, first vice president and official delegate to the Missouri synod.

The report of the committee on home mission showing progress in various fields was read by the chairman, Rev. T. Wegener, of Lake Charles, La.

ONE BELIEVED KILLED IN STEAMER CRASH

A hero who modestly retired before his name was learned saved Miss Collier's life when she was pushed over the side of the City of Annapolis while attempting to scramble aboard the City of Richmond. "I had only time to put on a coat over my night clothing and then ran on deck," Miss Collier said. "Some of the women were screaming but others were calm. Men were standing on the decks of both boats, handing the women and children from one to the other. I thought I could get across without any assistance, and it nearly cost me my life. So many people were crowding and pushing each other trying to get to the City of Richmond that I was shoved off the deck and fell into the water. The man must have seen me fall for he jumped in after me. He held me up and helped me reach the rudder chains of the City of Richmond where we clung until a rope was let down to pull us up."

Passengers Lightly Clad.

David B. Snyder, of Richmond, arrived in Baltimore clad only in his pajamas and a pair of overalls borrowed from a fireman on the City of Richmond. J. H. Smith, of Richmond, was standing in his stateroom when the impact of the collision threw him to the floor, stunning him. M. R. Palmer and T. L. Johnson of Sweet Hall, Va., were asleep. Awakened by the shock, they made their way to deck half dressed, but managed to go back after their clothing before going aboard the City of Richmond. Miss Mary E. Williams, of Washington, D. C., lost all her belongings. She arrived in Baltimore garbed in a red slicker over a dress loaned her by a woman on the City of Richmond, and hateless.

The crash tore a 50-foot hole in the side of the City of Annapolis but the vessel was prevented from filling immediately by the fact that the City of Richmond's bulk was kept jammed in the opening. When the passengers were off, an unsuccessful attempt was made to nudge the wrecked ship into shallow water.

Officials of the Chesapeake Bay Steamship company said the City of Annapolis was valued at between $750,000 and $1,000,000.

The federal board of steamboat inspectors will hold an inquiry into the causes of the collision tomorrow.

Davison-Paxon Executive Signs Order For League Edition Advertisement

One hit, and two misses. The hit is being made by Raymond A. Klein, executive vice president of R. H. Macy and company, and director of the Davison-Paxon company, and the misses are Elizabeth Phillips, center, and Jeanette Bailey, solicitors of advertisement for the March 30 Junior League edition of The Constitution, proceeds of which will be used for charitable purposes in Atlanta. The dauntless, dainty solicitors "caught" Mr. Klein while he was making a tour of the new Davison-Paxon company building and he signed an order for space in the League edition on the marble top of one of the manicure tables in the beauty parlor on the second floor of the new structure.

BY HERB M'CUSKER.

Had Judge Kenesaw M. Landis been in Atlanta Thursday he'd have seen a real "big" league in action and not a semblance of any "sloughing" going on. For, to use the vernacular, the Atlanta Junior league was doing its stuff.

Thursday was the third day of the league's campaign for advertisements with which they hope to fill the special Junior league edition of The Constitution on March 30—for the purpose of obtaining funds for use in carrying on the numerous charitable missions to which their organization is dedicated.

As was evidenced Tuesday and Wednesday, business men of Atlanta are behind the campaign and are heartily in accord with the policy of the league in spurning donations in favor of giving value received for every penny accumulated by the organization for charitable work. Thursday orders shattered previous marks and gave decided impetus to the advertising canvass.

League solicitors found ready cooperation from advertising officials of Atlanta concerns when they explained that the league is to receive 25 per cent of all revenue recieved through local advertisements in the special edition of March 30. Company heads were quick to appreciate the added incentive contained in the widespread circulation which the special edition will receive and they realized the added inducement involved when it was explained that not one cent more than the usual advertising rates is asked—regular rates being in effect.

Among those who signed orders for space Thursday was the firm of Buchanan's, Inc., milliners. In a letter to the Junior league edition headquarters, The Constitution building, the firm stated that it was pleased to include its order for space in the edition, and added "We are offering a prize to the captain of the team which obtains the largest amount of advertising—the prize to consist of a choice of any hat in our establishment."

The Junior league edition promises to be the most unique publication ever circulated in Atlanta. Virtually every phase of the publication of the edition will be actively participated in by a member or members of the league or under supervision of a member. Exclusive street sales privileges will be retained by the league—and members will sell copies in downtown streets.

The Junior league for years has exerted a great influence for good in Atlanta—has established itself as an institution throughout this district. Prominent among its accomplishments is the sponsoring of the Good Samaritan hospital clinic, the Emory hospital clinic, a milk fund for undernourished babies, a school committee for service of warm meals to poor school children, a hospital committee and various other humanitarian projects.

Several business concerns which had not been solicited for advertisements telephoned to the league edition headquarters for information Thursday. The office may be communicated with by calling Walnut 6565.

Company Test Attributes Accidents to Motorists

Is Atlanta curious? Answer: No. The Georgia Railway & Power company proved this fact when the clock chimed four times this morning. For at that time the "Zero Hour" plan was completed.

Moreover, the power company proved conclusively, it contends, that over 90 per cent of all traffic accidents in which street cars, automobiles and pedestrians figure are due to carelessness of—automobiles and pedestrians.

Atlantans who ride street cars—as well as those who don't—were startled to discover signs displayed prominently on poles flanking car lines throughout the city on the morning of February 1. The signs simply bore these words: "Zero Hour—4 to 5 A. M." The following day, the hours on the signs were changed to read "5 to 6 A. M." and were advanced one hour daily.

Not Curious.

But did Atlantans scurry to and fro to learn what the signs meant? Hardly. They stared, shrugged shoulders and sighed inaudibly: "Another campaign—ho hum!"

They were in error. It wasn't a campaign. This is what it indicated:

The power company was determined to ascertain whether or not accidents could be cut down to a minimum if street car trainmen exercised every precaution against. So, adopting a plan formulated by Motorman J. E. Alberson and placing its supervision upon the shoulders of Safety Director W. J. Rountree, this experiment was tried out:

One hour each day was designated as "zero hour." During that hour, trainmen were ordered to exercise the most alert precaution and to avoid any possibility of accident, regardless of whether or not speed of service suffered as a result. The first day was February 1 and the zero hour was between 4 a. m. and 5 a. m. On February 2 the hour was advanced to 5-6 a. m., on the third, 6-7 a. m., and so on until the full 24 hours were encircled at 4 o'clock this morning. The signs appearing alongside the car lines were to remind trainmen of the hour of rigid precaution.

Surprising Result.

How did it work out? You'd be surprised. In all the 24 zero hours, only one accident was caused by negligence of trainmen—despite the fact that the 24 selected hours set a record-smashing scarcity of accidents.

No accidents at all occurred during 13 zero hours. And virtually all the accidents occurring in the other 10 hours—this morning's hour excluded—were attributed to carelessness by motorists.

"Don't think for a moment that full investigation wasn't made by us to determine who was responsible for accidents, an official of the company declared. "We are much more concerned over this information than the general public, because it is absolutely vital to our records that an accident caused by a trainman's neglect be ascertained—we want to locate that careless individual and get rid of him as soon as possible."

"The Zero Hour plan has convinced us of one thing and that is this: Despite the fact that extreme precaution was exercised by every trainman during the zero hour period, accidents did not disappear. What does that indicate? It indicates that regardless of how careful the street car men may be, accidents will happen—and that means that the motorist and pedestrian is responsible for an astonishing percentage of all accidents."

That's the answer. Now, perhaps, you'll behave!

ATLANTA ANALYST HITS RED HEADS

blonde is well known in tradition, in story and in song, but men generally seem to hold some measure of preference for blonde women because of it. After the day's struggle for existence, he is cheered, comforted, encouraged, stimulated and made happier by the optimism and good cheer of his blonde sweetheart, wife, sister or mother, and he likes to revel in its particular satisfaction."

But gentlemen shouldn't rush off and assassinate their brunette wives—just yet. There's a silver lining, Analyst Lamar reveals:

"Red hair is even more vivacious than blonde and, as Dr. Holland remarks, they are 'full of pep, initiative and vigor,' but dependable—? Well, I think it may be wiser to grab a deep, dark, serious-minded brunette for that purpose, even though our red-headed lady friend get jealous. Color is more than skin deep. Quite a study if one makes a scientific research into it."

Now wouldn't that make one see red? What with bobbed hair and turban hats, a discriminating fellow doesn't know what he's getting these days. A finger-print system may be resorted to yet.

In the meantime, those gentlemen who have been dealt their hand will have to play them out, red, black or blonde—or call for a new deal after discarding.

IS THERE NO RELIEF FROM SKIN TORTURE?

Must I Continue to Suffer the Unbearable Itching?

Are you one of those unfortunates who are going through life suffering with a skin disease, making you uncomfortable, making you less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep? You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in many forms of skin disease. Thousands of letters of gratitude prove its worth.

"I feel so happy for what S.S.S. has done for me that I want others to know about it. I suffered twenty long years from eczema. At times the itching was unbearable. During that time, I used all kinds of salves without receiving any real benefit. After taking six bottles of S.S.S., I was cured of this dreadful disease. I recommend S.S.S. to anyone suffering from eczema, because I cannot praise it enough for what it has done for me." Cleophas Forte, Soldiers and Sailors Home, Quincy, Ill.

S.S.S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

Momus, Lord of Misrule,

:: MOBILE ALSO IS IN FULL CARNIVAL ::

Opens New Orleans Gayety

New Orleans, February 26.—(AP)—Momus, deity of joy and mirth, love and laughter, threw open the doors of the Mardi Gras carnival here tonight with the first parade and the first major ball of the season.

Under thousands of electric lights, lining the streets, glowing in radiant streamers from Canal street buildings, forming a brilliant canopy over the principal streets, Momus led his parade of a score of elaborate floats depicting the legendary adventures of Nils.

Hundreds of negroes garbed in colors of the rainbow served as torch-bearers for the monarch as he led his Krewe from its den on Calliope street on the journey through the city to open his ball at the Athanaeum.

Momus opening the carnival for the mighty monarch, Rex, who will arrive Tuesday, greeted Mayor Arthur O'Keefe as he led his pageant past the city hall and indicated his pleasure at the manner in which preparations for the carnival had been carried out.

Visitors by the thousands have streamed into the city within the past week by train, automobiles and boat. Hotel and rooming house proprietors announced that early arrivals indicated the greatest crowd in the hundred years of Mardi Gras will take part in the carnival.

JOLLITY REIGNS OVER MOBILE BAY.

Mobil, Ala., February 24.—(AP)—Mardi Gras—the city's festive season of pageantry and merrymaking—was ushered in today, to reign until the Lenten season.

Thousands of persons awaited a signal from Mayor H. T. Hartwell and the start of a parade through the streets in the afternoon that later would send the marchers to ballrooms gorged with varicolored decorations for a night of frolic.

Mirth was the dominant note. Characters in mythology, represented in the grotesque, formed a background for modern beauty on elaborate floats. Modernity in its more prosaic aspects found expression in long lines of policemen who added color nevertheless and entered into the spirit of play.

The story of Phaeton, whom the ancients credited with having persuaded his father, the sun god, to let him drive the chariot of the sun for one day, furnished inspiration for a pageant that tomorrow night will depict the youth's experience.

The climax of the celebration comes on Monday in the triumphal arrival of King Felix III, whose vessel will be convoyed on its trip down Mobile bay by a fleet of airplanes and hundreds of harbor craft. His majesty will view the populace from the head of a procession and receive a key to the city. Then he will be presented to the carnival queen.

PEACHES RETURNS FROM BERMUDA TRIP

New York, February 24.—(AP)—Frances (Peaches) Browning and her mother, Mrs. Carolyn M. Heenan, returned today from a two weeks' trip to Bermuda.

Mrs. Browning, who is expecting a decision in a few days in her separation suit against her husband, declined to pose for photographers at the pier.

OIL BLAZE KILLS 5 TRAPPED IN TANK

Hearne, Texas, February 24.—The bodies of five men burned almost beyond recognition were taken Thursday night from an Humble Oil company storage tank in which they were imprisoned when the oil was ignited.

In an effort to curb the flames one of the manholes was closed, and this prevented the men from escaping. One man, Doak Williams, escaped before the flames gained head way.

Families and relatives of the doomed men stood helpless near the scene of the fire while firemen from nearby towns made an attempt to quell the flames.

A slight explosion following the ignition of the gas-filled tank from a blow-torch was believed to have filled it with smoke, blinding the men, who were engaged in cleaning the oil receptacles.

CUBAN PRESIDENT POSTPONES VISIT UNTIL MARCH 1

Havana, February 24.—(AP)—President Machado's proposed trip to the United States has been postponed to March 1, it was announced at the palace.

The president is confined to his bed with influenza and the attending physicians have assured him that if he remains quietly in bed he may expect to be in good enough physical condition by next Tuesday to make the trip northward.

HARRIS BOOK HELD NOT DANGEROUS TO FRENCH MORALS

Nice, February 24.—Realists of the ultra-stark school have been elated by a court verdict of non lieu in favor of Frank Harris, formerly editor of the London Fortnightly Review. It expressed the opinion that his autobiography, alleged to have contained pornographic material, has nothing to do with French public morals.

"Considering that this book, called pornographic, was written in English, although it was published in Nice, it can effect only English and American people," the court said. "It thus is not harmful to French public morals."

Harris, who is widely known in England and the United States, brought down a storm of criticism in London with his autobiography, which contained exceedingly frank comment on English people of prominence. It was suggested several months ago that his trial was the result of complaints made in London.

PREACHER PLEADS GUILTY TO FORGERY TO ESCAPE 7 WIVES

Grand Haven, Mich., February 24. Donald D. Stewart, former minister, who admits having seven wives and who is wanted in a score of cities on charges of fraud, was sentenced to five to 10 years in the state prison today by Circuit Judge O. S. Cross.

Judge Cross recommended the minimum sentence.

Stewart, who declared he would welcome a prison sentence to "get away from women" pleaded guilty to forging a $750 check in the name of O. J. Sluiter, clerk of the federal court at Grand Rapids.

15-Year-Old Girl, Seeking to 'Shape Career,' Missing

New York, February 24.—A 15-year-old girl, who demanded a free hand in shaping her own career, was sought by police and private detectives throughout the east tonight following a four-day absence from the home of her prominent parents.

Supreme Court Justice Jeremiah T. Mahoney, father of the missing Miss Kasia Mahoney, expressed no alarm over the girl's absence, because as he said, "the young lady has never had a love affair and is capable of taking care of herself."

Kasia's mother, however, notified police and the bureau of missing persons after her daughter had been absent for four days, and the hunt was started on a broad scale.

The missing girl was described as of a particularly strong mind, a voracious reader and one who was likely to stand on her own opinions in the face of opposition from her teachers or parents. She is athletic and has never paid much attention to the boys who usually begin to occupy the minds of 15-year-old girls.

Kasia has not been seen since she started to school Monday at 9 a. m. Thursday the following description was broadcast by the police:

Persia To Invite.

London, February 24.—(AP)—An exchange telegraph dispatch from Bagdad says it is understood the Persian government will soon invite the Standard Oil and Sinclair group to renew negotiations for an oil concession in northern Persia.

M'MURRY GIVEN SULLIVAN AWARD

Nashville, Tenn., February 24.—(AP) After a week of celebration, the "golden anniversary" in education for Dr. Charles A. McMurry, who fills a modest professorship at George Peabody College for Teachers here, was climaxed today when colleagues and students filed across the campus in a solemn academic procession to hear the 70-year-old educator deliver "my philosophy of life," based on a half century of teaching.

The address was the only one delivered during the week by Dr. McMurray. With conclusion he was presented with the Sullivan award for 1927, given each year by George H Sullivan, of New York, to "that person not a student of Peabody college who, by his life, conduct and character, shall be considered to have deserved it."

The presentation, made by President Bruce R. Payne, of the college, came as a surprise to the aged educator. The bronze medallion is customarily presented at commencement, but was given at this time in order to make its presentation a part of the celebration.

In defending his philosophy, Dr. McMurry said he believed the only solution to the problem of present-day education to be concentrated effort on the part of the school toward the main centers of life organization.

Dr. McMurry, aside from his work in education, has been a prolific writer. He is the author of 20 books dealing with educational subjects, has contributed to school cyclopedias, edited a series of classics, and has lectured during 22 summer sessions in American universities and in 40 states. His doctor's degree was obtained at the University of Halle.

Voliva Raises Storm by Sale Of 'God's Land'

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution.)

Chicago, Ill., February 24.—Wilbur Glenn Voliva, who is enjoying a vacation in the Bahamas and the Caribbean Island resorts, may face an overwhelming storm in Zion City when he returns.

Voliva's sale of Zion lands has aroused a tumult that may result in sweeping his theocratic party out of office at the April election. The independents expect to gain, for the first time since 1911, control of Zion affairs at the forthcoming election.

The Zionites are particularly incensed because Voliva has sold "land that belongs to God." Adherents of the Zion faith turned all their property over to Voliva on his declaration that it "belonged to God" and he was merely the agent. His recent sale of a million dollars worth of this land and his announcement that he plans to sell other valuable tracts, has brought about a serious revolt.

Voliva, in a recent interview, said he held all titles to the lands and would do as he pleased with the property. This despite signs he placed all over the property, announcing it was "God's land" and therefore sacred.

BABY FILM STAR, ILL, MAY GIVE UP CAREER

Hollywood, Cal., February 24.—(AP) Iris Stuart, former New York artist's model, who became one of this season's "baby stars," today faced the possibility of having to give up her film career on the threshold of success. Her physicians yesterday ordered her to a sanitarium for an indefinite retirement because of failing health.

PROBE IS ASKED OF ALLEGED WET AID TO SENATOR

St. Paul, Minn., February 24.—(AP) Victor Lawson, of Willmar, a farmer-labor leader in the Minnesota senate, today asked that body to investigate charges that United States Senator Thomas D. Schall, republican, received large contributions from bootleggers in his last campaign.

The resolution was referred to the rules committee.

The resolution charges "wholesale violation of the corrupt practices act in the election of November, 1924," in which Senator Schall defeated former Senator Magnus Johnson, farmer-laborite. The latter since has lost his fight in the senate to have Schall unseated.

J. P. C. Closes With 41-30 Win Over Mercer

Lawrenceville Battle Features N.E. Tourney

BY MARCUS BRYANT.

Athens, Ga., February 24.—(Special)—With but one more day left in the Northeast Georgia basketball tournament at Athens the business of selecting a winner is much simplified with Athens, Brazelton and Colbert picked by most of the dopesters as the most likely contenders.

The best game of the Thursday session was enacted by Lawrenceville and Eastonollee withe the former quintet ekeing out a victory in the second period by a score of 27 to 25. The other battles were fairly on the ice throughout with the exception of the Athens-Winterville contest in which Athens used the second string men until the last quarter and nearly lost her chances by the move, winning the game by a 16 to 15 count.

Ila 39, Lexington 10.
Athens 16, Winterville 15.
Lawrenceville 27, Eastonollee 25.
Dacula 38, Eatonton 15.
Brazelton 20, Carnesville 13.
Cavington 47, Bishop 7.
Comer 35, Nancy Hart 14.
Ila 26, Rabun county 5.
Athens 26, Lawrenceville 20.
Dacula 27, Covington 24.
Brazelton 29, Watkinsville 22.
Colbert 42, Logansville 11.
Hartwell 28, Bogart 12.

Morning—Commerce vs. Comer; Athens vs. Ila; afternoon—Dacula vs. Brazelton; Colbert vs. Hartwell.

The four winners in these games will meet in the semi-finals tonight and the finals will be played Saturday to select the champion. Awards to the winner and runners-up will be presented by Chancellor Charles M. Snelling, of the University of Georgia.

Hess Made Coach.

Lexington, Va., February 24.—(AP) E. A. Hess, all-American guard at Ohio State, has been selected as line coach of the V. M. I., flying squadron, according to announcement today by Major B. B. Clarkson, graduate manager of athletics.

10 Stalwart Cops Take 2-Round Go From Bat Nelson

Chicago, February 24.—(AP)—Ten stalwart policemen won a two-round argument over Oscar (Battling) Nelson, former lightweight champion, when he was arrested last night in his home on a Montana larceny warrant.

Round one found two coppers trying to enter the house. Nelson barred the door and refused to come out.

The gong for round two sounded as a detective bureau squad car clattered up with reinforcements. Then a lieutenant crawled in through an unlocked window and gave a decision. "We'll go back to the station," he said. Nelson went.

Stecher Wins.

Washington, February 24. — Joe Stecher, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling title, tonight made another step toward clinching his claim when he easily defeated Charlie Hanson, the Minnesota Swede, two falls out of three at the Arcadia Sporting club.

KNUTE HANSEN WILL BATTLE BASQUE TODAY

New York, February 24.—Playing a hunch, and backing Tex Rickard rather than his hunch-backed caveman from the slopes of the Pyrenees, the few folks who have wagered upon Friday night's heavyweight fight at Madison Square Garden, have installed Paolino, the Basque, a favorite over Knute Hansen, the Dane.

Rickard is picking Paolino to make Hansen jump right over the ropes into the lap of one of the 600 millionaires in the starched-shirt row, and fight fans think Tex Rickard knows what he is talking about.

Both fighters have expressed the customary confidence, each claiming to have flattened the other in a scrub match in Paris some years ago, when Hansen was touring the world before the mast.

Tom Heeney, heavyweight champion of New Zealand, is to meet Charley Anderson in the semi-final bout. Heeney is the latest foreigner to show his wares in this country, and has a victory over Bartley Madden in New Zealand to his credit. The rugged antipodean, who scales at 197, aims to restore some of the prestige of his islands which dwindled when Blackie Miller light-heavyweight champion of Australia, was stopped in two rounds by Martin Burke, of New Orleans.

Tech's Riflemen Capture Matches

BY JULIEN SAKS.

Georgia Tech's riflemen scored five victories and one tie as a result of their latest meet with teams representing Universities of Cincinnati, Michigan, Cornell, Western Maryland, Norwich and Culver Military academy. The Western Maryland snipers and the Jacket sharpshooters tied with a score of 3,831 out of a possible 4,000. In the other matches the Tech men's score won easily. The Jackets have won all the matches fired and this is the first tie to be chalked up against each.

In a match between rifle teams each team fires upon its own range and the scores are certified by an officer in charge. The scores are then sent by telegraph to the judges, who award the highest team the match. A team thus may shoot against several other teams independently at the same time, and consequently has the same score against each.

Sydney Smith and M. F. Martin tied for high point honors with 394 points each out of a possible 400. W. O. Smith ran a close third with 393 points.

Individual record:
Syd Smith, 394.
M. F. Martin, 394.
W. O. Smith, 393.
R. D. Cross, 388.
J. A. Banton, 386.
J. Whittlesey, 380.
F. F. Myers, 377.
W. B. Snavely, 376.
Lanier, 376.
E. White, 367.

MATCHMAKER SEEKING BATTLER TO MEET BROWNING

Between now and the close of the current wrestling season in May, Atlanta fans will be treated to the best wrestling programs that it is possible to secure, according to announcement Thursday by Matchmaker John Contos. Four wrestling matches have been staged at the city auditorium since the first of the year and Contos declares that attendance at those matches has inspired him to leave nothing undone to give Atlanta even better matches.

In discussing his plans for the future shows to be promoted here Contos said:

"The Atlanta fans have proven that they will patronize wrestling, when the best possible shows are offered. I have always given the fans the best matches that I could arrange and from now on I intend redoubling my efforts.

"Figures of the Atlanta boxing commission show that close to 10,000 fans attended the four matches in January and February. There is every reason to believe that that attendance will be bettered if even better matches are offered.

"I am sticking to my previously declared determination to keep throwing wrestlers at Joe Stecher until he loses his championship right here in Atlanta. I have one or two good men in mind who have a good chance of beating the champion and if Stecher will agree to meet those men I will bring him back here before the season is over."

In the meanwhile Contos is going ahead with plans for the next show at the city auditorium, which is billed for Thursday night, March 10. Contos has practically signed Jim Browning for the main event and will close with Jim if he is able to locate a strong opponent.

Browning has developed a bigger following than any wrestler who has appeared here and is very popular with the fans. In that he is different from Dick Daviscourt, who was something of a drawing card, but purely because of his unpopularity and the fans' desire to see him defeated.

Browning has lost but one match in Atlanta since the beginning of 1927, being defeated by Champion Joe Stecher in the most spectacular bout ever seen at the auditorium.

Jacksonville Five Defeats Moultrie

Waycross, Ga., February 24.—The Moultrie Y. M. C. A. Blues, fresh from their healthy win over the Jacksonville R. D. C. outfit, met a stinging defeat at the hands of the Waycross Y. M. C. A. Red Flashes on the local court, 59-27.

Shealy, Elkins and Townsend, on an offensive spree, piled up point after point and retired from the game with eight minutes to go, to give the second team a chance. Campbell and Griffin, guards, went the entire route in fine style.

2 Ball Players In Final Tilt On Golf Links

Hot Springs, Ark., February 24.—(AP)—The trophy which goes with the winning of Hot Springs Washington's birthday anniversary golf tournament is certain to decorate the mantle of one of the major league ball players. That was made certain today when Sam Rice, of the Washington Americans, defeated Gus Novatney, of Chicago, to qualify for the semi-finals of tomorrow. Novatney had been the medalist in the qualifying round.

Rice shot the round in 73 to tie his opponent and won on the 19th hole with a birdie 4 for a 5 par hole.

Tomorrow Rice will meet Leon "Goose" Goslin also of the Washington Americans, in a match to reach the finals.

At the same time E. Rixey, of the Cincinnati Nationals, will be playing Aaron Ward, formerly of the New York Americans, to determine which shall enter the finals. The four major league ball players have the first honor between them now.

Novatney had won the medalist honor in the tournament with a 73 and was generally picked as the winner of the first honor in the Washington anniversary event.

Mediocre Season Ends In Impressive Win For Joe Bean's Team

J's Rally Round and Cheer Coach at End of Game—Visitors Grab Lead Only Once During Game—Klein's Shooting Features.

BY TOM THOMPSON.

The Jewish Progressive club brought its not so successful cage season to a very successful termination Thursday night by scoring an 11-point victory over the Bears of Mercer, 41-30.

Joe Bean, the grand old man of Atlanta basketball, who has coached many teams, major and minor, came in for his just share of the glory when his blue clad pupils gathered in their corner and raised the well-known rahs to his tutelage and to him. There were lots of smiles at the Progressive club Thursday night but the smile worn by Joe Bean was among the broadest to be seen.

The Bears led once throughout the contest. The Js jumped into the lead with a charity by Socoloff early in the first stages. Socoloff's floor shot shortly after made it three points. Green made a free one for Mercer and Phoney Smith deadlocked it at three-all a moment later with a floor goal. Socoloff scored again, Green copied him, Klein got a floor goal and Smith dropped a foul shot through. Smith put the invaders from Macon in the lead a moment later with a floor shot—eight and seven.

Klein overcame the one-point advantage with his second of five field goals in a row and shooting the next three in fairly fast order, the Js went to 15 points before the invaders had an opportunity to score again.

Locals Lead.

From right there to termination time the locals were entirely masters of the situation. They found the going hard for the Bears kept boring in for attempts. However, the one style offense of the invaders, ranging from a backward tip-off and fast passing was solved early in the tilt and as a mode of advancing the ball proved a flat failure. A more varied type of attack would probably have netted Mercer a much larger score. Most of Mercer's scores came after the ball had been taken from the Js under their backboard and advanced the length of the court.

The half closed with the J's in possession of a nine point advantage, 23-14.

One of the outstanding features of the game was the few successful backward throws of Green under the basket that found their way through the cords. Smith, of Mercer, and Klein, of the locals, managed to tie for scoring honors, each getting 16 points.

The Bears made 11 field goals and eight of 18 charities. The J's got 19 field goals and made three of nine free ones effective.

While the J. regulars have found the going rather tough this season, they certainly set no example to be followed the Reds. These youngsters came out of 12 games without a defeat and piled up an amazing point-age over their opponents. They made it an unanimous J. P. C night Thursday, taking a one-sided victory from the Central Presbyterian five, 43-21.

Bobby Finally Joins Exclusive "Dodo" Society

Bobby Jones, king of golfdom, set the final jewel in his golfing crown Wednesday by making his first hole-in-one.

This achievement is a memorable tally in the life of the world's greatest golfer, who for the past 15 years has been rolling as close to the pin as any man living.

Lady Luck, goddess of a thousand amateur golfers who have surprised themselves and others by making a hole in one, has never smiled upon the holder of the British and American open titles. Time and again, in sixteen national tournaments, in foreign tournaments and in innumerable small tourneys and matches, the pill has rolled up onto the green, courting shyly with the pin, but has never rolled in on a single stroke.

His sensational shot was made Wednesday over 170 yards at No. 11 of the East Lake course. It was greeted with acclaim by his friend, Stewart Maiden and Cousin Joe Carroll, greenkeeper, and many caddies. This remarkable performance was not made public until late Thursday.

Babe Adamant In Salary War

Los Angeles, February 24.—(AP)—"Babe" Ruth, who yesterday announced he had mailed his terms for the coming year to Jacob Ruppert, of the New York Americans, said today he will give Ruppert until tomorrow to make the letter public. Ruth declared the letter should be in New York by this time.

"NO WORD RECEIVED," JAKE RUPPERT SAYS.

New York, February 24.—(AP)—Colonel Jacob Ruppert is confined to his home with a cold and hasn't yet received Babe Ruth's salary terms.

The Yankee owner refused to make any statement when told of Ruth's ultimatum on publication of the letter containing Ruth's proposals, understood to include a demand for a substantial increase over his former $52,000 yearly pay check.

"Nothing has arrived from the Babe, so far as I know," said Colonel Ruppert. "I won't be back at my office until Monday and don't intend to worry about baseball matters until then."

At the Yankee headquarters, Secretary Ed Barrow also declared no word had been received from Ruth.

No More Races.

Bismarck, N. D., February 24.—(United News.)—Automobile races may be ruled off the tracks of North Dakota as the result of the action of the state senate which passed a bill prohibiting motor racing despite heated opposition.

Get Back Your Strength Quick After Heavy Cold or Grippe

Influenza and Grippe are insidious diseases, that nine times out of ten strip their victims of strength, vitality and power to endure any ordinary strain.

Even a heavy cold or a lingering cough may sap a man's strength so tremendously that he despairs of ever being strong enough to go to work again.

People in this deplorable condition should known that the greatest builder of strength in weak, run-down, tired out people is Cod Liver Oil—it's full of the best health building vitamines.

But it's loathsome stuff to take—the taste nauseates—the smell disgusts and repulses.

That's why millions of people are turning to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—rich in vitamins and no oily waste.

To people who are exhausted or weary—who have no appetite—who are languid or indolent—who haven't the vigor or energy or the endurance needed to do their work properly we say—

Try McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets for 30 days—then if you don't say they are the best builder of health and strength you ever used, get your money back.

60 tablets—60 cents at Jacobs' Drug Stores or any druggist in America—but demand McCoy's—the original and genuine.—(adv.)

BREAKING THE RECORD

The world's record high jump by a horse was made by an American hunter in 1912—7 feet 8½ inches.

Leave it to the "thoroughbreds" to break the records — whether it's horses or cigarettes!

That explains why Piedmont ranks among the five best selling brands every year—and has since 1906. Men find something "different" in Piedmont's all-Virginia flavor; they discover a lasting delight in its rich and mellow mildness. And once found, nothing can take its place.

Also in vacuum tins of 50

S. C. Teams Await Opening of Tourney Today

Games Start at 2:30; Six Tilts Are Slated For First Day's Play

BY TOM THOMPSON.

Like the reverberating boom of savage to mtoms summoning sturdy warriors to battle, the finishing hammers of carpenters beat an ominous tattoo on the bleak pine boards of the extra-size dais at the city auditorium Thursday afternoon. It was at once a call and a warning, a summons to action that presaged a goodly array of hardy struggles when 12 of 14 teams entered in the preliminary skirmish to the annual chase of glory and a southern conference basketball title meet this afternoon and tonight.

Late tonight the Valhalla of defeat will have claimed six great basketball teams that this morning are eyeing the conference crown through rose colored glasses. There will be eight left, and Saturday, Monday and Tuesday the battle will go on, culminating Tuesday night when five good boys and true will have brought to some southern college a major athletic title.

Maryland and Ole Miss are cha[rged] under the disadvantage of a bye, which explains why only 12 of the 14 [teams] will see [ac]tion today. The advantage is used advisedly, for there is a general belief among tournamenteers of the tees and greens that a bye is bad—usually bringing tough luck. But this is a basketball tournament and both are worthy contenders.

Vanderbilt and Washington and Lee at 2:30 o'clock.

South Carolina university and North Carolina State, 3:30 o'clock.

Intermission.

Virginia Polytechnic Institute and Auburn, 7 o'clock.

Georgia and Virginia Military Institute, 8 o'clock.

Tech and Miss. Aggies, 9 o'clock.

Thursday afternoon and night seven of the warring factions pitched their figurative shelter halves in one or another of the more or less sumptuous Atlanta hostelries.

Today six more are expected to arrive and with Georgia Tech being fortunate enough to have the tournament held at its back—or front—door the tournament list is rounded out.

The Mississippi Aggies and the Staters of North Carolina took their setting up exercises at the Atlanta Athletic club court Thursday afternoon, having arrived in enough timeliness to accept the generous offer of club officials. North Carolina university, the Tarheels, Flying Phantoms and defenders of the titular estate, among other titles bestowed on them, made their appearance Thursday night. Virginia Military institute, Virginia Polytechnic institute, Washington and Lee, and South Carolina made up the remainder of the vanguard to reach the scene of battle Thursday night.

More Today.

Vanderbilt, Tennessee, Georgia and Auburn, having their residences in closer proximity and therefore not having to entrain for the same length of time as the other entrants are expected to pull their caravanasaries to a halt somewhere in Atlanta early today. All four of them will see action today.

As this correspondent views the scramble, there are only five teams in the melee that can be accorded small chance to survive. This leaves the peculiar situation of nine teams in strong contendership for a crown that will fit only one of them. The five weakest teams, to our way of thinking are Georgia, V. M. I., V. P. I., North Carolina State and Washington and Lee. However the Lexington Generals staged a late season spurt that renders them unusually hard to fathom.

Today will decide many questions. The most important ones being whether Tennessee or the Flying Phantoms will survive and a like element applies to the Georgia Tech-Mississippi Aggie battle. Vanderbilt should trounce the Generals. South Carolina should bounce the Staters of North Carolina off the list, V. M. I. will not likely withstand Georgia's onslaught, and the Auburn Tigers should thoroughly masticate the Virginia Poly quint.

Tech-Aggies Stiff.

The Tech-Aggie tilt is hard to dope, and if Tech wins it will be their toughest battle before the finals. Which is saying a lot, but we believe that Georgia Tech or the Aggies will represent the lower bracket in the last stage and the cleanest chance at title play lies in this game.

Despite reports of remarkable strength emanating from the "Hill" which is adorned by the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, and despite insistence that Butcher ranks as one of the best centers in the south, we can's see a whale of a lot of chance for the Fundamentalists against the Tar Heels. Still there might be a surprise, and so these two battles are easily the features of the first round of play.

Each of the competing quints have been pared down to the regulation eight men. This is likely to work a hardship on the homelings, for Georgia Tech has played the season with a superfluous amount of guards and a general amount of wild substituting. Bullard, however, appears to be the only capable sub that can fill the berths of center or guard with equal ability. Therefore the eight Tech men will probably be Wilder, Player, Moreland, Morton, Hearn, George, Jamison and Largen.

"OLD LINERS" ON THE WAY.

College Park, Md., February 24.—(Special.)—Eight University of Maryland basketball players, in charge of Coach Burton Shipley, left here tonight to take part in the southern conference tourney. The Old Liners will make their debut Saturday by playing the winner of the Georgia-V. M. I. first round contest of Friday. Maryland has played both teams and it fully expects to oppose the Georgians.

Maryland won its final game of its regular schedule by defeating Western Maryland, a really formidable quint, Wednesday night, 32 to 25. However, the Old Liners have shown marked signs of staleness in their last few contests and they had to force themselves to pull the Western Maryland game out of the fire after trailing 6-15 at the end of the first 10 minutes.

Then they put on steam and in the last 10 minutes of the first half and the first five of the second registered 13 points to their rivals' 1 to gain a lead that never was relinquished.

With practically three days' rest before playing again, the Marylanders should be back in trim by Saturday.

Captain Artie Boyd, Mike Stevens and Walker Hale, forwards; Donald Adams, center; Fred Linkous, who plays forward or center; Jack Faber, Thurston Dean and Delbert Zahn, guards, are making the trip to the Georgia metropolis. Hale, who is a native Georgian, and Zahn are the reserves, the other six bearing the brunt of Maryland's games.

OBSTACLES IN THE TORNADO'S PATHWAY

TARHEELQUINT RANKEDAMONG THE FAVORITES

Chapel Hill, N. C., February 24.—The University of North Carolina basketball squad, present holder of the southern conference title, which it has won four times in the last five years, left here for Atlanta to defend its title in the seventh annual conference tournament.

Despite the loss of four of the 1926 regulars by graduation, the Tarheels are again ranked among the tourney favorites. They have compiled a creditable record for the regular season, having won 11 and lost four games in engagements with college teams. They have played nine games with conference teams and have lost two, both of them to Maryland in a three-game series.

Of the 11 eligibles, eight players are being entered for the tournament. The regular quint probably will be composed of Captain Bunn Hackney and "Pinky" Morris, guards; Carr Purser, center; Rugus Hackney and Billy Vanstory, forwards. The other three entries are Price and Satterfield, forwards; and Baggett, center and guard.

Coach Jim Ashmore and Manager R. M. Hardee accompanied the squad. Captain Hackney is the only one of the eight players who has ever gone through a tournament series, although Billy Vanstory, who substituted at center and forward last year, got into the series. Atlanta fans will miss the familiar faces of such former stars as the Carmichael brothers, Newcomb, Cobb, Dodderer, Purser and Devin.

So far as tournament experience goes, it will be virtually a green and untried Tarheel delegation that will be pitted against the strong teams from other sections of Dixie. Observers here don't see the outlook for the Tarheels quite so bright as in some recent years, but they took the same view last year and the Tarheels won just the same.

Grant Park Girls Beaten, 24-0

Three games were played Thursday night in the Epworth league at Wesley court. Calvary girls won from St. Paul by a score of 15 to 6. Capitol View ran away with Grant Park girls, 32 to 11. Grace girls whitewashed Kirkwood by the score of 24 to 0.

The Calvary-St. Paul game was the closest played. Alsobrook, of the winners, was high scorer with a total of 11 points to her credit. The game was hard fought from start to finish.

HAWK-EYE-ING SPORTS

·BY· DICK ·HAWKINS·

Those Aggies.

Saw the Aggies from over Mississippi way working on the Athletic club court Thursday afternoon and now more than ever do we foresee a tough break for the Tornado on the first day of the tournament.

Any sports writer or alleged sports writer who would attempt to tell the power of a basketball team by watching them practice alone for less than an hour would be presuming too much upon the realm of the palmists, numerologists and other species of the occult, but we do not hesitate to say that the Aggies brought eight streaks of human lightning to the tournament and though they were practicing on a strange court they did not fail to drop more than a few baskets.

The first and last things to impress us in watching the Aggies in action, and in our conversation with Coach Bierman were as follows: first, serious purpose and second, serious purpose. If the Aggies are eliminated in the first round (which would be an unusual thing indeed in a southern conference tournament), it will not be because the lads from Starksville are lacking in that greatest of requisites—seriousness of purpose. It is inane to say that any team is coming to the tournament without a purpose to win but we have seen a determination written in plainer figures than usual on the faces of every man jack of the Aggie squadron and that fact alone means that Tech must hit its stride to pass the first barrier. The Yellow Jackets should be able to win but it is not to be forgotten that the Aggies are always good—sometimes better, but always good.

Coach Bierman voiced the sentiments of his squad when we intruded our person upon him and suggested no good reason at all that the game Friday night should be a great spectacle. "Yes," said Mr. Bierman, with a noncommittal smile, "we have been playing some good basketball and some bad basketball this year. If we are right nobody will beat us, but if—." And with that we refrained from making remarks and received a mute token of thanks from Mr. Bierman in the form of an amiable smile.

With the dawn of the day of beginning for the southern conference basketball tournament the outcome of the battle still lies buried under a smoke screen of figures denoting the season's victories and losses for the teams entered.

In the past there were nearly always half of the teams that could safely be counted out before the first games were started, but this year we defy any man possessed of nothing more than ordinary insight to select more than five teams which are to be eliminated in the dope column. To be sure, there are four or five favorites as always but we would not be greatly surprised to see any or even all of these favorites out of the running when the final gun starts the echoes at city auditorium Tuesday night.

Anyway, the day is here and tonight will mean the end of the road for six teams and six more will join with the two lucky quintets in the second round on Saturday. What a millenium for bettors a real "second sight" would be on this day. Any gambler so equipped could make a killing for the reason that the favorites are numbered by the half dozen or more according to the leaning of the person interviewed.

TWO CRACKERS AFFIX NAMES TO CONTRACTS

Mr. Rell Jackson Spiller, chief of the Crackers, is doing a mail order business. Two of his customers, Mr. Johnny Brock, occupation catcher, and Mr. Walter Gilbert, occupation third baseman, have accepted terms as offered by Mr. Spiller, and are now safe within the fold of Cracker ballplayers.

Such was some of the information that drifted down Ponce de Leon Thursday.

Other items of interest state that "Speed" Martin, pitcher, will be given a ride back to Sacramento. Mr. Martin is suffering from a damaged finger that will affect his effectiveness as a pitcher.

Also Hughie Bedient, who staged a run-away act some two seasons ago, will be signed on today, or in the immediate future.

Gilbert has left St. Paul, Minn., and is on his way to join the Crackers, who are staging an extensive at-home this season, from March 7 to the opening of the Southern league, and will be chiefly occupied by spring training.

The bumping off of Mr. Martin came somewhat as a surprise. Mr. Spiller and Boss Bert bought him at the big argument held in Asheville during the dead of winter—such as it was—and paid $4,000 for him, part of it in cash and signing notes for the remainder.

Spiller, however, doesn't think that money will be lost in the transaction, and fervently believes that Sacramento will come through when Martin is returned.

Spiller says that Hughie Bedient will win just as many games, anyhow. Bedient has sent in his application for reinstatement to Secretary Farrell, and the secretary will probably attend to the errin- hurler within the next few days.

Five Close Games In "Y" League

Five games were played Thursday night in the "Y" Church association, featured by close scores. Confederate Avenue won from Associate Reformed Presbyterians, 16 to 12; All Saints lost to the Anchor Feds, 16 to 11; E. F. class won from Pattillo Memorial, 30 to 11; Epworth Workers beat First Methodist, 23 to 15, and Pep Freshmen overcame Wesley Memorial, 22 to 18.

The Pep-Wesley game was close from beginning to end, with neither team at any time enjoying a very comfortable lead. Both teams put up a good passing attack, and this coupled with their guarding ability, held the score down.

CityLoopFeatured By Close Games

Gulf Refining company's Orange Disc quint kept its slate clean in the City league Wednesday night by downing the 122d Infantry, 49 to 9, on the Athletic club court.

Atlanta Lowry and Terra Cotta fought a tough battle, the bankers finally winning out, 15 to 14. The Knights of Columbus won a close, slow game from the Georgia Railway and Power company cagers, 21 to 13. The final game of the night was played between Southern Bell and the Atlantic Steel, the Bell cagers winning, 56 to 7.

Hornsby, Speaker and Cobb Are Enthusiastic Over Their New Jobs

Hornsby Is First To Arrive and Last To Leave at Practice Periods—Speaker Expects To Be Playing When 70 Years Old.

BY FRANK GETTY.

New York, February 24.—The enthusiasm with which Rogers Hornsby has jumped into his new job as a Giant and the interest with which New Yorkers are following reports of every move made by the star second baseman augurs well for a successful major league season all around.

The attitude of an individual player upon whom the attention of fans is focussed can do much to make or mar the game as a whole. The case of Babe Ruth in this respect is too recent and too fresh in the minds of fans to require elaboration.

The former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals is one of four players upon whom the eyes of fandom will be fixed, regardless of local pride. The others, of course, are Ruth, Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker.

The Major leagues have undergone the greatest of winter shakeups since the days of the Federals, with seven new managers in charge and many stars in new uniforms.

The test of a successful season will be the support accorded the national pastime by the cash customers. The latter inevitably will take their cue from the attitude of the stars.

Ty and Tris Ready.

Apparently Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker are prepared to take up their new duties in the spirit already manifested at Sarasota by Hornsby.

There is no reason why they should not, for they are receiving more money for the coming season than they could have commanded in their old jobs.

Speaking at a "confidence luncheon" in his honor at Dallas, Thursday, Speaker declared that he hoped and expected to have the greatest year of his 21 in organized baseball.

"I hope to be playing ball when I am 70 years old," Tris said while his admirers cheered.

When Speaker and Cobb arrive at their respective training camps, fans will be watching for first indications of their attitudes toward their new surroundings even more than for evidence that the two great outfielders still are able to scurry over the meadows and clout the apple as of yore.

Hornsby Makes Hit.

Down at Sarasota, where the first squad of Giants is at work under the eye of John J. McGraw, Rogers Hornsby has made an instantaneous hit.

Instead of reporting late and adopting an air of superiority, the former manager of the Cards showed up with the first of the battery men. He is the first man at the ball park each day and the last to leave. And when he is not driving the modulated offerings of McGraw's pitchers to all parts of Florida, Rogers is assisting the youngsters, pointing out defects, making suggestions and being helpful in every possible way.

"Hornsby's spirit is most commendable," said McGraw Thursday. "It is not so easy for the manager of a world's championship club to go back to the ranks before he has had a chance to defend his hard won honors. A player with a different temperament might mope and brood over what he considered an injustice.

"I know he will play his head off for New York, and he also is anxious to regain the National league batting championship. His willingness to help the young players is a wonderful thing for the club. I am more than pleased at his attitude."

If Hornsby had sulked, fans would have said:

DECATUR FIVE LOSES FIRST GAME OF YEAR

Decatur Junior High school basketball five had their first taste of defeat Thursday afternoon when the fast Hoke Smith quintet outshot them, 28 to 22. Bass continued their losing streak by dropping one to O'Keefe, 26 to 7.

Hoke Smith played well in downing the DeKalb county boys. Towery, Johnson and Braunstein were working with such perfect teamwork that the Decatur lads were in a whirl most of the game. The game was exceedingly rough and three of the victor's players were removed from the affair by the personal foul route.

Decatur was playing a good game but they fell down in the pinches, failing to make shots near the end of the game that would no doubt have turned defeat into victory.

Will Gunn was the best for the Bass team. The balance of his teammates were not functioning nearly as well as they have in games in the past.

Miss Stanton's Miniatures Exhibited at Museum.

The exhibition of miniatures and paintings by Miss Lucy M. Stanton now on view at the High Museum of Art under the auspices of the Atlanta Art association, is attracting much attention and favorable comment from the many visitors who have embraced the opportunity to see it and also to meet Miss Stanton, who is at the museum every morning, and in the afternoon by appointment.

Miss Stanton's technique is unusual, and adds a note of interest to the miniatures which does not always attach to this branch of art. Miniature painting is having a revival of popularity which is well deserved, for it is the one type of portraiture for which there is always room, no matter how small the apartment, and has the intimate touch which we like to feel in a likeness of a loved one. Miss Stanton will remain in the city to the end of the exhibit, March 3.

The time of the regular meeting of the Atlanta association will be changed back to the third Tuesday in each month. Miss Hagood Weds Mr. Gambrell In St. Michael's in Charleston

Charleston, S. C., February 24.—In St. Michael's Episcopal church, the historical old edifice where General George Washington attended services on the occasion of his southern tour in 1791, the marriage of Miss Kathleen Hagood, daughter of Major General and Mrs. Johnson Hagood, to Enoch Smythe Gambrell, of Atlanta was solemnized Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, the ceremony being performed by the Right Rev. William A. Guerry, D. D., bishop of the diocese of South Carolina.

Bridal Party.

The church was beautifully decorated in stately palms and southern smilax, the background of green being relieved with calla lilies and lighted candles. Previous to the entrance of the bridal party, Mrs. William G. Locke rendered an impressive program of musical selections. First to enter were the ushers, Robert S. Small and A. Eugene Geer, of Charleston; Johnson Hagood, Jr., brother of the bride; Barmore P. Gambrell, of Atlanta; Howell Foreman, of Atlanta; Ralph Parris, of Atlanta, and Richard Cobb, of Atlanta. They were followed by little Miss Francesca Hagood, sister of the bride, as flower girl, who wore a charming old-fashioned dress of shell pink taffeta, the full skirt being short in front and long in the back. She carried a miniature bouquet of deep pink roses, showered with sweetpeas. Miss Blanche Rhett, the maid of honor, was the next to enter, and her patrician beauty was enhanced by her period gown of apple green taffeta trimmed with gold lace. The skirt of the gown was short in front and long in the back, and a bouquet of deep pink roses showered with sweetpeas completed the costume.

Beautiful Bride.

The bride entered the church with her father, General Hagood, who was in full dress uniform. The classic beauty of the charming bride was enhanced by the severely simple lines of her wedding gown of white satin. The only decoration of which was the drapery in front and her only ornament was a strand of pearls. The veil of filmy tulle was arranged beneath a bandeau of orange blossoms and held in place by sprays of orange blossoms which were arranged in cluster effect down the length of the court train of satin, which was adjusted to her shoulders by pearl ornaments. She carried a bouquet of bride roses, showered with valley lilies. Entering from the vestry room, the groom, with his best man, Charles G. Gambrell, of New York, met his bride at the altar, where the impressive service took place.

Mrs. Enoch Pepper Gambrell, of Atlanta, mother of the groom, wore a lovely draped model of orchid crepe chiffon and chiffon velvet trimmed with handsome silk lace in pastel shades, to correspond with the color of the gown.

Mrs. R. Goodwyn Rhett, from whose home the bride was married, was handsomely gowned in a straight-line model of shaded crepe Elizabeth, the colors ranging from palest rose to purple.

Brilliant Reception.

Following the ceremony a large and brilliant reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Goodwyn Rhett, close friends of the bride's family, and with whom the bride spent much of her time while her father was in France. It is a landmark of the south, built in 1764 by Governor John Rutledge, known as dictator of South Carolina and dramatized in Sabatinis' novel, "The Carolinian." Its architecture is in colonial lines with marvelous old parquetry floors and extremely high ceilings with native Italian marble mantels and mirrors. The house, originally designed and constructed for entertaining, has been the scene of many of the most fashionable gatherings of colonial south. Revolutionary, civil and world war heroes have been feted here.

The handsome home was thrown open to hundreds of guests. The decorations were in charge of Miss Emily C. Barker, an interior decorator, who has successfully decorated several of the old homes of Charleston. Calla lilies, valley lilies and a profusion of rose japonicas, were used about the rooms, and southern smilax, magnolia leaves and boughs of long-leaf pine made a background of green. The bride and groom received under the hugh crystal chandelier in the ballroom on the second floor. This room was used as a courtroom during the war between the states, and, during the world war, it was used extensively for large group meetings, parlor meetings, musicals and the like. The home was formerly that of Governor John Rutledge and tradition has it, that Washington, on occasion of his southern tour, had breakfast here with Mrs. Rutledge, her husband, then chief justice, being away on business. Punch was served in the rooms on the lower floor, and a stringed orchestra played during the evening.

Conspicuous among the elegant presents received by the bride and groom was an exquisite old English silver tea service, presented by the fourth army corps, which General Hagood commanded at Fort McPherson before being ordered to the Philippine Islands.

Mr. and Mrs. Gambrell will make their home in Atlanta. Among those who attended the wedding from Atlanta were Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell, Sr., and Mrs. Richard Cobb.

Gordon Street Auxiliary Meets.

The young woman's auxiliary of the Gordon Street Baptist church was entertained at the home of Miss Rebecca Mitchell, on Lucile avenue, Tuesday evening, February 22, at a George Washington party. Mrs. Brannan and Miss Dora Eberhardt assisted in the entertaining.

Many interesting contests were enjoyed, prizes being won by Mrs. E. H. Gibson, Mrs. J. M. Fagal, Mrs. Robey, Mrs. A. C. McCreary and Miss Rebecca Mitchell.

Miss Arcadia Near And Mr. Phillips Are Honor Guests

Reid-Sams Wedding Is Lovely Church Event in Savannah, Ga.

Savannah, Ga., February 24.—Much cordial interest is centered in the marriage of Miss Eleanor Hazelhurst Reid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Reid, of Savannah, and Bruce Jones Sams, of Savannah, formerly of Atlanta, Ga., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Sams, of Atlanta, which took place at 8:30 o'clock Thursday evening at the Presbyterian church. Dr. Neal Anderson, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony.

The church was artistically decorated with palms, ferns, foilage plants and beautiful lilies. Soft lights gave an added effect to the gorgeous array of flowers used in the decoration of the church. A selection of nuptial music was rendered and the wedding party approached to the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin."

Attendants.

The attendants were: Maid of honor, Miss Mary Frances Martin, of Vicksburg, Miss.; bridesmaids, Miss Sara Hanahan, of Atlanta; Miss Nina Waring, Miss Peggy Stoddard and Miss Mary Birdsey.

Mr. Sams had his brother, Louis Sams, of Minneapolis, as his best man, and the groomsmen included F. Wylly Clarke, Jr., Mortimer Hazlehurst, Nephew Clark, E. A. Sale, Mercer Lang, Spencer Connerat, Sam Varnedoe, of Augusta, and Dr. Lawrence Dunn.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore gowns fashioned alike. They were made with tight basques and full skirts of chiffon evening satin in pastel shades. The skirts had rosebuds sprinkled over them in an effective fashion and were made with three bands of wide lace frilled on them. The necks of the dresses were round, and fell off the shoulders, giving a becoming old-fashioned effect. Miss Martin, maid of honor, wore pink and carried a bouquet of pink roses, pink freesia and sweet peas.

The first bridesmaid, Miss Hanahan, wore green, and her flowers were green roses and pink sweet peas. Miss Stoddard's gown was in blue and she carried a bouquet of blue hyacinths and blue freesias. Miss Birdsey wore yellow and her flowers were yellow roses and yellow freesias.

Lovely Bride.

The bride entered with her father, Robert D. Reid, by whom she was given in marriage. Her wedding gown of ivory-white satin was made bouffant style, with tight waist and full skirt, and the round neck line which fell slightly off the shoulders had an exquisite bertha of real lace. A panel of this same lace was let in in the front of the skirt. At intervals over the full skirt were small designs of seed pearls. She carried a lovely bouquet of bride roses, valley lilies and pink orchids.

Agnes Scott Blackfriars Will Present Original Plays

For many years Blackfriars of Agnes Scott college has staged plays for the entertainment of all those interested in the college. This year, however, will be only the second time that an attempt has been made to have an essentially "Agnes Scott" program, the plays being both written and produced by girls of the school.

This has been made possible as a result of the course in playwriting introduced into the curriculum, directed by Miss Nan Stevens. Blackfriars acts in partnership with this class, the actors of the organization endeavoring to interpret the roles, and the stage managers to arrange the scenery according to the wishes of the juvenile playwrights.

This performance will be given the night of Saturday, February 26, and will include four one-act plays: "Tinker Toys," written by Helen Lewis, in which the following girls will take part: Georgia Mae Burns, Elizabeth Olgood, Marian Green, Marian Henry and Isobel McCain.

"Trumpets," by Frances Freeborn, the cast including Mary Weems, Mary Sayward, Margaret Keith and Marian Green.

"Black Mountain," by Lillian LeConte, played by Elizabeth McCallie, Frances Freeborn, Georgie Mae Burns, Frances Chambers, Sally Cothran and Martha Johnston.

"Bishop Whipple's Memorial," by Roberta Winter, the cast including Roberta Winter, Josephine Wachtel, Augusta Roberts and Josephine Walker.

The performance will begin at 8:30 o'clock in the college auditorium, the admission being 50c and 75c.

SYMPHONY SEAT PRICES SLASHED

With special cut rates in effect, the Atlanta Symphony association is endeavoring to sell all reserved seats for the symphony concert at Loew's Grand theater next Sunday afternoon before Saturday night. Seats are now on sale at Phillips & Crew Piano Co., where they may be secured anytime today or Saturday until 6 o'clock.

Prices for this, the final concert of the present series, have been reduced to 50 cents for the entire balcony and $1 for orchestra and loges. It is hoped, at these special prices, to completely sell out the house and thus avoid any increase in the $2,000 deficit already faced by the association for the operation of the orchestra this season.

The program to be given by Conductor Enrico Liede and his 70 selected musicians for this closing concert is one of especial appeal to music lovers and all who have attended any of the past concerts. It is made up exclusively of numbers played in previous concerts which have been received with exceptional applause and have required encore repetitions. Thus it is believed that this final concert will bring to everyone the selections which have given them, in the past, the greatest pleasure.

So Soft—So White

By Edna Wallace Hopper.

Nearly every woman who sees them envies me my hands. They ask me how I keep them so soft, so white, so young.

They know that I travel all the time. My stage work encounters all sorts of grime and dirt. In most cities the water is hard. Yet the most sheltered women rarely have such hands. They never chap.

The reason lies in a hand lotion perfected for me by great experts. I apply it whenever I wash my hands. It is not greasy or sticky. It disappears at once. And it overcomes all that water does, all that soap does, all that grime does to the hands. Also all that weather does, all that the years do. My own hands form evidence supreme.

This hand lotion is now supplied by all toilet counters. It is called Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Hand Lotion. The price is 60c.

I urge you to try it. I think I have tried nearly everything of this kind, but nothing compares with this. A guarantee comes with it. Your dealer will return your money if it does not please. Go get it and see what it means to you.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE TO BE DISCUSSED AT LEGION LUNCH

Early launching of a membership campaign will be recommended to the Atlanta post of the American Legion at its luncheon meeting in the Henry Grady hotel at 12:30 o'clock today, it was announced Thursday by Commander Asa Warren Candler.

Recommendations for a campaign will be presented by the executive committee, of which B. P. Gambrell is chairman. The membership committee will report on activities to date.

Committees at work to relieve cases of need among veterans and the children of dead or disabled veterans; on Americanization work in the schools; on coöperation with Boy Scouts; sandlot baseball leagues and other boys' activities, all need more active workers from the ranks of the legion, Commander Candler said.

CITY PLANNING BODY SEEKS AID FOR ZONING BILL

First steps to secure support of members of the Georgia legislature for a constitutional amendment legalizing city zoning ordinances were taken Thursday by the city planning commission, when that body voted to communicate with other cities of the state also seeking zoning laws in an effort to enlist representatives of these districts.

Fulton representatives will be asked to offer the amendment to the state legislature, when the assembly meets this summer. R. W. Torras, secretary of the commission, will begin at once to release letters to thickly populated districts for the purpose of presenting as large and as united a front as possible when the matter is offered.

Mayor I. N. Ragsdale was elected chairman of the commission.

DECATUR STUDENTS TO PRESENT COMEDY

Decatur, Ga., February 24.—(Special.)—"The Gypsy Rover," a musical comedy, will be presented Friday night by Decatur High school students at 8:15 o'clock at the school auditorium, the proceeds to go to the high school annual fund, it was announced by J. T. Carlton, editor of the annual.

The leading feminine role will be taken by Miss Vivian Bryant, of the Agnes Scott Glee club, playing opposite Frank Browder, a graduate of Decatur High. Women Voters' Membership Drive Closes Saturday

The League of Women Voters' membership campaign closes Saturday, February 26, at 6 o'clock. Mrs. A. H. Bailey, chairman of the drive, has issued a last call to workers to complete the quotas before Saturday and to all league members to individually secure one additional member and renew their own memberships if joining originally during a drive.

Mrs. Bailey points out a few reasons why women should join the league. She says, "Women should join the League of Women Voters for three reasons. First, to make intelligent citizens; second, to better conditions under which we and our children live; third to strive at all times for higher political ideals. The league answers political questions of puzzled women; the league has no political ambition, and is not a political party; the league has no jobs to give away, the league is not a tool of any political party and, therefore, the league is never afraid to tell the truth. Women come to the league for inspiration, to learn both sides of every question and to take the woman's point of view into politics."

Mrs. Bailey reports that many squads have already completed their quotas but are still working and will surpass what was asked of them; others which have not yet gotten their quotas give assurances that they will have them.

11-Year-Old Boy Held on Charge Of Stealing Mail

Scarcely old enough to know what it is all about, a frightened 11-year-old boy, Cecil Pierce, Thursday was in the hands of the United States government on charges of rifling a mail receptacle at Rome, Ga., and attempting to forge a check contained in a letter he is alleged to have stolen, according to information received by Post Office Inspector in Charge Joe P. Johnston.

Post Office Inspector N. A. McKew, who caused the lad's arrest, charges Cecil with theft of mail from a residence letter box. According to Mr. Johnston's information from Rome, the boy secured a check from a stolen letter, attempted to forge the indorsement and presented it at a bank for payment.

Questions followed; questions an 11-year-old boy couldn't answer. So he scudded out of the bank with all possible speed, but speedier adults captured him, and now he faces trial in federal court, if the grand jury indicts him. Mr. Johnston said the case may be transferred from Rome to Atlanta for hearing.

Woodland, Ga., February 24.—(Special.)—A banquet was given here last night at the Woodland Community club by the Woodland Advertising club to the peach growers in this community and more than 30 growers were present.

The principal speaker was W. C. Bewley, manager of the Georgia Peach Growers' Exchange. Mr. Bewley stressed the advantages of cooperation and putting up a high class pack of peaches. He stated that there was an over production of peaches last season, and he saw no prospect of any falling off this year, and that the next few years looked like hard ones for the growers, and that only those growing and putting up very fancy fruit would survive.

Harrison Hightower, of Thomaston, and C. W. Matthews, of this place, also spoke.

CONFLICT OF NAMES BARS TRUST CHARTER

Because it bore the identical name of another company that was incorporated under the laws of Georgia 11 months previous, the application for a charter of the proposed South Georgia Trust company, of Lakeland, Ga., was set aside Thursday by Secretary of State Guyt S. McLendon. Georgia already has one "South Georgia Trust company," at Albany, incorporated in March, 1926, Mr. McLendon said.

Under the act of 1923 no concern can assume the name of another without the latter's consent and provision is made even then for the secretary of state to reject such an application if he sees fit.

Papers of incorporation which were filed with the secretary of state by the proposed trust company at Lakeland said it would have a capital stock of $100,000, of which $25,000 had already been paid in. Charter members signing the application were E. D. Rivers, Lakeland; J. Frank Kemp, Atlanta; C. H. Elrod, Atlanta; R. E. Carter and Ruby E. Smith, both of Lakeland.

75 GALLONS LIQUOR TAKEN AT HAMPTON

Hampton, Ga., February 24.—(Special.)—The Henry county policemen, Mitcham, Wise and Hightower, made a big haul of liquor today by catching a small coupe after a five-mile chase on the Dixie highway in Henry and Spalding counties. They were assisted in the chase by A. L. Cain, of Hampton, who outran the coupe with a sedan.

After the driver of the coupe saw he was being overtaken he jumped out of the car and took to the woods, where after a half-mile chase he was found under a farm house.

The car contained 75 gallon cans of liquor, which was poured out on the streets of Hampton with a large crowd looking on.

FORBES IS PROMOTED BY BONDING COMPANY

Announcement was made Thursday that Tillou Forbes has been appointed assistant resident manager of the Fidelity and Casualty company, of New York, for the states of Georgia, Alabama, Florida and South Carolina.

Mr. Forbes, who at one time was a reporter for The Constitution, has been engaged in casualty and bonding business for a number of years, and has risen rapidly in his field. He has been connected with the Fidelity and Casualty company for more than a year. Under the new arrangement the organization will have two assistant managers, the other being Eugene King, who has held this office for many years. Both will work under Resident Manager Eugene Oberdorfer, who has been in charge since 1893.

The company is one of the largest in the south. It deals in fidelity and surety bonds, its field including automobile liability and property damage, burglary and robbery, accident and health. The Atlanta office during the last year had the highest rate of increase of any branch of the company in the United States.

Mr. Forbes at present is in Miami to deliver an address on the subject of "Bankers' Blanket Bonds" before the annual meeting of the company's field men.

BIG AIRPLANE LEAVES WITH 4 PASSENGERS

Taking off from Candler field shortly before noon Thursday with four prominent Detroit business men, a large plane of the latest passenger-carrying type was away on the last lap of a Detroit to Miami flight. The plane was piloted by Eddie Stinson, president of the Stinson Aircraft corporation, of Detroit.

The party arrived at Candler field Wednesday after flying from Louisville during the day. They were scheduled to arrive in Atlanta last week, but an accident on taking off in Detroit delayed departure several days.

Others who accompanied Stinson were Ray Collins, manager of the Wise Birds' club, himself a famous pilot; Carl H. Keller and Edward Meutzen, contractors.

Later in the spring a dawn to dusk flight between Miami and Detroit will be attempted by Stinson, it was announced.

FURTHER FRAUDS LAID TO BANKERS

Presentation of direct testimony in the trial of J. A. Sasser, P. J. Baker, John D. Russell and L. R. Adams, co-defendant officials of the Bankers' Trust company, on charges of using the mails to defraud in connection with operation of the W. D. Manley bank chain, is approximately halfway completed, District Attorney Clint W. Hager said Thursday. Hearing of the case in United States district court is expected, however, to continue for at least one month, as counsel for the defense will open its case on the conclusion of direct testimony, and after that will come rebuttal by the government.

The government is about two weeks ahead of its schedule in introduction of direct testimony, and expects to complete this part of the case within a week or ten days, Mr. Hager said.

Alleged floating of worthless notes on no security in the case involving the Brunswick Shipbuilding company transaction drew the government's fire Thursday on conclusion of testimony in the Empire Sales company phase of the hearing.

In his opening statement to the jury on the Brunswick Shipbuilding company matter, Mr. Hager set forth that on April 2, 1919, the Brunswick Shipbuilding company executed and delivered to F. E. Decker, as trustee, the schooner "Eleanor Taylor" to secure ten notes of $5,000 each, totaling $50,000. The Bankers' Trust company became owner of the first six of the notes, and a Brunswick bank the owner of the last four notes, on July 5, 1921, Mr. Hager cited.

Hager Explains Deal.

Mr. Hager told the jury that the ship was sold under foreclosure by the trustees and F. D. Aiken, Sr., bought the ship in as trustee for the Bankers' Trust company and the Brunswick bank.

"The security having been foreclosed and sold, the $50,000 in notes dated April 2, 1919, were then without security and ceased to be a lien on the ship," Mr. Hager said.

"The Brunswick Shipbuilding company had gone out of business and had no assets. Therefore the notes were worthless. The security was foreclosed and gone, and the maker corporation was insolvent and out of business. After this, the Bankers' Trust company," he continued, "sold $30,000 in participating certificates and represented them to be a loan to the Brunswick Shipbuilding company. No loan was made," he charged.

Mr. Hager supported this charge with testimony by O. E. Dooly, receiver of the Bankers' Trust company, who testified that the alleged $30,000 note could not be found, and also with testimony by George Cook, secretary and treasurer of the Brunswick Shipbuilding company, who swore that the note was never executed after the foreclosure and that the $30,000 loan was not made. Mr. Aiken, president of the Brunswick bank, also was introduced and gave testimony in support of the district attorney's charges.

The district attorney charged in his opening statement that defendants falsely represented the alleged $30,000 loan and lien on the vessel.

In closing testimony Thursday on the Empire State Sales company feature of the case, Mr. Hager placed Receiver Dooly on the stand, Mr. Dooly testifying that an alleged $14,000 note on which the company is charged with issuing $19,000 in participating certificates was not among assets of the Bankers' Trust company and could not be found. Mr. Dooly testified that the alleged note had gone through bankruptcy and had been discharged three years ago.

INSTALLMENT XXIX.

THE NEXT TRICK.

This was a turn of events poor Lyman couldn't understand. In his duel with the old, gray pauper of a Leland, publicity, jewels and Rolls-Royces appeared to him as absolutely knock out blows. Yet in dressing room or hotel Dulcie's door was now closed to him. At the sound of his voice she hung up the receiver. To the written word, other than strictly business, she returned no reply. So he was at length driven to a long distance conversation with the poor, mummy Mr. Mack, after which the latter discharged old Mary by wire and engaged the Cy-pree-an battle ax as his daughter's regular maid. The result of this coup was that Dulcie took to arriving at the studio with no maid at all.

Th ax-edged voice of the Cy-pree-an explained over the telephone. "Look-ahere, Lyman, the kid's the devil! She says to me 'My father's paying you,' and she says, 'and I gotta let you do something for the money. You come here to my room at the hotel,' she says, 'an' I'll leave a string o' jobs for you to do all day. And you have 'em done when I get home at night, 'cause then you quit. Understand this,' she says, 'when I enter a room, you get out of it.' Lyman, she said was I ever to try followin' her—like out to her car or anywheres—she'd lay down flat on the sidewalk an' holler till I was gone! And hear me, old friend, she's the girl would do it." The Cy-pree-an sank her voice. "Oh, and say, Lyman—I can't find anything you want here; she keeps everything locked up. Nor so long as I ain't ever here when she's home I got no chance to see what's going on, even. Nor there's no time I could ease you in on her accidental, at all. Anything you want to say to her you better work over at youg end, where she's got no maid with her nor anybody."

But how could he? Now more than ever she hurried through the halls of Hertzog's as if—in Miss Jacobs' old phrase—they burned her feet; her little ever thinning face, whitet now with pain and fury, still staring straight ahead of her, Leland always by her side. Or, if not Leland, Benny Rosencrantz. Or the freckle faced assistant, or else Billy Westcott, her leading man. If she had no friends of her own sex, this girl who wasn't quite 18, the men of Leland's choosing made a guard about her, close and sharp as thorns about their rose. True, Lyman would be here when Leland was gone. But Leland was still here. Very much here. No place for Lyman, none. What to do?

Stygian blackness. A room? A cave? A cellar? The original abyss of rayless night? Who knew? For there was no break in the pitch darkness. Save that there were thrust forth presumably from some kind of walls, small, blood red lamps, blinding rather than illuminating all but the spot directly beneath them. And in each of these spots there appeared a human hand, all stained in the infernal light which was more like ruby darkness and into which there also occasionally bent a headless brow. Each hand was at work, making apparently futile and meaningless passes upon nothing—for what they worked on was invisible in the black void—like signals from the submerged, trying to grope back into light. Not only was there no light here; there was no air. There was no sound, for the submerged making none. There was nothing. This was the developing room of Hertzog's.

Some visitors, ultra, high brow, classy visitors from colleges and church societies, real ladies who had never before set foot on motion picture ground, had been netted by Lyman for the refined publicity which their names would lend to their meeting with Dulcie Jayne; these innocents had thought it would be rather sporting to ask to be shown over the laboratories, if "little Miss Jayne herself" would go with them to explain things. But now, lost in this thick darkness, they began to feel the least bit queer, shepherded though they were by a masculine football—that of a laboratory man deputed to do the real explaining. He was cutting through their faint qualm with the metallic voiced statement, "The conditions necessary for the development of the film at this stage are so trying to the eye that it has been found impossible for operatives in this room to work more than 10 hours a day—" Another masculine footstep was heard crossing the room, toward the visiting group. Then it stopped as if it hadn't gotten anywhere. For some reason this added to the nervousness.

Was there really some new person with them in the void? Had he entered through the masked doorway and thus swiftly and speechlessly joined them? Then someone gave a violent start.

That got on everybody's nerves. It was quite as if the floor beneath them had jumped. They heard a hurried, soothing whisper, and then Dulcie Jayne's unabashed contralto exclaimed rough, "Oh, it's you! I might have known!"

The whisper increased to a murmur, intended to be fond, jocular and confidential. The contralto growled, "Speak up then, why don't you? I can't hear a word you say!"

Silence.

The visitors, still a trifle jarred, but taking heart that order was again restored, followed most willingly the voice of the explainer saying, "This way!" and moving toward the masked door. They acutely desired a light world! The explainer himself, however, stumbled over something, so they took hands for safety, proceeding with precautions like those of Alpine climbers. At last a dusky oblong appeared; the masked door was being held open. The first visitor was passing through it. Then, at their rear, there arose a violent scuffle.

It was brief, tense and vigorous, ending in a sliding thump, as though someone had been rudely torn from his hold on something and cast, with convulsive force, against the wall. This was accompanied by a faint, tinkling sound, as if something like a small nail had been flung to the ground. And then Dulcie Jayne, breathing hard and crimson in the face, pushed rudely ahead of the two last visitors and gained the light of the open hall. The unseen presence did not follow her.

Perplexed, with a queer, jarred thumping of their hearts, the gentle visitors were glad to perceive that the next room was only three-fourths dark. They entered a wet floored twilight set with troughs of thickish liquid—bue, amber, green and red—where the explainer, having evolved from a voice to a presence, was saying, "In the tinting room, after the frames of films have been lifted from the vats they are hung as you see on drying racks—"

But within that blackness someone had remained. Someone beyond law and indifferent to reason, who lit a match in the developing room. The thin flame, shielded by short, heavy fingers, flared up and disclosed the anxious countenance of Lyman Hertzog, peering this way and that; kneeling, he began to grope about the floor. His fingers encountered the minute object of his search; stamping on the match, which by this time had bitten him, he held the minute object close to his eyes in the dark. He could see nothing of it. Relief and reassurance spread over his face like balm. He checked himself from exclaiming with loud joy, "That's it—she didn't see it! Didn't realize what it was—that's what got her goat!"

He thrust his hand under a red lamp and looked down, admiringly. The minute object, all platinum and diamonds, was an engagement ring. "How'm I going to get her to realize what it is? That's the next trick!"

* * * *

Yet even in that discreet atmosphere there must have been a leak. Hertzog's became saturated from end to end with the knowledge that Lyman had offered the golden idol a diamond and platinum engagement ring, which the idol had refused with virulence and insult; Lyman's wooing, all its t's crossed and its i's dotted, at last hung framed, like a legal certificate, in the general mind.

"Music Box Revue"—But three performances remain of that exquisitely staged musical comedy, Irving Berlin's "Music Box Revue," now current at the Erlanger theater. Seldom has a production been so lavishly staged. It has melody and comedy in abundance, contains not one disappointing moment, and possesses everything that this type of entertainment should have. The show moves fast and furiously, and has an array of unique costumes that enhance the enticing beauty of the famous "Music Box" girls. Good seats are still available for the three remaining performances, but an early reservation of tickets is strongly advised.

Coming to Erlanger.

Comic Opera — May Valentine, America's only woman impresario, is making her initial visit to Atlanta, opening at the Erlanger theater, for a week's stay beginning Monday night, February 28, with a popular price matinee Wednesday, and the regular matinee Saturday. Metropolitan.

"Don Juan," the mammoth screen spectacle starring John Barrymore, greatest of all screen lovers in the title role, and which is enjoying record-breaking crowds at the Metropolitan theater this week, is destined to prove the real big outstanding picture of the year in Atlanta. Never before has a motion picture production occasioned such widespread interest in Atlanta as is being evidenced in "Don Juan." "The Blonde Saint" is the title of next week's screen production starring Lewis Stone and Doris Kenyon.

Howard.

"The Fire Brigade"—Heading a wonderful program of entertainment at the Howard theater this week is Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's big 1927 special production, "The Fire Brigade." This master picture contains almost every element of entertainment. There is spectacle, beauty, especially in a charming sequence done in natural colors, charming love story, thrills, humanity and a splendid spirit of sacrifice that permeates the whole story, in the person of Mrs. O'Neill, the mother. It has been hailed as "The Big Parade."

Keith's Georgia.

Babby Peggy—We have witnessed the personal appearance of several screen stars but none seem to have created the same impression as this bundle of personality, Baby Peggy, who is holding forth at the Keith-Georgia.

Baby Peggy travels with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery, and her older sister. While less than eight years old Peggy is a screen star in her own right, having a list of comedies and productions to her credit that is truly remarkable.

On the stage she does some of the things with which she has become identified in the movies. "Daddy" Montgomery works with Peggy on the stage.

Loew's Grand.

Black Bottom Contest.—Finals in the big "Black Bottom" dancing contest staged at Loew's Grand theater will be held Friday afternoon and night with Roscoe Ails, featured comedian, presiding as master of ceremonies. The dancing is an added attraction to a great bill of vaudeville which is headed by Roscoe Ails and Katie Pullman with their famous band. The dance contest finals for children will be held Friday afternoon and for adults at the two shows Friday night. The Loew feature picture is "Faust," an amazing spectacle, with Emil Jannings in the leading role.

Forsyth.

"Hush Money" (stock)—If tonight's show comes up to expectations, "Hush Money" will have played to more people in five days than any show has attracted since Christmas at the Forsyth theater, box office figures show. Inlications are, then, that "Hush Money" week will have been a big money week with three more performances to go before the week ends.

John Warner, Gus Forbes, Alan Devitt, Jay Mulrey, Lawrence Keating and others of the Forsyth cast are showing to exceptional advantages.

Rialto.

Fairfax.

"The Three Musketeers."—Alexandre Dumas always gave good measure. He surpassed himself when he wrote the "Three Musketeers," the film version of which is showing for the last times today at the Fairfax theater in East Point. Douglas Fairbanks is seen in the famous role of D'Artagnan, a character that will never die, the leader of that immortal trio, Athos, Porthos and Aramis, swaggering adventurers, thrilling characters whose motto was "One for all, all for one" A visit to the Fairfax today will revivify in the imagination these never-to-be forgotten adventurers.

"Let's Get Married."—As a salesman, he was a smashing success. He thought himself so good that if he'd taken fans to Iceland, they'd have disappeared as fast as ice cream on a sunny day. And so—going to see his first prospect, in order to sell her some hymn books, he equipped himself with tickets for a concert. But—she wasn't that kind of a girl. No sir, she wanted to see a bit of New York night life. With the result that instead of selling her an order, he got mixed in a free-for-all and landed in jail! All this and plenty more happens to Richard Dix in "Let's Get Married," which is playing for the last times today at the Tenth Street theater. Lois Wilson is featured opposite him.

West End.

"A Regular Scout."—Considered by critics and public alike as being the finest picture ever made by the popular Fred Thompson, and one of the cleanest, most wholesome and enjoyable films likewise, "A Regular Scout," which is playing for the last times today at the West End theater, has proven in its scheduled two-day run, a film attractive to young and old both, while the story deals in particular with the Boy Scouts. Thompson is supported by an excellent adult cast in the picture in addition to a score or so of Boy Scouts.

Palace.

Tudor.

Midnight Frolic.

(Tonight 11 O'Clock.)

"Dixie Brevities."—If Atlanta theatergoers are of the same tastes as those of New York and New Orleans, those lucky ones who attend the showing tonight at 11 o'clock of the "Dixie Brevities," at the 81 Theater, are in for the time of their lives. This Miller and Slayter revue is heralded as the biggest thing of the season.

To name the high lights of the "Brevities" is to give the cast and repertoire of the whole company. Some of the outstanding features are: Rita Castro, who does a maniac act that sets the audience to rocking with laughter; George Wiltshires, as a dope fiend and Emma Hawkins in a blues number that meets with the highest approval; a bowery dance by Marcus Slater and Inez Dennis that is absolutely the last thing in skill; Mae Diggs, a "Black Bottomer," who rocks the house, and on top of this a flock of comedians, Arthur Allen, Andrew Fairchild, Robert Rice and Montrose Brooks, who do their part in keeping the audience roaring with laughter.

The chorus is one of the most skilled and attractive of any that has played at the 81 this season. The entire cast numbers 50, one of the largest colored companies ever seen in Atlanta. Tickets for the frolic are on sale at Chess' Place at Five Points until 9 o'clock and at the theater until the starting time. Take a tip and don't miss it.

RADIO BILL TO END CHAOS, HOOVER SAYS

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Washington, February 24.—Enactment of radio legislation will make it possible to clear up eventually "the chaos of interference and howls in radio reception," according to a statement issued today by Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

"The new commission, which is to determine who shall have licenses to broadcast, at what times and with what power, will no doubt require some months to make rearrangements of broadcasting stations which will be necessary," said Mr. Hoover. "It will require some patience on the part of listeners while the commission works out the problem.

"There are today 733 broadcasting for public entertainment and information and there are a total of 18,119 radio sending stations of all sorts.

"This new act makes a fundamental change in the whole radio system. Every license for radio transmission now outstanding is automatically terminated. This applies to the whole 18,119 stations—broadcasting, amateur, trans-oceanic and all others. No new licenses can be issued and no action can be taken upon applications now pending until the commission is formed.

"Owners of licensed stations may under the law continue to operate them for a period of 60 days without incurring the penalties provided in the act for unlicensed operation. Every station owner who desires to operate after the 60-day period must apply to the commission for new license, and should do so within the 60 days.

"Applications for station licenses are to be filed with the secretary of commerce as heretofore, although they can be acted upon only by the commission.

"Operators' licenses, as distinct from station licenses, remain under the control of the department of commerce but all such licenses now outstanding are terminated by the new law and new licenses must be obtained.

"The department will, however, issue operators' licenses under the new law to all persons who are now licensed."

DICTAPHONE PROFITS ESTIMATED $506,638

President C. K. Woodbridge, of Dictaphone corporation, states that preliminary estimates for the year 1926 are expected to show net profits of $506,638 after depreciation and taxes. Allowing for the 8 per cent dividend paid on the preferred stock, this equals $4.22 a share on the outstanding no par value common stock against earnings of $1.56 per share in 1925.

This increase was due to larger sales at home and abroad and improvements in manufacture.

U. S. CROP CONDITIONS REPORTED FAVORABLE

Washington, February 24.—(AP)—Crop conditions for the week ended yesterday as summarized by the department of agriculture indicate that while there was some interruption to farm work in the southeastern states by rainfall, the additional moisture was beneficial and the soil is now generally in good condition. Plowing and other preparation for the planting of spring crops progressed as the weather permitted, but at the same time, fruit trees continued to advance prematurely, although a cool period was favorable in causing some retardation. In fact, vegetation is prematurely advanced throughout the south, with some early fruit trees blooming as far north as Tennessee.

In the southwest generally drier weather was favorable in Texas where plowing was resumed but in the northwestern cotton belt, particularly in Oklahoma, the soil continued too wet for working and the usual farm operations are much behind an average season. There was still some cotton picking in that area, while a little cotton was planted in extreme southern Texas, with much land ready for this crop in the extreme southeastern cotton belt.

CONDITION BY STATES

Virginia: Mostly favorable for farm work, while cooler at close of the week retarded development of fruit buds.

North Carolina: Lower temperatures favorable in checking fruit buds. Wheat and oats rather too far advanced. Rye, lettuce and cabbage doing well.

South Carolina: Peach buds about two weeks earlier than normal, but condition not yet dangerous. Winter cereals, truck and tobacco and tomato sets improved.

Georgia: Frost probably caused very moderate damage to peaches and truck. Cereals growing rapidly. Tobacco in beds well advanced.

Louisiana: Some corn planted on high land. Cane doing well; flooding rains of previous week beneficial to cane, drowning borers.

Texas: Some damage to tender vegetation. Some corn and cotton planted in extreme south. Progress and condition of wheat, oats, pastures, truck and strawberries good.

Arkansas: Favorable for farm work except in north. Wheat, oats, rye and pastures good.

Kentucky: Some tobacco beds sown. Rye and early wheat in good to excellent condition; late wheat fair; soil too wet to plow.

INDIA COTTON OUTPUT DECLINES 18 PER CENT

Washington, February 24.—A cable received by the department of agriculture from Calcutta states that cotton production this season for all India is forecast at 4,144,000 bales, which is 18 per cent less than last year and 8 per cent less than the average for the last five years.

Sugar.

New York, February 24.—There were no sales in the raw sugar market today, but the undertone was easy and offerings at last paid prices of 4.96 for Cuban, duty paid, were more numerous.

Raw sugar futures were weak under heavy trade and Cuban selling, promotted by increased offerings in the spot market. The opening was fairly steady due to covering and commission house buying, but the demand was soon supplied and prices continued easier for the remainder of the session, closing at net losses of 5 to 7 points. Approximate sales 65,000 tons. March closed 3.10; May 3.18; July 3.29; September 3.38; December 3.28.

Refined sugar was steady and unchanged to 5 points higher, flat quotations now ranging from 6.00 to 6.20 for fine granulated. Good inquiry was reported at the inside level.

News, Views And Reviews

Stock Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, February 24.—Oil production week ended February 19, established a new high record of 2,457,062 barrels. However, in spite of this development the oil group easily withstood selling and such issues as Houston Oil, General Asphalt and Barnsdall advanced rapidly. U. S. Steel improved upon its record price during the early trading as a reflection to the improvement in the steel industry. The Iron Age stated that the steel industry now appears to be operating at last year's average or close to 85 per cent of capacity, with the steel corporation at several points above that figure. Profit taking came into Baldwin, causing a few points setback on the denial of the company's president of the formation of a realty subsidiary to market the Philadelphia properties. The copper group which has not participated in current market activities came in for considerable attention. Certain issues in this group were reported as being bought by best copper interests. Railroad shares having seemingly recovered from the shock of the supreme court decision last Monday were quite active with a good demand particularly in Wabash, Canadian Pacific and Norfolk. Mack Truck was strong on the report of receipt of order from Public Service for 147 busses and also that the company's earnings for the past year amounted to $10.81 per share.

Cotton Letters.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.

New York, February 24.—The market has been fairly quiet during the past week, prices showing slight variation. As has been the case for some time, the trade has taken advantage of all recessions and bought contracts in fixing prices. On the other hand, all bulges in prices have attracted increased offerings, particularly from the south, so that prices have several times failed to reach the recent high of 14.22 for May deliveries. The spot demand in Liverpool has been unusually great all week and presages a large turnover of yarns and goods. The demand comes principally from India, but all markets are participating therein. Other countries are also doing a better business, while the domestic mills are maintaining their high level of activity. The president is expected to veto the McNary bill. Notices for over 150,000 bales were issued for March 1 delivery, and were readily taken by several firms. Further tenders are expected on March contracts.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, February 24.—Liverpool cables were higher with spot sales running to 18,000 bales, which is the highest on record for this year. Liverpool seems at the moment to be the sustaining factor in our market. It remains to be seen whether our American spinners follow the lead apparently taken by Manchester. It seems that the spinner cannot go far wrong in picking up cotton at these prices. The American spinner is assuming the waiting attitude until such time as a more positive position is taken by the southern farmer with regard to his intended acreage this year. In the meantime the slack is being taken up in this year's crop by the constant demand for spots that has been in evidence since the first of the year. March difference is widening slightly as it is generally understood that the spot houses have absorbed the notices and are at the time interested in later positions. The trade still shows some hesitancy about buying cotton over 14 cents for May, but as we have said before, we anticipate a good demand on all dips. Liverpool futures are due tomorrow: March, 7.44; May, 7.57.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

New York, February 24.—The early part of the afternoon was marked by persistent strength in a group of industrials with General Motors the leader. This stock got to a new high for the movement above 161. Westinghouse Air Brake and Houston Oil were the real sensations, the former selling above 154, up about 7 points on the day, and Houston above 102, up about 12. General Railway Signal also continued in demand and reached 103. Wabash got above 71, but after it was announced that the meeting held today was only routine, the stock again lost ground slightly. In fact, the general rail list was a little lower in the afternoon, following publication of earnings statements of Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, which both showed rather substantial losses in net income for January. It is being pointed out in several sources that loss in gross earnings and increase in operating expenses due to higher wages largely, are tending to reduce net income for the carriers all over the country. This in the future is going to have some effect on trading in the rail stocks. Toward the close of the afternoon there was some profit-taking in the general market, but stocks held well. We see no indication of any big drop in the market in the near future, but its large advance and extreme activity in recent days mean that one must be exceedingly cautious at the present time.

LOUISIANA SHIPS FIRST STRAWBERRIES

Hammond, La., February 24.—(AP) The first carload of strawberries out of Louisiana for the 1927 season was on its way today from here to Chicago. The car was made up of scattered shipments from all over the section. The first car load in 1926 was shipped on March 29.

If the present weather keeps up it was reported that the "strawberry special" over the Illinois Central to Chicago would be started by the end of next week. Strawberry buyers were headed south and it was announced that the auctions would be started by the first of the week.

SPOTS IN NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, February 24.—(AP)—Spot cotton closed steady 8 points down; sales 8,370; low middling 11.89; middling 13.89; good middling 14.84; receipts 15,253; stock 650,480.

New York, February 24.—(AP)—An easier tone developed in the cotton market after an opening advance today. There was no general or aggressive pressure, but there seemed to be a little more southern selling and realizing, and the price of May contracts eased off from 14.18 at the opening, to 14.02 in late trading, closing at 14.04. The general market closed steady, at net declines of 3 to 5 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 4 to 10 points on buying promoted by relatively firm Liverpool cables, continued large spot sales in the Liverpool market, and overnight buying orders brought in by the ready absorption of the heavy March notices issued here yesterday.

March sold up to 14.05 and October to 14.60 in the first few minutes, but the advance met considerable realizing, combined with rather more hedge selling by the south. The later was accompanied by reports that picking and ginning had been making more rapid progress under more favorable conditions and that the basis on low grades was slightly easier.

Offerings were comparatively light, while there was some further trade buying or covering, but prices gradually sagged off, with selling a little more active in later trading. March declined to 13.86 and October to 14.43, net losses of 6 to 10 points, but there was a slight spurt of trade buying or covering in the last few minutes, the close showing rallies of 2 or 3 points from the lowest.

Additional March notices representing about 10,000 bales of cotton were issued this morning, without apparent effect on the market, as March closed within 15 points of May, compared with a difference of 16 points at the close yesterday. There were rumors that some of the March cotton will be shipped to Germany, but nothing definite could be leaned in that connection.

Port receipts 43,180. U. S. port stock 2,807,113. Exports 25,067, making 7,484,129 so far this season.

NO DEFINITE TREND IN NEW ORLEANS PRICES.

New Orleans, February 24.—(AP)—After stirring sluggishly and uncertainly up and down with little definite movement, the cotton market closed today with prices showing net losses for the day of 7 to 8 points.

Favorable Liverpool cables and spot sales of 18,000 bales on that market gave a boost of 6 to 6 points to the opening prices and March moved up to 14.02; May, to 14.18, and July, to 14.35, a couple of points higher, before the movement ended after establishing the day's highs.

Realization shifted prices downward until the middle of the afternoon session, although the undertone remained steady. Week-end liquidation set in in the last hour to establish the day's lows with 13.89 for March, 14.02 for May and 14.16 for July, 13 to 19 points under the highs.

U. S. BONDS HIT NEW HIGH LEVELS

Combined year ago.	94.43

Total bond sales (par value), $13,125,000.

New York, February 24.—(AP)—High grade investment securities were in demand in today's bond market, while some of the secondary liens which have been popular for several weeks were inclined to heaviness. Indications for continued satisfactory business conditions and easy money rates were the principal sustaining factors.

Firmness of United States governmental issues, four of which rose to new high record prices, was an outstanding feature of the trading. There were the Liberty 3 1-2s, and the treasury 4 1-4s, 4s and 3 3-4s. Demand was particularly heavy in the latter two issues.

New peak prices were recorded by a number of issues in the industrial group. Granby Consolidated 7s advanced two points further, making its gain to 14 1-2 in two days. As these bonds are convertible into stock at $25 a share, a point advance in the common is good for a 4-point gain in the bonds. The stock has advanced 3 1-8 in two days. Strength was displayed by General Asphalt 6s, which also attained a new high.

Erie convertible s, "D" continued to feature the railway division, moving up to a new peak for the third consecutive day. Otherwise this group was generally dull.

Public utilities liens were fairly active, a number of them scoring gains of a point or more. Laclede Gas 5s Kings County Light 6 1-2s and New York Railways income 6s were among the livelier issues.

Dullness was general in the foreign list. Aside from firmness of French and Italian obligations, most of the price movements were reactionary. Fiatt 7s, with warrants, were accumulated in fair volume.

Market Gossip

(By Fenner & Beane Leased Wire to The Constitution)

BROKERS' STOCK OPINIONS.

Hornblower: Would shift into the rails until the next phase of the railroad advance occurs.

CURB MARKET.

Trading on the curb market today was at a less attractive pace and reactionary tendencies dominated in both oils and industrials. Trading turned dull on reactions, however, which is generally considered a healthy sign. What features there were on the constructive side were drawn almost wholly from the ranks of stocks usually inactive. In the oils the low-priced Gibson was the most active at lower prices. Cities Service duplicated its previous high record early in the day, but lost ground later. Standard Oils were unchanged to fractionally lower and were inactive.

DOW JONES REPORT.

Pan American Western's new 2,600 barrels well extending Seal Beach pool is most important extension well in California in long time.

Marland Oil of California will undoubtedly be largest beneficiary due to its solid holding south and east of the well, which is half mile northwest nearest producer on Marland's lease.

Pan-American completion is only 100 feet from boundary of Marland's Selover-McGrath lease as production is from same Selover horizon it is regarded as proving up Marland's intervening acreage.

To meet necessary offsets Marland has started six new locations on northwest end of its Selover lease. Pan-Am has started twe additional wells. Standard Oil, California Petroleum and some small landowners have begun new locations, bringing total to 15 wells north of Marland's line.

NEW YORK POST.

Shares of the companies engaged in the manufacture of railway train control and signal devices were among the outstanding features of the day. General Railway Signal moved up sharply, reflecting the announcement of the receipt of big orders recently placed. It is estimated that this company has sufficient business to keep its plants busy for more than a year at capacity. Westinghouse Air Brake which through its subsidiary, the Union Switch and Signal, is prominent in the same field, staged a spectacular upturn, rising close to 6 points.

Utility shares, notably those of the holding companies, were not influenced by that part of the federal trade commission's report touching on possible legislation to govern their activities. While profit taking was evident at times, several issues reached new high ground, including General Gas and Electric A. Buying here was attributed to strong sources which apparently are apprised of the improvement in its business. Gross for year ended January 31 last having topped $25,000,000 for the first time. The court's decision sustaining the company in its present method of paying dividends on the issue also was recalled and there was talk of pending developments which likely would be favorable to the company.

WALL STREET JOURNAL.

Further indication that the nation's business machine was picking up momentum appearing to assure a generally prosperous year gave impetus to the forward movement in the industrial stocks today. Various representative issues like U. S. Steel, Westinghouse Air Brake, and General Railway Signal, reached the highest prices at which they have ever sold, while new highs on the present recovery were reached by General Motors, Dupont, American Smelting, Houston, General Asphalt and various specialties.

Rails showed by their action that they had experienced no lasting ill effect from the abrupt break which followed the supreme court decision in the Salt Lake valuation suit. On the contrary, the technical position of the carrier group appeared to have been strengthened by this setback and resumption of buying activities took place in several standard rails under the influence of traffic statistics demonstrating that the transportation business was proceeding at an unprecedented pace.

The Day in Finance

By R. L. BARNUM

Recent Bull Markets Attributed to Masterly Manipulation in Hands of Big Pools.

New York, February 24.—Oldtimers in Wall street do not hesitate in admitting that they have never seen a stock market handled better than the one that has been witnessed since the upturn in prices following the lower level for the year made the last week of January. Without circulating rumors or tips the rails are taken in hand and advanced and then industrials, or coppers or oils are taken up giving the market as a whole the appearance of great strength. Yesterday active trading switched from rails to industrials. Today there was a switch back to rails with coppers also taken in hand.

In previous days, bull stock markets have been known as Livermore or Baruch, or Gates, or Harriman markets. No names are being connected with the existing upward price swings to a new high average price for all time.

In the old days when there were widely recognized individual leaders in bull markets the list of active stocks numbered around 150. Now there are between 500 and 600 active stocks. Pools working together are now taking the place of the old individual market leaders.

Pool in St. Paul.

It was learned today that a powerful pool is getting ready to operate in St. Paul. Members of this very rich pool are confident that the price can be advanced before the assessment is called for. The understanding in Wall street is that the bankers behind the reorganization in St. Paul are going to wait until congress adjourns before taking any active steps in declaring the reorganization effective.

It is possible but not probable that congress may pass some railroad legislation before adjourning having a decided influence on the market for railway shares.

One reason why the west is again very active in the stock market is that both the grain and cotton markets have dried up. The west counting on continuation of an abundance of easy money is trading actively in low-priced rails, asking no questions about earnings or dividends but satisfied to trade in fluctuations. Traders in General Railway Signals having paper profits are putting selling orders in a few points above the market and then withdrawing these selling orders just before the price named is reached. Many of these traders are increasing their holdings as prices advance. Inside information to the effect that Railway Signal companies have enough orders on their books to run two years has made speculative Wall street very bullish on the stocks of these companies. Western railroad officials reported that a movement is starting in their part of the country on the part of trainmen to get an increase in wages such as has been granted eastern trainmen. This increase amounted to 7 1-2 per cent.

New Ford Car.

Henry Ford turned out 70,000 cars in January with General Motors turning out 140,000, according to Detroit gossip reaching here today. Wall street is confident that Ford is going to bring out a new car in the not distant future.

Congress is called upon to pass a law which will end pyramiding in large electric companies in a report of the federal trade commission as a result of an investigation which has been carried on. The report declares that interlocking directorships among such companies are numerous, adding "in one instance less than a million-dollar investment in the majority of voting stock of the Apex holding company gave in 1925 full control of the entire organization of the group having scores of underlying companies and several hundred million dollars of investment. Such pyramiding not only affects the financial stability of the electric power industry but also has a potential relation to the more general question of undue concentration of control interests in this country.

New High Record.

General Motors, opened at 159 7-8, started to make good the predictions that this stock would make a new high for all time, as Steel common and Baldwin have just done. If the 50 percent stock dividend which came off of General Motors last autumn is included General Motors has just made a new high for all time. At 160 adding the 50 per cent stock dividend would make 240 for General Motors. Without the stock dividend General Motors high record stands at 225 3-4 established last August when the stock was advancing rapidly in anticipation of the stock dividend.

Further price cuts in mid-continent crude are expected to follow the second cut in price just made by Pennsylvania crude, the acknowledged leader of the crude oil market. The new price of $3.25, however, for Pennsylvania crude is still high compared with recent years. And the same is true of the existing price level for mid-continent and other grades of crude oil. Pennsylvania crude sold as high as $6.10 a barrel in 1920 with other grades of crude oil selling in proportion. At this time in 1917, the year we got into the war, Pennsylvania crude was selling at $2.95 a barrel, with some other grades considerably below $1 a barrel. Oil shares may not join in an upward price movement in the stock market, but nevertheless well-informed Wall street people are not bearish on oil shares for the long look ahead.

Dividend Increase Seen.

Officials of Southern Pacific are telling their friends that this year the company will finish improvements and betterments started back in 1905 calling for $117,000,000 expenditures in addition to its regular improvement and betterment program. Part of this work covers cut-offs in Oregon and north California started by Harriman 22 years ago. This information together with the fact that a party of important Wall street bankers is now making an inspection trip over Southern Pacific leads Wall street to hope that Southern Pacific stock marketwise will at least come back to life. Well-informed Wall street people believe confidently that it is only a question of time until Southern Pacific increases its dividend.

Oil Stocks Advance on News Of Seminole Area Shut Down

Total stock sales, 2,107,000 shares.

New York, February 24.—(AP)—Resumption of the upward price movement in today's stock market was accompanied by a large volume of profit-taking and bear selling, based on the theory that the market was entitled to at least a technical reaction after four weeks of steadily rising prices. As a result, the final quotations disclosed marked irregularity, but there were no points of actual weakness. Total sales crossed the two million mark for the seventh consecutive full session.

Marketwise one of the most important news developments of the day was the announcement that operators in the Seminole field had agreed upon certain drilling restrictions to restrict production in that territory. Houston scored an extreme advance of 13 points by touching 103, closing 1 1-2 points below the top, General Asphalt preferred jumped over 10 points to 134 and then eased to 130. Barnsdall A touched a new top at 35 and Producers and Refiners closed more than a point higher.

The money market was a little steadier. Call loans were quoted at 4 per cent all day with less funds available than yesterday, but the official rate was again reported shaded in the "outside market." The New York Federal Reserve bank announced no change in the 4 per cent rediscount rate, and earlier in the day the Bank of England rate was announced as unchanged at 5 per cent. Time money and Commercial Paper rates held steady.

New Highs Established.

Except for the increase from $3 to $4 in the annual dividend of International Business Machines, and another large increase in car loadings in the week ended February 12, due largely to the gain in coal loadings, there were few business developments of consequence. Several excellent sales and earnings reports were published, and a few poor ones, particularly by the western rails. Some uneasiness also was expressed over reports of large unemployment in automobile centers.

Both the rail and industrial averages lost ground on the day, but the losses were small. Nevertheless, a large flock of new high records was established. U. S. Steel Common opened at 162 3-8, a new peak, and then sold down to 160 7-8, off 1 1-8 net. Dupont, Kennecott Copper, Westinghouse Air Brake, General Railway Signal, All American Cables, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Freeport Texas, Philadelphia Company, Corn Products, Safety Cable, Bush Terminal, Wabash preferred "A" and "B", Rock Island, Hudson & Manhattan and Consolidated Railways of Cuba preferred all broke through their previous maximum prices.

Baldwin Sells Down.

Recent activity in the stock market is reported to be due not only to increased participation on the part of small traders and investors, but also to the operations of March traders who have withdrawn from the commodity markets.

Baldwin, which has been the feature of many recent sessions, sold down from 199 to 195 1-4 on official denials that a subsidiary was to be formed to sell the valuable Philadelphia real estate holdings, but snapped back to 196 1-2, off 2 1-2 net. Fairly heavy recessions also took place in Solvents B, Lehigh Valley, Sloss Sheffield, South Porto Rican Sugar and Wilson Co. preferred.

Cotton and wheat prices showed narrow changes, and there were no developments of consequence in the other commodity markets.

CURB MARKET IS REACTIONARY

New York, February 24.—(AP)—Reactionary tendencies were more pronounced in today's curb market, due to the growing tendency of professional traders to convert paper profits into cash. Trading showed a moderate expansion in volume, but so-called "outside buying" continued to be a small factor.

Oils were again inclined to heaviness, despite the reported agreement to curtail production in the Seminole field. Vacuum sold down nearly a point, but recessions in others were held to small fractions. Rumors were current of some plan for a merger of the Creole syndicate and Lago properties, but they lacked verification and had no effect on Creole stock.

Tubize Artificial Silk closed 4 points higher at 200, duplicating yesterday's high, but the other Rayon shares were heavy, American Rayon products and Industrial Rayon each falling back about a point. Motors also were heavy, Auburn falling back over 2 points on a few odd lot sales, while Rickenbacker duplicated the record low of 90 cents.

Moderate gains in American Seating, Fajardo Sugar, Goodyear Tire, Johns Manville, Safeway Stores, U. S. Distributing preferred (when issued) and White Sewing Machine were offset by losses of a point or mor in Brill Corporation, Curtis Publishing, Porto Rican Tobacco, Stern Bros. A and Warner Bros. Pictures B.

A sudden revival of activity and strength in Electric Bond and Share which carried that stock up nearly 3 points to 71 3-4 was one of the few interesting developments in the public utility group.

DECEPTIVE POLICY LAID TO COOLIDGE

Washington, February 24.—(AP)—President Coolidge was accused today by Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, ranking democrat on the house appropriations committee, of practicing a "deceptive policy" in the submission of budget estimates to congress.

In a speech prepared for delivery in the house, the Tennesseean declared that in many instances the appropriations requested in the original estimates are insufficient to carry on the activities of the government and at the time of submission it "is clearly understood that the necessary amounts will be carried in deficiency bills to be passed at a later session."

"The action of the president on February 3, in increasing the ration allowance of the army, is a striking example," he said. "The result is that the regular annual appropriations show a lesser amount than is actually required or expected to be appropriated and the administration takes credit for economies which are wholly fictitious.

"In his budget submitted to congress December 3 the president asked for a ration allowance of 36 cents for the army. In a letter printed in the army and navy journal December 9 he said he was convinced that his estimate would provide adequately for the service, and an economic administration would assure a well-fed and disciplined army.

"The appropriations committee after a full hearing increased the president's estimate to 40 cents per man per day. The senate committee concurred with the house committee on February 3, and on the same day, without advising congress so that the increase might be included in the regular army appropriation bill, the president issued his order increasing the allowance to 50 1-2 cents.

"This will result in a deficiency of $3,250,000 in the 1928 appropriation and will have to be carried in a deficiency bill next December. In the meantime, the president gets credit for a saving which does not exist."

THIEVES' RING BROKEN. DETECTIVES ASSERT

An alleged syndicate of thieves specializing in the snatching of suit cases and women's handbags was smashed Thursday, in the opinion of detectives, when Detective John W. Lowe, assigned to the work of recovering automobiles, and Detectives C. E. McCrary and L. J. Brooks arrested Marion Washington, proprietor of a negro pressing shop on Auburn avenue, and recovered approximately 25 expensive dresses, besides a quantity of women's fine spring coats.

Washington, who was jailed under a charge of suspicion and held incommunicado, protested his innocence, stating he would be able to satisfactorily explain his possession of the clothes.

In the meantime police are trying to get in communication with all who have lately suffered loss through the operation of negro thieves, in order that they might have the opportunity of visiting the "display" of dresses and coats, in the hope that the owners can identify them.

Washington's arrest and raid on his pressing club, followed trial in the Fulton superior court of Harold Tate, negro, who was being prosecuted by Detective Lowe and his partner, Jack T. Malcolm, in connection with the theft of two automobiles, and charged by Officers Brooks and McCrary with the theft of suit cases.

When the jury retired from the courtroom to consider the case against the negro, the defendant broke completely and sent for Detective Lowe, to whom he made a full and complete confession, the officer stated, implicating Washington and telling the officer that he had sold more than 27 suit cases he had stolen to Washington.

The negro pleaded with Detective Lowe to aid him in getting mercy in court, stating he was willing to enter a plea of guilty to all four indictments pending against him. Officer Lowe consulted with Assistant Solicitor General Ed A. Stephens and arranged for the negro to enter his plea. Assistant Solicitor Stephens then requested the court to postpone the passing of sentence of the negro until the detectives could complete their probe of the story as to disposition of stolen goods, and others implicated with him.

De Pinedo Report Tells of 'Bad Breaks' on Trip

Rome, February 24.—(AP)—The flight of Commander Francesco de Pinedo across the South Atlantic ocean from Porto Praya, Cape Verde islands, to the Island of Fernando Noronha, off the coast of Brazil, was a conquest, not only of the elements in their most ugly moods, but of a series of heart breaking strokes of bad luck, as related in an official report from the aviator.

The report was read tonight before the chamber of deputies by Signor Balbo, under secretary of state for aeronautics.

The report, which was made to Premier Mussolini, showed that at every moment of the flight from the arrival of the aviators at Bolama, Portuguese Guinea, to their departure for Brazil, the fliers were forced to cope with "bad breaks" which threatened at times to cut short the entire enterprise.

The accident to the plane while it was moored at Fernando Noronha, coming after previous mishaps, caused damages which were patched up hastily in the hope of reaching Buenos Aires where a thorough overhauling would be necessary. That the damage caused by rough water at Fernando Noronha was repaired sufficiently well was indicated by today's hops which carried the fliers from Fernando Noronha to Port Natal on the Brazilian coast and then south to Pernambuco.

DE PINEDO ARRIVES AT PERNAMBUCO.

JACKSONVILLE WOMAN REPORTED MISSING

Jacksonville, Fla., February 24.—(AP)—Florida and Georgia authorities tonight were being urged to assist in locating Mrs. W. E. Van Houten, 43, Jacksonville matron, who left the city Tuesday to visit relatives in Macon, Ga. She has not been heard from since leaving here and relatives feared she was suffering from an amnesia attack.

MEN WHO MADE THE WORLD

King Richard I.

By DR. ELLIOTT SHORING, NOTED HISTORIAN

RICHARD FINALLY DEVELOPED THE HABIT OF PROCEEDING WITH A FORCE ALONG THE SEASHORE, THE SHIPS FOLLOWING, HUGGING THE COAST. HE ENJOYED DOING THIS, FOR IT ENABLED HIM TO VISIT THE VARIOUS HAMLETS, TOWNS AND CITIES. AT LENGTH HE CAME TO MESSINA, THE RENDEZVOUS OF PHILIP, WHICH HE WAS DOUBLY DESIROUS OF VISITING SO HE MIGHT SEE HIS SISTER, JOHANNA. SHE HAD BEEN THE WIFE OF THE KING WHO HAD DIED SHORTLY BEFORE RICHARD'S VISIT. JOHANNA HAD BEEN SUCCEEDED BY A PRETENDER NAMED TANCRED. NOTHING COULD HAVE BEEN BETTER FROM RICHARD'S POINT OF VIEW THAN THIS SITUATION, FOR HE LOVED COMBAT OF ANY KIND, AND HERE WAS A NICE TAILOR-MADE OPPORTUNITY TO START BLOOD FLOWING. HAVING MET HIS SISTER AND FAMILIARIZED HIMSELF WITH THE SITUATION, HE SEIZED JOHANNA'S DOWER PROPERTY, WHICH TANCRED THEN HELD, PLACED A PORTION OF HIS ARMY IN POSSESSION OF IT UNDER COMMAND OF JOHANNA.

©JOHN BILLE CO

RICHARD NOW WANTED TO PREPARE HIMSELF AGAINST ATTACK BY TANCRED. THERE WAS A FINE MONASTERY ON ONE SIDE OF MESSINA THAT WOULD MAKE A GOOD FORTRESS. WITHOUT FURTER ADO, RICHARD TOOK IT. SHORTLY AFTER THIS HAD HAPPENED, TROUBLE BROKE OUT BETWEEN THE SOLDIERS OF THE ARMY AND THE PEOPLE OF MESSINA BECAUSE OF THE BRUTALITY OF RICHARD'S SOLDIERS, PARTICULARLY TOWARD YOUNG WOMEN OF THE CITY. A RIOT FOLLOWED. RICHARD CALLED A CONFERENCE OF CITIZENS FROM MESSINA AND HIS KNIGHTS TO SETTLE MATTERS. PEOPLE FROM THE CITY ASSEMBLED TO WITNESS THE CONFERENCE, BUT RICHARD ALLEGED THEY CAME TO ATTACK HIM, AND IN FURY, LED HIS ARMY AGAINST THEM. HE KILLED LARGE NUMBERS, THE OTHERS ESCAPED INTO THE CITY AND PREPARED TO DEFEND IT FROM THE WALLS. AFTER A SANGUINARY BATTLE RICHARD CONQUERED THE PLACE. FINALLY, THE QUARREL BETWEEN RICHARD AND TANCRED WAS ADJUSTED AND PREPARATIONS FOR PROCEEDING TO THE HOLY LAND BEGUN ANEW.

ALABAMA'S CLAIM GIVEN COOLIDGE

Washington, February 24.—(AP)—Alabama's right to a share in the value and revenue in the government's Muscle Shoals power dam will be asserted before the house military committee tomorrow by Governor Bibb Graves of that state, who today began his plea with a visit to President Coolidge.

He also called upon Attorney General Sargent and Secretary Davis of the war department to discuss advisability of throwing the question into the courts.

The Alabama governor contends that his state is entitled to share in all federal power sites and dams on the Tennessee river within its boundaries but lays no claim to the Muscle Shoals nitrate plants because the government purchased outright the land on which they stand.

To help him plead his case at the white house and departments and before the house committee tomorrow, Governor Graves brought with him United States Senator-elect Hugo Black, of Birmingham; Andrew Jackson Patterson, of the state public service commission; Colonel L. B. Mosgrove, of Jasper, and Judge W. E. Fort, of Birmingham.

Preparatory to his appearance before the house military committee Governor Graves conferred with Acting Chairman James and also talked over his case with Chairman McNary, of the senate agriculture committee, which has always considered the Muscle Shoals problem.

Graves is expected by members of the Alabama congressional delegation to disclose to the house committee his desire for the federal government to permit itself to be sued by Alabama principally as a test of a state's right to property within its borders operated by the federal government.

Governor Graves told attorney General Sargent that Alabama claimed absolute title and ownership and control of that portion of the Tennessee river within the state, and particularly Wilson dam and its appurtenances.

ACTION POSTPONED UNTIL SATURDAY.

Washington, February 24.—(AP)—After two hours' deliberation today the senate agriculture committee postponed action until Saturday on the Norris resolution providing for government operation of Muscle Shoals for five years.

Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, offered an amendment which would require the location at Muscle Shoals of the experimental fertilizer plants as provided in the resolution. Senator Heflin declared that under the original resolution the plants could be located anywhere the government chose and that he would insist that they be placed at Muscle Shoals.

Papers in Berlin Take Up Cudgels To Aid Chaplin

Berlin, February 24.—(United News.)—Arraigning the American attitude toward women and marriage as being marked by "sentimental barbarism," the press of Berlin is heaping imprecations on the United States for criticism of Charlie Chaplin during his divorce scandal.

The "crimes" of the motion picture star are analyzed ironically by the liberal magazine Weltbuehne, which is conducted along lines similar to those of The American Mercury.

Third, "sad but true, Charlie is naturally a bad husband."

He courted disaster, the magazine continues, when he passed many Sundays reading books instead of washing the family automobile or tinkering with the radio.

"This literary interest aroused suspicions," the Weltbuehne declares, "because Charlie, already successful, no longer needed to display such a hobby."

The newspaper campaign was opened by the Berlin Tagelblatt which published a series of articles from Arnold Hoellriegel, its Hollywood, Calif., correspondent, arraigning American newspapermen for intruding on Chaplin's private affairs. Later Arnold Ulitz, a modernist, published a poem describing the American people as a pack of hounds barking at innocent Charlie's heels.

G. & F. ROAD TO OPEN BIDS ON EXTENSION

Augusta, Ga., February 24.—(AP)—Bids will be received Friday for the construction of the 60-mile extension of the Georgia and Florida railroad from Augusta to Greenwood, S. C., via Edgefield. The project will involve an expenditure of about $2,000,000, and it is expected that actual construction work will begin about March 15.

According to Chief Engineer H. B. Holmes, it will take several days to canvass the bids and agree on essential details, but provision has been made to have four crews of workers to be employed on the project, one of which will start from Augusta and work northward, while one will start at Greenwood and come south, and two other squads will work out of Edgefield to meet the others.

Events of Spring—1861.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

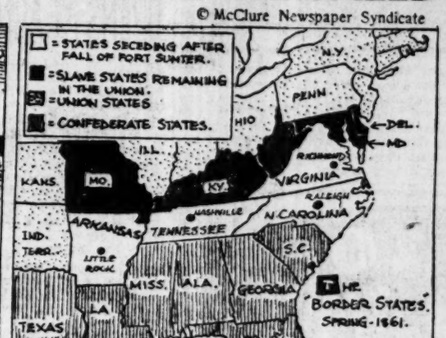

AT THE BEGINNING OF HIS ADMINISTRATION (MARCH, 1861), LINCOLN HAD BEEN OPPOSED BY A DEMOCRATIC MAJORITY IN SENATE AND HOUSE. BY THE WITHDRAWAL OF SOUTHERN MEMBERS UPON THE OUTBREAK OF WAR, HE GAINED THE SUPPORT OF CONGRESS. THE DECLARATION OF WAR ALSO INVESTED LINCOLN WITH THE FULL WAR-TIME POWERS OF THE PRESIDENT AS COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF OF ARMY AND NAVY.

THE SOUTHERNERS HAD HOPED TO RECEIVE VALUABLE ASSISTANCE FROM THE NORTHERN DEMOCRATS WHO HAD LONG SHOWN SYMPATHY FOR THE SOUTH, BUT THE ATTACK ON SUMTER BLASTED THIS HOPE. WHEN HOSTILITIES BEGAN, DOUGLAS AND OTHER DEMOCRATIC LEADERS IN THE NORTH OFFERED LINCOLN THEIR SUPPORT AND DURING THE CONFLICT "WAR DEMOCRATS" VIED WITH REPUBLICANS IN THEIR LOYALTY TO THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT.

AT THE TIME OF THE BOMBARDMENT OF FORT SUMTER, THERE WERE EIGHT SLAVE STATES STILL IN THE UNION. FOUR OF THEM, ARKANSAS, VIRGINIA, NORTH CAROLINA, AND TENNESSEE, WERE OPPOSED TO SECESSION, BUT BELIEVED THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT HAD NO RIGHT TO USE FORCE TO PREVENT A STATE FROM SECEDING.

KNOWING THEY WOULD HAVE TO FIGHT FOR OR AGAINST THE SOUTH, THESE FOUR STATES REFUSED TO OBEY LINCOLN'S CALL FOR TROOPS AND SPEEDILY JOINED THE CONFEDERACY (ARKANSAS, MAY 4; VIRGINIA, MAY 17; NORTH CAROLINA, MAY 20, AND TENNESSEE, JUNE 24).

DIRIGIBLE SEARCHES FOR MISSING FLIERS

Newport News, Va., February 24. (AP)—The army dirigible TC-5 left Langley field this morning for Lakehurst, N J., to aid in the search for Lieutenants William H. Gray and Willard Harris, who have been missing since they took off from Mitchel field, New York, for Langley field last Friday. Parts of an airplane believed to be the one in which the two lieutenants left New York, were found along the New Jersey coast. Army officers have given up hope of finding the missing men alive and are anxious to find their bodies as quickly as possible. The TC-5, piloted by Lieutenant Gray for several years, will spend several days in the search along the New Jersey coast.

STUDENT CONFERENCE OPENS AT AGNES SCOTT

Declaring the purpose of the conference to be "an attempt to give current international matters an airing in the minds of students," David Lockmiller, of Emory university, president of the Southern Students' Conference on International Relations, officially set the meeting in motion in his short address of welcome at Agnes Scott chapel at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Lockmiller stated that there was no expectation in the minds of this group of several hundred students to give the world a cure for its international ills, "but to hear the facts from men who know, and then attempt to draw individual and accurate conclusions."

Dr. J. R. McCain, president of Agnes Scott, delivered the address of welcome to the whole conference in behalf of Atlanta and Decatur, to delegates represent 27 colleges, embracing 10 southern states. Speeches by H. H. Jones, president of Emory International Relations club, and Miss Georgia Watson, president of the Agnes Scott group followed with welcomes from their groups. Miss Myrtle Cannon, of LaGrange college, and C. M. Lee, of Wofford, fittingly responded for the conference.

An informal reception at the Agnes Scott alumni house for all the delegates and visitors immediately followed the welcoming address.

At 1 o'clock Thursday, officers, committees and speakers were given a luncheon at Agnes Scott.

At 8 o'clock Thursday evening Emory met Furman university in a no-decision debate at Agnes Scott chapel on the subject: "Resolved, That the United States Should Cancel Its European War Debts." Emory was represented by Warren Cox and Glenn Rainey, of Atlanta, and Furman by S. H. Jones and Charles Fondeburk, of South Carolina.

The sessions Friday will all be held at Emory in the theology chapel. At 9:30 o'clock, Dr. Emmett Kilpatrick of University of South Carolina, will deliver the first address of the day on "Soviet Russia From a Moscow Dungeon." Dr. Kilpatrick was a captain in the United States army in 1917-19. From 1919-20, he was with the Lithuanian army against Russia and in 1920-21, with General Wrangel's white army against the soviets. He also served as a member of the Alabama legislature.

Round Table Talks.

Round table discussions, led by Dr. P. S. Flippin, dean of the graduate school and professor of history at Mercer university, and C. B. Gosnell, Carnegie fellow in international law, Princeton university, will be in order at 10:30. The subjects for these discussions are "The Secretariat of the League of Nations" and "Compulsory Arbitration of International Disputes." These will be followed by a business session.

At 2:30 o'clock, Professor E. H. Henderson, professor of philosophy at University of Georgia, will address the conference on "The Present Status of Youth Movements." Huntington Gilchrist, Auburn, N. Y., former member of the administrative commissions sections of the League of Nations, will speak at 8:30 o'clock on "Prospects for Further Consolidation in Europe for 1927."

An informal dinner will be given at 7 o'clock at the new Emory dining hall for all the delegates and speakers.

NEGRO PORTER FOILS THREE DUSKY BANDITS

Three dusky bandits Thursday night nursed bruised shins following an unsuccessful attempt to hold up and rob John B. Green, manager of the gasoline filling station at 554 West Peachtree street—an attempt frustrated by the quick wit of the negro porter employed at the auto fueling depot.

A dilapidated automobile rolled onto the sidewalk near the filling station, stopped and three dark shapes emerged cautiously and glances about showed the coast to be clear and likewise revealed Green at his desk in the filling station counting out the day's receipts. Several soft steps, and two of the bandits stepped into the office, one remaining outside on guard.

Then, like a bolt out of the same blue sky Green was reaching for, from behind the door of the office a voice called out: "Get to hell outa here."

Three negro bandits, eyes popping at this sudden threat from an unseen source, forgot all about those enticing bills and coins, and with one accord raced for the dilapidated automobile.

Members of the committee arrived in the city Thursday night, and a full attendance of the membership of 12 is expected at the session.

BIG-FOOTED BURGLAR ENTERS THREE HOMES

The mystery of the 13-inch foot deepened Thursday night when the negro burglar owning these extremely long shoes entered three apartments in the Piedmont Park section.

Footprints found on the bedcover under a rear window jimmied in the apartment of H. T. Moore, at 133 East Tenth street, first revealed the presence of the negro in that section Thursday night. Mr. Moore told Detectives H. W. Armstrong and J. M. Austin that he missed a pistol and some clothing after the burglar's visit.

Entering the apartment of Miss Ernestine Hornaday at 121 East Eighth street, the big-footed burglar was scared away when Miss Hornaday walked in upon him from another room. Miss Hornaday screamed and fainted when the burglar pointed a gun at her and, frightened, the negro escaped from the apartment, she told police.

The apartment of Miss Dorothy Nichols, also at 121 East Eighth street, was visited by the burglar, but so far as could be ascertained, nothing was taken.

STORE BANDIT CASE TO GRAND JURY TODAY

Indictment by the Fulton county grand jury today of Monte P. Wilson, alleged holdup man, on the charge of holding up and robbing the Newark Shoe company store on Peachtree stree: early Wednesday night, is expected by Detectives J. M. Austin and H. W. Armstrong, who are in charge of the case.

The charge of holdup and robbery against Wilson, which was expected to have been heard before Recorder A. W. Callaway Thursday afternoon, was continued to give the detectives opportunity to complete investigations. They announced Thursday night that they would be ready to present their evidence before the grand jury today.

Police Thursday were combing the city for a man believed to have been a confederate of Wilson in the holdup. He is charged with looting the store of $104, but when captured only $33 was found on him. Police express belief that he turned over the balance of his loot to a waiting confederate somewhere along his line of flight.

A. Lamar Poole, chief of detectives, also was looking into possibilities that Wilson, who claims to be from New York, may know something of recent holdups of two banks in Jacksonville, Fla., in which a sum of about $15,000 was stolen. He said he had recently been in Florida.
